BILLBOARD BILL HALTED

COUNCIL COMMITTEE RECOMMENDS "NO PASSAGE."

Garbage Crematory Loses Also, but Council Will Undoubtedly Pass Appropriation.

By unanimous vote yesterday, the City Council Committee on health and police recommended that the proposed billboard ordinance, drafted by Councilman Ellis, do not pass.

On the ordinance appropriating $10,000 for construction of a garbage crematory, the vote was two to one that it do not pass. The action relative to the billboards will undoubtedly be sustained by the Council next Wednesday, but the other will probably be passed.

Owing to the provisions of Councilman Ellis' proposed ordinance to regulate billboards, the committee voted unanimously to reject it. These were limiting the height of the boards and compelling the company to secure consent of the majority of the property owners before placing any of the boards on a block. Councilmen Lombard, Watkins and Conannon, comprising the committee, took the view that such provisions were unconstitutional, and therefore, they stated, rejected the entire measure.

This is the bill in which Mayor Simon is deeply interested. It having been drafted by Mr. Ellis at the Mayor's request, the Council should act favorably, the Board of Health having rejected all bids. Lombard, the committee chairman, and Councilman Conannon voted against the ordinance, which will come up for action next Wednesday morning.

The crematory muddle seems near a solution, and next Wednesday, it is believed, the ordinance carrying the appropriation will be passed, as requested by Mayor Simon and the Board of Health, even with Councilman De-lin absent. If it is the Board will at once call for bids, and, upon selecting one, will at once proceed with the construction of the crematory, which will be built on the site of the present one on Gull's Lake.

MAN SAVED UPSIDE DOWN John O'Brien Pulled From River by Hook in Seat of Trousers.

John O'Brien, while staggering about the Ash-street dock Thursday night, fell into the river, 20 feet below. Members of the crew of the steamer Ruth, moored at the wharf, saw the man fall and threw him life-preservers and ropes, but the man in the water was not sufficiently "awake" to take advantage of them.

George Weston, deckhand on the Ruth, saw O'Brien's danger and caught the hook of a long pikepole in the seat of the drowning man's trousers and pulled him from the water. The trousers held with-out ripping, and O'Brien, sobbing by his rescue, thanked his rescuers and hurried away as he heard the police patrol approaching in answer to a hurry call that had been sent in.

LOBSTERS COMING WEST

YAQUINA BAY CHOSEN LOCATION FOR PROPAGATION.

Eastern Fish to Be Shipped to Pacific Coast for Experiment by Government Bureau.

Under the direction of the Government fisheries bureau an experiment of considerable magnitude is to be made on the Oregon Coast in the propagation of Eastern lobsters.

Negotiations have been opened for the transportation of a carload of young lobsters from the Atlantic Coast over the Harriman line to Yaquina Bay and the company has agreed to carry them over its lines free of cost, believing that the effort may result in the establishment of an industry of importance in Oregon.

Yaquina Bay has been chosen after investigations made at various points in the effort to secure a breeding ground as near like the Eastern habitat of the lobster as possible. Individual experiments, it is said, have heretofore been made at Puget Sound points and have been attended by more or less favorable results, but these experiments have been on a small scale. The lobsters commonly found in the Portland markets are taken from California waters and differ materially from the Eastern lobster as does the Pacific Coast oyster from the Eastern oyster.

The California lobster is a sort of overgrown shrimp and does not possess the large, meaty claws of the Eastern lobster.

Ordinance Found Menace Mayor Finds Loophole in Permit for Blasting.

Mayor Simon yesterday filed a message vetoing an ordinance passed by the City Council last session, granting to T. A. Sweeney a permit to do blasting in Riverside Homestead tract. The Mayor objects to the loose language of the measure, declaring that it does not properly protect the public, and proceeds to make suggestions for additional provisions—the first time during his term of office that he has done such a thing.

His suggestions are: Limiting the quantity of powder to be used, the amount thereof to be determined by the City Engineer. Providing that before any blast is put off sentries shall be placed upon the highways in the immediate vicinity where the blasting is done so as to warn persons traveling in the vicinity of the danger that may be apprehended from such blasting.

Provide that the City Engineer should be notified so that he may have someone on the ground before putting out any blast, if he deems the same necessary. Prohibiting in the blasting what is known as "bulldozing."

Provide that the authority granted by such ordinance shall terminate at some particular time, and not leave it open so as to require affirmative action on the part of the Council by the passage of an ordinance.
