COURT REFUSES TO REHEAR ROSS CASE

Five-Year Sentence Is Affirmed, but Fine Is Set Aside.

DISSENTS

Ex-Banker, Convicted of Wrongful Conversion of State Money, Will Now Prepare for Appeal to United States Court.

SALEM, Or., Feb. 15.—(Special.)— The Supreme Court today denied the The Supreme Court today desied the petition of J. Thorburn Ross, president of the defunct Title Guarantee & Trust Company, for a rehearing. The findings of the lower court are affirmed, but are modified to the extent that the fine of $575,853.74 is set aside. Justice King dissents from the opinion of the court in a brief statement.

The opinion of the court is written by Justice Eakin. After a general dis-cussion of the act of 1907 as applied to this case, it is hald that "the con-clusion is unavoidable, that this act only contemplates general deposits of funds other than the educational, and for which interest shall be paid. It was evidently the purpose of the legislature, by these provisions, to take the educational funds out of that custom or right of the treasurer to make general deposits as recognized in Baker vs. Williams, It is not held in the opinion that the Trust company or the defendants were officers of the state, but the Act of 1907 authorizes their possession of state money for the state. of state money for the state. *

When the treasurer deposits the money, as directed by the Act of 1907, his personal liability therefor is terminated, although it is still subject to

Company Received Money.

The depository does not receive the money for him, but for the state, that is, by express direction of the law and not at the option of the treasurer. The trust company and defendants did receive this money for the state by special authorization, and are as clearly within the very words of the state.

special authorization, and are as clearly within the very words of the statutes as the treasurer would be."

It is held that "this is not a case where some other officer converted the money and defendant is held responsible for that act, by reason of his relation to the bank. There is nothing in the record to disclose that any other officer wrongfully converted the money. * * The wrongful act was done by the officers and directors who made the arrangements to receive the special deposit and permitted it to be mingled with its general deposit without restriction upon its use."

In answer to the plea that the indictment was insufficient, the appellate court declares "there is nothing left doubtful as to the particular acts constituting the offense."

ROSS OPENS WAY FOR APPEAL

Convicted Banker Would Escape Sentence on Technicality.

Ross' attorneys have opened the way for taking their case into the Federal Court, thereby postponing the time when their client must go to the Pentientiary. Wallace McCamant, chief counsel, is in California, however.

The point was made on appeal of the case to the Supreme Court that Ross was arrested upon an information by the District Attorney, instead of an indictment by the grand jury. The point made was that the law passed by the last Oregon Legislature, changing the criminal practice of the state from the District Attorney system to the grand jury system was ney system to the grand jury system was reactive, and would compel the submis-sion of all pending cases to the grand

31 and was instructed particularly to call at the almost unfinhabited Kerguelen Islands, where it is hoped some trace may be found of the big liner.

It is estimated that £14,500 is payable to the relatives of 115 members of the Waratah's crew, under the workmen's compensation act.

The total distance covered by the steamer Sabine, which made the longest and most complete search for the Waratah, was 14,700 miles.

One of the most interesting points regarding the strike is the benefit Japan gained by it.

The first shipment of this Japanese

No difficulty was experienced in getting the wharf-laborers to handle the foreign coal. There are still 91 steamers tied up in Sydney alone.

The chief efforts of the government have been directed toward supplying the railways and mail-steamers. At Sydney the Federated Seamen's Union

WASHINGTON SUPREME COURT RENDERS BIG DECISION.

Valuable Tract of Land Near Bremerton Navy-Yard Involved in Action Dismissed at Olympia.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Feb. 15 .- (Special.)-Fred A. Ballin, of Portland, won a victory here today when the State Supreme Court dismissed a decision of the Kitsap County Superior Court against him and ordered the suit dismissed, as barred both by the statute of limitations and by equity.
Years ago, on a visit to the Sound, Mr.
Ballin met Lewis A. Gassaway, who had an option of purchase covering 568 lots in Charleston, near the navy-yard. For a half interest in the property Ballin put up $519, to be paid on the option, and later wrote offering to advance the additional $250 necessary to close the deal, the advance to be repaid from first sales. He heard nothing from Gassaway, and finalheard nothing from Gassaway, and final-ly made another trip to Seattle and found Gassaway had invested $260 in a coul option and lost it. Ballin then put up $250 more, induced Gassaway to mortgage the property for the balance, $550, of the purchase price, and Ballin took a deed to the property, but gave a contract to divide proceeds with Gassaway from sales after his advancements were regard.

vancements were repaid. Gazsaway held out $50 of the mortgage money to pay some of his personal debts, sold some of the property for $50 and pocketed all but $10 of the payment, and then Ballin called the contract off. Seven years later, when the property had quad-rupled in value, Gassaway brought suit for an accounting and won in the lower court. The Supreme Court says tersely he will get nothing and must pay all the

VICTORIA, B. C., Feb. 15.—(Special.)—
The highest price that has yet been paid for Victoria real estate—inside property not on a main business thoroughfare—is recorded in a transfer to Lee Long & Brothers, a Chinese business house, of a fragment of a lot on Broad street owned by R. P. Clark, at the rate of $6000 a front

Lee Long & Brothers have just com-pleted a new brick and concrete block occupying the corner of Broad and Johnson streets. After the last plasterer and painter had left, Mr. Clark discovered that the Chinese firm in building had overlapped his property by two inches. Minutest and most careful measurements were made; surveyors employed by the Chinese confirmed the verdict. There was no question of the two-inch trespass was no question of the two-inch frespass being a fact. So Mr. Clark politely requested his new neighbors to take their building off of his two inches. Negotiations followed, as a result of which the Chinamen paid $1000 and costs and have a clear deed to the two inches of prop-

Good Ethical Dentistry.

Whatever may have been our previ-

Whatever may have been our previous conceptions, there is nothing expressed or implied in the code of ethics which prevents a dentist conducting his business on profit-producing lines, so long as he conducts it on the square-deal principle, "honor."

The dentist is free to educate his patients to the appreciation of good dentistry. This means that he may tell his patients what good dentistry is and what it can do.

This does not mean that he shall unduly aggrandize himself. Assuredly it does not mean that he should belittle another. Mere worldly wisdom would indicate that the dentist refrain from self praise. It is an exhibition of weakness quickly perceived by others and never forgotten. It intimates that a man cannot safely leave it to others to praise him for his work, but that he fears it will not be done unless he selzes the opportunity to do it for himself. The same form of wisdom shows the folly of belittling another or his work. Such a course reveals a mean soul. It declares plainly that as he would take advantage of one who is not present to defend himself, so he would take advantage of the patient in those ways where the patient's knowledge he not sufficient to protect him. It habeis the belittler as unworthy. This habit is a boomerang in the hands of him who practices it and it often returns to wreak damage on him who launched it. That wisdom which looks only to results shows the advisability of refraining from criticism of the absent dentist or of making some excuse for his lack of success. It is far better to say "There are now methods which permit success in this work," than to say "There are now methods which permit success in this work," that to say "There are now methods which permit success in this work," the af fellow practitioner. We have and are running a crusade against poor dentistry, the dental parlor (bargain counter type) and we laud good work no matter by whom it is done.
