We offered to compromise by recom mending leniency, but Selkirk would

An investigation of the record con firmed the assertion that Selkirk had admitting possessing an opinion. Attorney Heney had but one challenge left at the time, while the defense possessed seven. The prosecutor concluded to take a chance with Selkirk after ascertaining that the juror was not antagonistic to land-fraud prosecutions, and, believing that the sole challenge left might be required to remove a juror more hostile to the Government.

It was ascertained that the jury took On the first vote Jurors Selkirk, Stone, Skolfield and Stephens voted for the acquittal of Hermann, while Jurors Myers, Pearson, Thompson, Simmons, Metcalf, Houck, Smock son, Simmons, Metcalf, Houck, Smock and Risler cast their ballots for con-Up to the 12th ballot there was no change. At the next vote, it is said, Skolfield, Stone and Stephens joined the jurymen who believed the Government had proven its case against Hermann, but Selkirk remained firm for acquittal.

At 9:30 o'clock the jurors, responding to the call of Judge Wolverton, filed into the courtroom. Hermann and all the attorneys were present. "Gentlemen of the jury, have you Jury Would Wait Longer.

There does not seem to be much hope," answered the foreman. "Up to last night there was some chance of an last night there was some chance of an agreement, and we had made some progress. We also advanced a little way this morning, but there is one point upon which it would appear we cannot agree. I would like to have the jurors speak for themselves. There is a majority who think we can finally agree."

Juror Risier had asked Judge Wolverton not to discharge the jury at that stage of the proceedings, when Juror Selkirk arose with the question as to duty when a member of the panel was possessed of a conscientious conviction.

When the jury was discharged, Attorney Heney moved immediately that a second trial of the case be set for February 21. Informed by the court that the jury would not return until February 28, the prosecutor requested that the second effort to convict Her-mann begin on that date. Attorney Gearln opposed the motion, saying that Attorney Worthington had left for Washington to take up important cases and could not possibly return by that date. He reminded Attorney Heney that Attorney Worthington had informed the Government of the situa-tion and expected ample time to ar-range his affairs to be able to take part in the hearing. Attorney Heney declared that he had been instructed by the Department of Justice to dispose of the land-fraud cases without un-necessary delay, and that he would demand a trial at an early date. Mrs-Heney announces that he has no intention of abandoning the case.

In the upper hall of the Federal building Jurors Smock, Houck. Pearson, Metcaif and Stephens crowded around Attorney Heney and shook hands with Hermann's own testimony, said Juror Houck, was largely responsible for the decided majority for conviction. When the Government rested its case, Attorney Heney had so shaped the case that it became necessary for Hermann to take the stand. Houck criticised the manner in which Hermann fenced with the Government prosecutor and was of the opinion that the one instance Hermann contradicted himself tended to discredit all his testimony. This contradiction came after Hermann had testified that the President did not have authority to incorporate a clause in proclamations establishing forest reserves to cause lieu land to be exchanged for lands of equal value. Hermann later identified a letter wherein he had recommended that exact action.

The Jury was also influenced by testimony from the Washington trial wherein Hermann had denied, ever having sent any letters or telegrams to F. S. Mays, and challenged the Government to produce such evidence. In the present trial Hermann's letter and telegrams were action in deciding to put him to trial. The Government is ready to try the case again immediately, or at any time that Mr. Hermann and his attorneys can be ready to go to trial. Colonel Worthington was here from a long distance, however, and had urgent business matters awaiting him in Washington, D. C., and consequently I did not feel justified in insisting upon setting the case for trial again at this time.

At is a curious fact that the one jugor who hung out for acquittal was secured after the defendant had used all of the challenges allowed to him under the law as it existed until the last session of Congrass which increased the number of challenged allowed to the defendant in this kind of a case from three to ten. When the jury was being empanaled the court ruled that the defendant was entitled to have the benefit of that statute, and it was only by reason of that ruling that Mr. Selkir was secured as a juror.

I expect, to remain here all of this week, and longer if necessary. I will determine within the next few days what disposition I will make at this time of the remaining cases.

My experiences in Oregon has deeply impressed me with the high sense of civic duty possessed by the average of juracs who are called into the Federal Courts for duty. I believe that the standard of citizenship and sense of personal obligation in the enforcement of the inwa is as high in this state as in any other state in the Union. Oregon is to be congratulated upon the character of the masses of its citizenship.

Brewster has reached Nome to recount his terrible experience. His journey down the Koyukuk was beset with terrible privations and multiplied hardships. He was making his way from Chandler to Beetles, and had food but for three down from Chandler to Beetles, and had food but for three days. In taking a short cut he missed Beetles and struck the river below where the store is located. On the sixth day out his condition became desperate. He feared that if he slept he would freeze to death, and almost exhausted with hunger he killed one of his dogs for food. For the next few days he went without food, and then, growing weaker, and realizing that his team could not hold out much longer, he killed another dog to satisfy his own hunger and the ravenous appetites of the team.

Five days later, with death again at his elbow, a third dog was sacrified. On the 16th day he staggered into the telegraph station at the mouth of the river, where he was immediately given medical attention and nursed back to normal health.

medical attention and nursed back to normal health. One of his hands was badly frozen, and his face was scarred in many places by the cold.

Peter Munson, another Kongardk miner, reports an even worse experience. He became lost in a bliggard while on a stampede to locate claims on the Pilgrim River on New Year's day, and was taken to nome for treatment. Both feet and hands were go badly frozen that all four members had to be amputated. Notwithstanding this, gangrene set in, and Munsen became a gangrene set in, and Munsen became a raving maniac. By this time he has probably found release from his suf-ferings in death, as there was no hope of his recovery.

WESTERN LAND & IRRIGATION CO.

At Echo, Umatilla County, Oregon, on the Columbia.

Butter Creek lands of this project are the richest and most fertile lands in the world. They are noted for their exceptional productiveness. These lands produce as high as 1200 bushels of onions to the acre, other things in similar proportion. What they produce is phenomenal. For intensified farming there is no better land. Here a five and ten-acre tract will make a family an independent living. Those wanting to locate on the heighth of perfection, on land having the greatest productivity, it is here on Butter Creek. Here it is not only an opportunity to make money, but to be located in the most favorable climate, the coming country of this Northwest, with transportation at your door, and markets of the world. For fruit of all kinds incident to a semi-tropical climate, here is the opportunity of all opportunities. Here you have the most favored climate as well. Here you have social advantages and the like. Here you will, in another year, be located on the main line of the O. R. & N.

'This favored land has been held back all these years on account of the inability of the local people to supply an irrigating system, but over two years ago the Western Land & Irrigation Co. took a hand in, and after spending over one-half million dollars, has completed the most perfect irrigating system of this Western country. We also have some forty-acre snaps. The analysis of the soils show it to be superior for fruits to those of our now famous districts.

Aside from all this, a home is a comfort, as well as a big money-maker. We are now prepared to take contracts, in five and ten-acre tracts up. Don't fail to get to the bottom of this opportunity, the PREMIER irrigated land of the WORLD.

The Land of Last Great Opportunities

The majority of people scarcely know hat there is a "Central" British Co-that there is a "Central" Ersusa lumbla.

We are accustomed to think of everything north of Asheroft or Kamboloops as "Northern British Columbia." This is a great mistake.

British Columbia is the largest province in the Dominion of Canada.

But of all British Columbia, there is only one part which possesses such a splendid forest and mineral wealth as well as a wast area of agricultural land; there is, therefore, only one part that is capable of supporting a wast population.

This is Central British Columbia—that great Inland Empire which lies between the Rockies and Cascades, through which the Grand Trunk Pacific will run, and into which several other lines of railway are building.

The official publication of the Grand Trunk Pacific Ry. States:

"It is probable that no other area in North America can equal this portion of British Columbia in her natural resources. It is in truth a northern Eldorado, which future events are bound to verify. The climatic conditions have in the past been supposed to be severe during the Winter season, but the fallacy of this impression is rapidly being made known on account of the reverse conditions actually existing, due in large part to the proximity of this territory to the Pacific Ocean and the influence of the Japan current."

MINERAL WEALTH

Central British Columbia possesses in the Cariboo and Findlay River districts what are in all probability the richest mineral deposits on the continent.

It contains numerous deposits of coal of splendid quality.

It is flanked on either hand by the splendid forests of the Eastern Slopes of the Cascades and the Western slopes of the Rockies.

Above all, Central British Columbia contains an area of millions of acres of agricultural land.

WORLD'S LAND HUNGER.

In discussing the food needs of the In discussing the food needs of the fast-increasing population the world over, P. A. O'Farrel, United States Pure Food Commissioner, in the New York World of November 7th, said: "When Lincoln was elected there were 31,000,-000 people in the United States. Next year's census will tell of 93,000,000 inhabitants. As James J. Hill forcibly said, the day is fast approaching when the farmer will be king, and when there is land hunger will set the price of necessities of life.
"France, alone among nations" he of necessities of life.

'France, alone among nations," he continued, "has put agriculture in the forefront of all industry, and France is supreme and alone among nations in her economic and financial strength. You cannot buy an acre of good agricultural land today in France for $1000. "The day of cheap farm land is vanishing.

"And this leads me to say that Western Canada and British Columbia are the last great and valuable divisions of the world left for the white man to transform from wilderness to smilling and fruitful countries.

LAST GREAT WEST.

"Western Canada has 200,000,000 acress of the richest wheat and pasture lands waiting for settlement. British Columbia has 50,000,414 acres of rich land waiting to be transformed into orchard, meadow, garden and grain field. These 250,000,000 acres of virgin land can be made to produce food to support 200,000,000 people. And within 20 years this great undeveloped area will all have to come into cultivation to meet the rapidly expanding demands of the world.

"And let me tell The Western was waited to the real the rapidly expanding demands of the world.

the rapidly expanding demands of the world.

"And let me tell The World that the most glorious country of the future is British Columbia. It covers an erea greater than the British Isles. Belgium, Holland, Denmark and the German Empire combined. Its climate is superior to that of England and France, and indeed to that of any country on this earth of ours. Its fisheries are the most abundant of any nation on this or any other continent. It has 182,900,000 acres of standing timber of priceless commercial value. The energy of 25,000,000 horses runs waste in its mighty rivers. Its internal water highways can be formed into the most wonderful system of waterways and power developers.

derful system of waterways and power developers.

"It is another interesting and curious fact that British Columbia has the lowest taxes, the wisest executive and the most progressive Parliament of any in the world. Eighty-seven per cent of the revenue of the country is supplied from royaltles, Expanding revenues and increasing surpluses is the story told year after year to Parliament by its finance minister. The government, is suffering from an embarrassment of riches."

Fort George

This is the new townsite on the Grand Trunk Pacific (transcontinental) Raliway—half way between Edmonton and Prince Rupert and in the geographical center of British Columbia.

At the present time three lines of steamhoats ply out of Fort George, on 1000 miles of navigable waterways of which Fort George is the innetton.

Fort George is the terminus or on the line of seven different railways which are building or projected. Several steamhoats and numerous barges are being constructed to take care of the increasing traffic.

The moment the first railway reaches Fort George, this enormously rich agricultural, mining, coal and timber country tributary to 1000 miles of navigable waterways will be open for development; and the immense tonnage from these waterways will be transferred to the various lines of railway at Fort George.

Fort George is the gateway to the Nechacco, Bulkley, Fraser, Pence River and other valleys, and to the Cariboo, Yukon and Inginika mining districts.
