

RAIL BILL TALKED

Wickersham Wants to Change Commerce Court Bill.

TAFT'S MEASURE IS LIKED

Cummins Questions Attorney-General in Committee—Commission Approves Proposed Law, but Opposes One-Judge Rule.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Attorney-General Wickersham appeared before the Senate committee on interstate commerce late today and explained in detail the latest changes desired in the bill to create a court of commerce and amend the interstate commerce laws.

It had been expected that an effort would be made today to bring the subject to a vote and that the bill might be ordered favorably reported.

Wickersham's statement and the question put to him consumed so much time that it was decided to hold another meeting tomorrow.

Senator Cummins, author of the rival railroad bill, examined the Attorney-General with great care concerning many features of the Administration bill.

Mr. Wickersham's statement and the question put to him consumed so much time that it was decided to hold another meeting tomorrow.

Senator Cummins, author of the rival railroad bill, examined the Attorney-General with great care concerning many features of the Administration bill.

Mr. Wickersham's statement and the question put to him consumed so much time that it was decided to hold another meeting tomorrow.

Senator Cummins, author of the rival railroad bill, examined the Attorney-General with great care concerning many features of the Administration bill.

Mr. Wickersham's statement and the question put to him consumed so much time that it was decided to hold another meeting tomorrow.

Senator Cummins, author of the rival railroad bill, examined the Attorney-General with great care concerning many features of the Administration bill.

Mr. Wickersham's statement and the question put to him consumed so much time that it was decided to hold another meeting tomorrow.

Senator Cummins, author of the rival railroad bill, examined the Attorney-General with great care concerning many features of the Administration bill.

Mr. Wickersham's statement and the question put to him consumed so much time that it was decided to hold another meeting tomorrow.

Senator Cummins, author of the rival railroad bill, examined the Attorney-General with great care concerning many features of the Administration bill.

Mr. Wickersham's statement and the question put to him consumed so much time that it was decided to hold another meeting tomorrow.

Senator Cummins, author of the rival railroad bill, examined the Attorney-General with great care concerning many features of the Administration bill.

Mr. Wickersham's statement and the question put to him consumed so much time that it was decided to hold another meeting tomorrow.

Senator Cummins, author of the rival railroad bill, examined the Attorney-General with great care concerning many features of the Administration bill.

Mr. Wickersham's statement and the question put to him consumed so much time that it was decided to hold another meeting tomorrow.

Senator Cummins, author of the rival railroad bill, examined the Attorney-General with great care concerning many features of the Administration bill.

Mr. Wickersham's statement and the question put to him consumed so much time that it was decided to hold another meeting tomorrow.

Senator Cummins, author of the rival railroad bill, examined the Attorney-General with great care concerning many features of the Administration bill.

Mr. Wickersham's statement and the question put to him consumed so much time that it was decided to hold another meeting tomorrow.

Senator Cummins, author of the rival railroad bill, examined the Attorney-General with great care concerning many features of the Administration bill.

Mr. Wickersham's statement and the question put to him consumed so much time that it was decided to hold another meeting tomorrow.

Senator Cummins, author of the rival railroad bill, examined the Attorney-General with great care concerning many features of the Administration bill.

Mr. Wickersham's statement and the question put to him consumed so much time that it was decided to hold another meeting tomorrow.

Senator Cummins, author of the rival railroad bill, examined the Attorney-General with great care concerning many features of the Administration bill.

Mr. Wickersham's statement and the question put to him consumed so much time that it was decided to hold another meeting tomorrow.

Senator Cummins, author of the rival railroad bill, examined the Attorney-General with great care concerning many features of the Administration bill.

Mr. Wickersham's statement and the question put to him consumed so much time that it was decided to hold another meeting tomorrow.

Senator Cummins, author of the rival railroad bill, examined the Attorney-General with great care concerning many features of the Administration bill.

Mr. Wickersham's statement and the question put to him consumed so much time that it was decided to hold another meeting tomorrow.

Senator Cummins, author of the rival railroad bill, examined the Attorney-General with great care concerning many features of the Administration bill.

Mr. Wickersham's statement and the question put to him consumed so much time that it was decided to hold another meeting tomorrow.

Senator Cummins, author of the rival railroad bill, examined the Attorney-General with great care concerning many features of the Administration bill.

tion, the functions of initiation, revision, and, subject to proper safeguards, of delay.

Prince Henry of Prussia rode in the royal procession and attended parliament. He appeared in the uniform of a British admiral and the crowd gave him a reception no less warm than visiting members of the royal families usually receive.

Balfour Leads Attack.

During the debate on the King's speech, Arthur J. Balfour spoke for the opposition. He criticized the King's speech for its ambiguity, particularly on the naval question.

"When the budget," said Mr. Balfour, "has received cold and chilly, but numerically adequate, support in this House, it will doubtless become a law. I believe a majority of the constituencies in Great Britain are prepared to support the budget, but can it be pretended that Ireland favors it? If Ireland abstains from opposing the budget, it will be because the Irish members think that the interests of home rule override those of finance, and I hold that, if the budget were isolated from all other questions, it would be rejected."

Home-Rule Issue Shirked.

"If the Prime Minister's home rule declaration, made just before the elections, had been taken seriously in England, as it was in Ireland, the other questions would all have been dwarfed."

Mr. Balfour closed by questioning whether it were possible to entrust solely to a representative assembly the power of manipulating from top to bottom the whole constitution of the country. They would be mad indeed if they drove to this illogical excess the idea that for all purposes and for all time the House of Commons could be taken to represent the settled convictions of the people.

Asquith States Programme.

Mr. Asquith, in rising to reply, was loudly cheered. He supposed that the King's speech was the shortest on record. Apart from the financial provisions, the only question on which the government announced legislation was the relations between the two houses.

"The House of Lords," said the Premier, "last year rejected the budget—a glaring breach of the unwritten conventions of the constitution that was the climax of a series of acts by which the Lords claimed an overriding authority over the decisions of the popular chamber, and the government's appeal to the country was primarily an appeal to give them authority to put an end to that state of affairs."

"I have said that we must have legislative safeguards, but some of my colleagues have gone further and guaranteed the exercise of the royal prerogative. If I said such a thing, I would not now be standing at this box. I receive no such guarantees. I asked for no such guarantees. It is the duty of a responsible minister as far as possible to keep the name of the sovereign and the prerogatives of the crown outside the domain of party politics."

The Premier said the House would proceed on the question of the Lords by resolutions that would be laid on the table soon, discussed before the Easter recess and passed at this session. He said the financial provisions were in view—to pass the budget and put an end, at the earliest moment possible, by the wisest and most adequate method, to the constitutional condition giving to non-representative and irresponsible authority the power to thwart the purposes and mutilate the handwork of the chosen exponents of the people's will.

Redmond Condemns Policy.

John E. Redmond, the leader of the Irish party, announced that the fact had been emphasized that the Nationalists stood, as they always had, apart and independent of the British party. They had supported the government at the election because the Prime Minister's pledge on home rule was supplemented by one still more important to Ireland, the abolition of the vote of the House of Lords, which was tantamount to the adoption of home rule.

He thought, and the country thought, he continued, that Premier Asquith had promised to ask for guarantees of the exercise of the royal prerogative, and that if he did not get them, he would decline to hold office. But it appeared that the Nationalists were mistaken. The government's policy was to pass the budget before any assurance was given that the veto bill would pass. It was a disastrous policy, and meant the throwing away of the mandate which they had received from the country.

They would be enabling the Lords to veto the bill, to force a second election in a year and the government would be beaten by the weary electorate.

"If the Prime Minister gives us reasonable assurance that he will be able to carry the veto bill into law this year," said Mr. Redmond, "we will vote for the budget, but we are not willing to pay that price for nothing."

Lansdowne Speaks for Lords.

The first business to be transacted in the House of Commons was the adjournment without debate of a motion delegating the session order prohibiting peers from participating in elections. Then the debate on the address in reply to the King's speech from the throne was commenced.

In the course of the debate in the House of Lords on the address in reply to the King's speech, Lord Lansdowne, leader of the opposition, said if the new House of Commons adopted the finance bill then the Lords were ready to expedite its passage, although their opinion with regard to it was unchanged.

The proposed sequence of events was:

TRY THIS REMEDY FOR NERVOUSNESS

When the Doctors Saw That Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Were Helping This Los Angeles Woman They Advised Her to Continue the Treatment.

Many women suffer from nervousness, accompanied by loss of weight and pallor, showing that there is a loss of nutrition and that the blood is becoming deficient in quantity or quality. This is a condition that may be followed by serious consequences unless corrected.

To cure it the failing nutrition must be arrested, the patient's weight and strength built up and the blood restored to its normal condition. Besides good food, artificial aids to digestion and tonics are usual to recommend change of climate in such cases.

The one remedy that has cured this condition, strengthened the digestion, toned up the nerves and made the blood pure and rich is that described by Mrs. M. C. Sproul, of No. 441-1/2 Wall street, Los Angeles, Cal., who tells of her cure by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as follows:

"Following the birth of my child," she says, "I was in very poor health. I was confined to bed more or less of the time for a year. I was very nervous and couldn't bear the least noise or excitement. Every few weeks I would be nearly insane from pains in my head. My heart pained continually and it was necessary to take morphine to get relief. Oftentimes the pains were so severe that I could not speak."

"I was under the care of four doctors at different times but was not cured. I had been sick for a year or more before I decided to drop the doctors' medicines and give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. I was helped before the first month passed as the pains became less severe. I gained in flesh until I reached my usual weight. When the doctors saw that the pills were helping me they advised me to keep right on with them. I did so and was entirely cured."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

clear, he said. First, the financial bill was to be disposed of and then the veto power of the Lords was to go in order that the way should be made clear for home rule.

Lord Lansdowne expressed amazement at the audacity of the government of the Government, which assumed to make such proposals on the strength of the recent elections in which they had obtained a majority only by relying upon parties which did not participate in their councils.

Constitution in Danger.

"You think," he continued, "this a sufficient mandate for pulling the constitution of this country to pieces, for breaking up the union and setting up a single chamber of government. I use the last expression advisedly, because if the words of His Majesty's speech have any meaning at all, that is what they mean."

Lord Lansdowne insisted the government had received no such mandate and said the real opinion of the House of Commons was against the government.

POLICE ACCUSE MOTHER

Mrs. Alice Jesse Alleged Cause of Own Daughter's Downfall.

Accused of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, Mrs. Alice Jesse, a seamstress, was arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge accusing her of causing the downfall of her own daughter, Fay Jesse, 16 years old.

The girl was sent to the House of the Good Shepherd. Taken into custody at the same time were James Ferris, a barber, and Sam Stalaker, a teamster. Ferris is accused of disorderly conduct and Stalaker is held as a witness. All were arrested in a room at the Elwood lodging house, at 243 1/2 Morrison street. Stalaker, it is said, was jealous of the attentions paid the girl by the barber and informed the police. Mrs. Jesse is 37 years old.

$25,000 ASKED FOR HURTS

Logging Train Brakeman Who Jumped, Sues Employers.

August Johanson's damage suit against the Bradley Logging company was on trial before a jury in Judge Cleland's department of the Circuit Court yesterday.

Johanson asks $25,000 damages for being scalped and sustaining internal injuries by jumping from a runaway logging train on the company's road near Cathlamet, in Washington county, Washington. The accident occurred April 7, last year.

Johanson had been working as a brakeman but a few days the train consisted of four trucks and the engine. The logging company contends that Johanson should have jumped on the other side of the track, where there was room to land. He jumped against a bank and sustained a fractured skull.

Counterfeiting is still a considerable industry in Calabria. It is good form in Naples to bite all silver coin before accepting it in payment or in change.

It is fitting that good citizens should celebrate Washington's birthday by investigating the investment opportunity offered at Alameda Park. In fact, IT IS ONE OF THE SIGNS OF PATRIOTISM to have A SHARE of this glorious land. It is well known that property owners are always the best class of citizens.

Besides, IT PAYS TO INVEST IN REAL ESTATE in a growing city like Portland, and especially in a growing community like Alameda Park, which is just entering on the period of building which means great increase in values.

The Broadway carline, which is now extended to the Park, is being completed through the Park. All the other improvements which, when finished, will make Alameda Park the finest residence subdivision in the Northwest, are being installed as fast as money and men can do it. ALL THESE DEVELOPMENTS point to one conclusion—INCREASE IN LOT VALUES.

Those who invest now will reap this increase. PRICES WILL BE ADVANCED MARCH 1. Salesmen will be on the ground all day today TO SHOW VISITORS THE PARK.

Alameda Land Company, owners of Alameda Park, 322 Corbett Building

STUDY STATEMENTS

Below and Figure Out the Possibilities of an Investment in

KLAMATH FALLS FALLS LOTS FOR YOURSELF

BASIS OF FIGURING

Keep in mind, in each case, the geographical location of the cities listed below in relation to adjacent country and the resources of adjacent country, then study over geographical location of Klamath Falls in relation to all of Eastern Oregon and the resources of country adjacent to Klamath Falls.

Compare the Klamath Falls situation with that of each city mentioned below and pick out the city Klamath Falls is going to equal in size in five years' time. When you select your city compare present price of Klamath Falls lots with price of lots in city selected. The difference is the profit to be made on an investment in Klamath Falls property.

Now we want to impress upon you that the facts and figures in this advertisement can absolutely be verified and the result obtained from this basis of figuring can be depended upon. Klamath Falls is growing fast. It is simply a question as to whether its population will only reach 10,000 in five years' time or 20,000. If 10,000, the profit on investment in Klamath Falls lots, taking a $1000 lot in Klamath Falls and a lot in The Dalles, Oregon, as basis, profit at the end of five years will figure at least 100 PER CENT PER YEAR on the investment, or 500 per cent in five years.

List of Cities With Statements as to the Resources of Adjacent Country, Population and Price of Property

Table with 4 columns: Name of City, Resources of Adjacent Country, Population, Price Per Lot. Includes cities like The Dalles, Or., Wenatchee, Wash., N. Yakima, Wash., Walla Walla, Wash., Spokane, Wash.

KLAMATH FALLS

Price of Lots, $75 to $1000—Population, Today About 3000

RESOURCES

Klamath Falls until recently has been 150 to 200 miles from transportation, with a population of 3000. Today the new main line of the Southern Pacific is running into Klamath Falls. It has been officially announced that the Oregon Trunk will be built to Klamath Falls. Further prospects of transportation are the Harriman Line from up the Deschutes, Harriman Line from across Central Oregon. Klamath Falls is destined to become a greater railroad center than Spokane is today.

Other Resources—Water power, twenty billion feet of timber, great stock country, grain, fruit, vegetables, etc. Manufacturing sites and facilities are superior to Spokane. Grain resource will increase at a tremendous rate, as the Government is reclaiming 300,000 acres of the richest land known at a cost of $4,000,000. There is also at Klamath Falls a Hot Springs that will be famous, as the analysis of the water is the same as that of Carlsbad. All told, resources of Klamath Falls and adjacent country will be greater than any city mentioned, including City of Spokane.

LOTS NOW ON SALE

Klamath Falls Lots Are Now on Sale at Prices Ranging From $75 to $1000 Per Lot—All Improvements In—No Taxes—No Interest—Easy Terms

COME TO OUR OFFICE

We have in our window a $500 painting showing this entire Klamath Country, pictures of Klamath Falls and Klamath Lake, and we are distributing a Folder beautifully illustrated that you should have.

The Souther-Albertson Co.

EXCLUSIVE AGENTS—286 OAK STREET

ASQUITH PARTY WILLING

(Continued from Page One.)

preference at the same time, deploring the failure of the Ministers to recognize in the speech the nature and gravity of the state of trade and employment.

The King's speeches usually are pronounced, but one clause in his speech today is regarded as most significant. Referring to the proposed reform of the House of Lords, the speech contained the qualifying clause:

"King Carefully Impartial."

"In the opinion of my advisers." This is interpreted as meaning that the King wants to dissociate himself from such proposals. The passage of the speech referring to this subject reads:

Recent experience has disclosed serious difficulties due to recurring differences of strong opinion between the two branches of the Legislature. Proposals will be laid before you with all convenient speed, to define the relations between the Houses of Parliament, so as to secure the undivided authority of the House of Commons over finance and its predominance in legislation. These measures, in the opinion of my advisers, should provide that this House should be so constituted and empowered as to expedite in regard to proposed legis-