DENIES DESCRIPTION STORY.—Mrs. Albert E Young, of East Ankeny street, yes-terday made a denial of the statement that she had been deserted by her husthat she had been deserted by her hus-band and left pennifuss. "I have not been deserted by my husband," said she, "and it is not true that he left the city with another woman. Neither is it true that he left me penniless or depending upon my neighbors. Mr. Young is out of the city but he gave me money before he left. The rent is paid, and I am not in distress or dependent upon charity." "Strangiet" Smith, the wrestler, denied yesterday that he is a cousin of the Young brothers. Carring Concealed Weapons Charges.

CARRYING CONCEALED WEAPONS CHARGE CARRYING CONCEALED WEAFONS CHARGE.—Frank Denart, a bartender, was taken to the City Jail yesterday on the charge of carrying concealed weapons, after an altercation at 420 o'clock in the morning. Denari says that the chauffeur tried to assault him with a heavy wrench. The case will be heard in the Municipal Court

ELES WILL GIVE DANCE.—On Friday night the next regular social and hop conducted by the Portland Ledge, No. 142, B. P. O. E., will be held at Murlark hall. Hitherto it has been customary to invite all friends of the order, but Friday night it will be a strictly Elk affair. The principal reason for making it an exclusive affair is because the dances have become so popular that there is a tendency to overcrowd the hall, and the members have decided to enjoy comfort among themselves. New Bills Open at the Vaudeville Houses

OR those patrons of vaudeville who like a "girly" bill there is lots to attract to the Orpheum this week. The programme is an average good one, with one or two acts that might be left off without loss, but offering a majority of turns that score heavily. That's the advantage vaudeville has over the "legit." If an act is tiresome it is likely to be followed by one that will make the staid old veterans in the audience sit up and clap their hands; while in a play you must watch the antics of the offending ones until the final fall of the curtain. Featured is Clara Belle Jerom, who is assisted by William Seymour and the "Eight Dancing Toodles" in a spectacular musical comedy entitled "Joyland." The rising of the curtain discloses a wheat field, the grain in shocks and a small patch of green corn stalks in an enclosure. Miss Jerome, who is goodly to look upon, slugs a little duet with Mr. Seymour. Earle Reynolds and Nellie Donegan present one of the most novel acts ever seen on a local stage. In picturesque costumes that are a riot of color, amidst beautiful effects of lighting, these two go through a series of musical comedy dance hits, on ball-bearing roller skates. Among the difficult and amazingly intricate introductions are the buck and wing dance, the Parisian Apache the "Soul Kiss" waltz, the Tourbillion whirlwind dance, the parquay dance from "Miss Innocence," the "Red Mill" schottische and George Cohan's "Yankee Prince" waltz. Miss Donegan is a veritable wonder on skates and her "Human Musical Top," in which she played a mandolin while whirling almost as rapidly as a top, brought forth hearty and unrestrained appliause.

William Flemen is billed as an effer-vescent comedian, but he lacks consid-erable of "effervescing." Those of his jokes that are not suffering from senile decay are flat and tasteless. He opens his act with a song that is far from well, but is much to be preferred to his monologue, Orton E. Goodwin, an Oregonian reporter, lies in a critical condition at Good Samaritan Hospital from the effects of a double operation performed yesterday for removal of an internal ulcer and of the appendix. Three days must elapse before the outcome can be determined.

Mr. Goodwin's present illness was brought on by a terrible burn inflicted on his right arm last July through the blunder of a drug clerk at the store of Rowe & Martin. This clerk bound upon the young man's arm as a remedy for mosquito bites a bandage which he saturated with pure carbolic acid.

operation would be necessary and was made aware of its gravity, Mr. Goodwin never flinched. He wrote and addressed a letter to his mother in England, direct-ing that it be sent only in case of his death, summoned an attorney and made his will and made the rounds of The Oregonian office, bidding his associates good-by, saying he hoped soon to come back to work for good.

At the hospital late last night it was said Mr. Goodwin was resting easily.

THE STORY OF THE PEANUT

As everyone knows, C. W. Post, of Battle Creek, Michigan, is not only a maker of breakfast foods, but he is a strong individualist who believes that the trades-unions are a menace to the liberty of the country.

Believing this, and being a "naturalborn" scrapper for the right, as he sees it, Post, for several years past, has been engaged in a ceaseless warfare against "the Labor Trust," as he likes to call it. Not heing able to secure free and untrammeled expression of his opinions on this subject through the regular reading pages of the newspapers he has bought advertising space for this purpose, just as he is accustomed to for the telling of his Postum "story," and he has spent hundreds of thousands of dollars in denouncing trades-unionism, the teiling of his Postum "story," and he has spent hundreds of thousands of dollars in denouncing trades-unionism. As a result of Post's activities the people now know a whole lot about these organizations; how they are honeycombed with graft, how they are honeycombed with graft, how they obstruct the development of legitimate business, curtail labor's output, hold up manufacturers, graft upon their own membership, and rob the public. Naturally Post is hated by the trades-unionists, and intensely.

He employs no union labor, so they can not call out his men, and he defles their efforts at boycotting his products. The latest means of "getting" Post is the widespread publication of the story that a car which was recently wrecked in transmission was found to be loaded with empty peanut shells, which were being shipped from the south to Post's establishment at Battle Creek.

This canard probably originated with President John Filtzwership of the Crief.

This canard probably originated with President John Flitzgerald, of the Chi-cago Federation of Labor, who, it is said, stated it publicly, as truth.

said, stated it publicly, as truth.

Post comes back and gives Fitzgerald the lie direct. He denounces Fitzgeraid's statement as a deliberate falsehood, an underhanded and cowardly attempt to injure his business, having not the slightest basis in fact. As such an effort it must be regarded. It is significant that this statement about "the peanut shells" is being given wide newspaper publicity. In the "patent inside" of an eastern country paper I find it, and the inference naturally is find it, and the inference naturally is that labor-unionites are insidiously that labor-unionites are insidiously spreading this lie.

An institution (or a man) which will resort to moral intimidation and to physical force, that will destroy machinery and burn buildings, that will maim and kill if necessary to effect its ends, naturally would not hesitate to spread falsehood for the same purposes.

We admire Post. While we have no congilibrists who entertain. "A Detective Detected" is the title for a furny farcelet, played by the Hickman brothers assisted by Betta Merrill. Oddly enough the skit has a semblance of a plot, and the situations are amusing.

From beginning to end the bill is one of the best seen at the popular house in some moons.
