Aviation Meet Closes, and Hamilton Prepares to Go to Seattle.

When at Height of 1000 Feet, Aviator Shuts Off Motor and Alights With as Much Ease as in Slight Descent.

Portland's and the Pacific Northwest's first aviation meet is closed. The last flight made by Charles K. Hamilton in his Curtiss biplane at the Country Club grounds yesterday after-noon at 4:30 o'clock, lasting 8 minutes, formed a fitting climax to the series of thrilling exhibitions made by the daring aviator during the three days of the meet.

It was the long-est glide ever made by him or any other bird man and awoke in the crowd of 7900 spectatore who witnessed it an enthu-siastic demonstration that had laxed from exhaustion. This morning Hamilton's machine will be taken down and packed for shipment to Seattle, where an exhibition similar to the one given here will commence next Saturday and continue through Sunday end Monday.

6000 Pay to See Meet.

Inside and outside the grounds, it is estimated not fewer than 70,000 persons visited the exhibitions. Of this number only about 6000 paid to get in the grounds. About 200 were admitted by passes and almost as many as paid are said to have slipped through the fence. Others remained on the eminences sur rounding the grounds and saw the flights free. On Sunday at least 47,000 persons are thought to have done this. Many brought their lunches early Sun-day morning, and after choosing a good day morning, and after choosing a good location, camped on the ground.

As a result of this condition, the meet was the greatest "frost' ever known in Portland. The backers of the exhibition last night were unable to give a definite statement of the loss. This, they said, depends entirely on what part of the guarantee Hamilton will demand.

The first day Saturday noticed the

The first day, Saturday, netted the mahagement $1502 or approximately that amount. On Sunday, though 50,000 persons witnessed the flights, the gate receipts totalled only $3123.50. Yesterday at 50 cents per admission, $930 was taken in, 1795 being admitted. Other sources hetted $698. All these amounts are approximated, though thought to be correct.

E Henry Wemme the Bortland booster and good roads enthusiast, is probably the greatest loser. Mr. Wemme is now at and good reason. The state of the Mount Hood-Portland road fund. He did not anticipate what hapgreatest loser. Mr. Wemme is now at Hot Springs, Ark., for his health. He was represented here by his personal attorney, and are entirely separate from the criminal actions brought over two years ago. The commonwealth charges that Sanderson, the principal contractor, received over $5,000,000 for furniture and equipment which was not worth more than $1,500,000, and that the Pennsylpened and will lose money. His own aeroplane, which he purchased from the Curtiss Company, was bought to aid the found. It has been on exhibition at Portland and Seattle. In itself the aero-plane represents an outlay of $5000.

Full Statament Will Be Made.

A full statement of the receipts and disbursements, together with the financial arrangements made to secure the meet, will be published in full in affidavit form this week. Of the total receipts approximating $9000, almost half probably will be required to take care of the averages. required to take care of the expenses, not including the aviator, it was announced last night.

The only question now is how much the loss will be. Every effort is being made to make it as little as possible, so that the good roads fund will not suffer.

Hamilton probably will leave for Seattle today. "My plans are not made yet," he said. He is due to fly in Seattle Saturday and may not go there before Thursday or Friday.

An effort is being made by the management of the Seattle meet to have agement of the Scattle meet to have the Wemme macrine there also, but this has not been defnitely decided. E. J. Arnold. Mr. Wemme's manager, said last night that the machine probably will be left here in orde rthat Walter E. Donnelly may practice with the will be left here in orde rthat Walter E. Donnelly may practice with it. It will require continuous practice all this week for the young Portlander to master the craft, it is thought. Hamilton himself did not attempt extended fights until after 10 days of practising. Yesterday Hamilton made a short flight with the Wemme machine, but came down after flying 100 yards, saying that the horizontal propeller was not adjusted properly. The suggestion was made that he did not care to advertise Wemme's machine, which accounted for Wemme's machine, which accounted for his failure to fly it.

Hamilton Displays Anger.

During the meet souvenir hunters of possibly more mercenary thieves. are stoien parts of both Hamilton's high as 50 and 55 per cent. and possibly more mercenary thieves, have stolen parts of both Hamilton's and Wemme's machines. This resulted in a warm tilt taking place between Manager Arnold of the Wemme ma-grounds, guarding the machines and the dozens of little details.

Only three flights were made by Hamilton yesterday. Aside from the last they were repetitions of his former exhibitions. One was a race between the aeronium and an automobile. aeroplane and an automobile. M. C. Dickinson, in his Stoddard-Dayton roadster, with George Joseph, raced with the aviator, resulting as had the former races, the aeroplane being an easy win
