SINS OF PARISIANS BROUGHT ON FLOOD, HE SAYS.

Seattle Evangelist Argues That Coast From Alaska South Will Some Day Feel Wrath of God.

That cities, states and nations alike are subject to the Scriptural law of reaning what is sown, laid down by Saint Paul n his epistle so the Galatians, just the same as individuals, was a statement contained in a sermon last night at the First Presbyterian Church by Rev. Mark A. Matthews, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church at Seattle, Dr. Matthews s preaching a week's series of revival sermons at the church.

Following out this generality, the speaker called attention to the San Francisco disaster, which he attributed to the sins of that city. He next pointed out the more recent flood colembia at Park he more recent flood calamity at Paris,

"I do not mean," he said, "that God Almighty shot a thunderbolt out of the sky, as it were, and precipitated these calamities. But the very sins of the cities themselves brought them. They were saturated in sin. The law of reaping what is sown is as immutable as the coming of the judgment day.

"The time is coming when this great Coast, from Valdez, Alaska, to the southernmost point must pay for its sine. There is no evading it. The harvest must be reaped."

The minister took as his text: "Be not deceived; God is not meck. Whatsoever a man soweth that shall he reap." Frequently through his sermon, following out some chain of reason, he referred to the first phrase of the text: "Be not deceived." The sermon was a brilliant oratorical effort, scintillating with figures of speech, intensified by dramatic tones, gestures and attitudes.

The divorce evil and commercial greed came in for their share of attention as being among the country's worst evils. "Just as sure as you sow the dust of gold, so sure will you reap the dust of an endless remorse," he said. "The American people are sitting over a volcano of sin. Some day there will be an eruption sin. Some day there will be an eruption and the hot, burning lava of hellishness will sweep over this fair land, sparing

POLICY OF SUPPRESSION IS DE-CIDED UPON.

Police Will Act Unless Council Revokes License or Makes Strict Regulations.

Mayor Simon is determined to close the Maple Dancing Pavillon and the Casino Dance Hall, against which the police have een making complaint, and yesterday norning he declared that he will raid these places unless the Council revokes their licenses or passes an ordinance to regulate them strictly. The case of Maple will come before the Council this morning on a recommendation of the license committee that the complaints of the police be "filed."

"I am going to give the Council time in which to revoke or stringently reguiate these dancehalls, and if the Council does not act, I will take a hand and see whether I can close the places," said Mayor Simon. "I intend to raid these dancehalls and to have some of the men and women arrested and carted to police headquarters, and we shall find out who headquarters, and we shall find out who they are and what they are doing in such places. I prefer to have the places closed by the Council, but have determined that, unless this is done, I will bring the police force into action. I am not going to tol-erate any such places as these while I am Mayor."

The Maple Pavilion is on Washington street, near Seventeenth, and the Casino is in the old Y. M. C. A. building at Fourth and Yamhili streets. Specific written complaints, accompanied by recommendation for seventeents. ten complaints, accompanied by recom-mendation for revocation of the licesse of the Maple, was placed before the license committee of the Council by Chief of Police Cox and Captain Bailey, but Councilmen Driscoll, Dunning and Con-cannon, the members of the committee, voted to "file" this evidence. This means, if the report is adopted by the Council today, that the dancehall will continue operations unmolested.

The chief objections thus far advanced by the police against the dancehalls is the toleration by them of immoral "steps." Young girls and boys crowd the balls nightly. Mayor Simon has received numerous complaints.

The two proceeded to the shop and Stubrod advanced $12, but when the watch was forthcoming it was seen to be a brass timepiece, almost worthless. The stranger disappeared at once and he second-hand dealer refused to return the money. Deputy Fitzgerald dispatched Deputy Sheriff Deich to the place and threatened the dealer with arrest.

This sale was authorized at a meeting of the stockholders of the club held at the Commer citi Club yesterday.

The property, which consists of a beautifully located island in the center of the Williamette River, was purchased by the club in 1907 from A. Reffling for $25,000. It was originally bought as a site for a clubbuse but when the recommendation of the control of the control of the control of the club with the club with the control of the club with the control of the control of the club with the control of the club with the control of the club with the club site for a clubhouse, but when the prop-erty increased in value the plan of put-ting a club there was abandoned and the property was then placed on the market. The sale was made through the agency of Capiain Paul Reimers.

Consul-General James W. Ragsdale states that another example of the policy of Canada to produce the finished fish product is the recent venture of a cold-storage company at Halifax in putting up fillets of fish. This is a product virtually unknown in this country, but very popular in England.
