The Portland Dental Society and the State Dental Society are co-operating in the movement. There seems no opposition to it; everyone who has been interviewed on the subject lends hearty approval. It has proved beneficial elsewhere, the experience of the larger cities of the United States and foreign countries having been highly gratifying.

For a long time the Portland Dental

Society has been considering this work. and to the end that something definite might be done, Drs. A. L. Beatie, Ed-ward Hirstel, George Marshall, E. A. Meyer and M. C. Holbrook were ap-pointed a committee to investigate. They have gone into the details of the subject with prominent people of the city and have found great interest and sympathy everywhere. They will make a full report at a special meeting of the society next week, and will recommend unanimously that the work be pressed to successful termination.

"We have found everywhere the warmest support for our plan," said warmest support for our plan," said Dr. Holbrook. "I have interviewed City Superintendent Rigler, of the public schools, who indoraes it. He declares, that dental inspection in the schools will undoubtedly increase the attendance, the application of the pupils to their work, and will prove of untold benefit in many ways. Dr. Chipman, a member of the Board of Health, likewise gives full and hearty support to wise gives full and hearty support to the proposition, and says it will be of great assistance to the medical in-spectors, as it will be a co-operative plan."

Woodard, Clarke & Co., Archer & Schanz, the Welch Dental Supply Company and the Oregon Dental Supply Company will furnish all necessary apparatus and material at actual cost, and will also lend moral support to ie movement.
It is not the intention of the Port land Dental Society to make other than mirror inspections in the schools, and no probes will be use, according to Dr. Holbrook.

CLOSED DRAWS DIFFICULT

City and Navigation Interests Are Urged to Reach Agreement.

"Mayor Simon took a pretty big con-tract when he undertook to have the draws closed during rush hours," said President Swigert yesterday afternoon, at the meeting of the Poix of Portland. "As to getting the conflicting interests to-gether, it never can be done."

President Swigert was moved to make getner, it never can be done."

President Swigert was moved to make this statement because of the letter from Secretary of War Dickinson, recently received by Mayor Simon and others interested in the subject of closing the draws on Willamotte River bridges during rush hours. The Secretary recommended to Mayor Simon that something be done to get the navigation interests and the people using the bridges to agree upon some amicable adjustment of the case. He suspended action until some means might be found of solving the problem, which is one of great moment to those who are compelled to cross the bridges every morning and evening.

The Port of Portland joined with Mayor Simon in his efforts to secure action by the War Department which would relieve the situation, and the County Court of the United States Engineers at Washington, D. C., who recommended against closing the draws; but Secretary of War Dickinson, the final arbiter, thought that perhaps some means of amicable adjust-

FISH LAW SUIT IS TEST

Commission's Right to Close Streams Is Questioned.

Members of the Oregon Supreme Court will hear argument today on the appeal in the suit of the Clackamas River fisher men against the State Board of Fish Commissioners, involving the closing of the Willamette and Clackamas rivers from March I to May I to conform to the closed law as it applies to the Columbia River. Under the old law these streams were closed to fishing in the Spring from March 15 to April 15. The fish commissioners issued an order extending the closed season as it applied to the Columbia River to the two tributaries.

From this action, the Clackamas River fishermen dissented and carried their case into the courts, seeking to have the board enjoined from enforcing its order. into the courts, seeking to have the board enjoined from enforcing its order. The case was heard in this county before Circuit Judge Morrow, who decided in favor of the state authorities. From this decision the fishermen appealed to the Supreme Court.

Court will be important not alone be-cause it will finally decide the fishing cause it will finally decide the fishing controversy as to the Willamette and Clackamas rivers, but because it will determine also the powers of the board of fish commissioners under the statute by which it was created. It is contended by the commissioners that, under the law, they have the right by formal order to close any and all fishing streams in the state when, in their judgment, such a course is necessary for the proper protection of the fishing industry. This right is denied by the fishermen, and it is on this ground that their suit is based.

CO. K., O. N. G., INSPECTED

Fifty-One Members Assemble at Portland for Annual Scrutiny.

The annual inspection of Company K. Third Infantry, O. N. G., was held Monday by Captain King, First United States Infantry, stationed at Vancouver Barracks. Fifty-one answered roll-call, the men gathering from all parts of the state to be present. One lad arose at 3 o'clock in the morning and walked 12 miles without breakfast to catch a train to get into Portland in time for the inspection.

For five years Company K has held first place in the annual inspection and for three consecutive years furnished three men for the Oregon state rifle team.

Last season nine of Company K's men qualified as expert riflemen, two as sharpshooters, 15 as marksmen, 21 as first class, three as second class and 17 as third class marksmen. In pistol practice it provided five experts and two sharpshooters.

LAYMEN'S CONVENTION WILL MEET IN LARGEST CHURCH.

Attendance Will Exceed Capacity and Overflow Meetings Will Be Held Also.

Officers of the Laymen's Missionary

Movement, which will hold a monster convention in Portland March 29, 30 and 31, yesterday definitely selected the White Temple as the place for the four main gatherings. These will be held the afternoon and night of the two last days of the convention. The first night will be devoted to a banquet.

The White Temple is the largest church in Portland and for this reason it was chosen. The co-operating committee that has the convention in charge would much prefer a huge auditorium, such as it is proposed to erect for the Gypsy Smith meetings, but it was not though wise to undertake auch are convenient and the contraction. take such an expensive task at this time, especially as the convention is to be so brief. While the White Temple will seat 3000 people, it is though that the attendance at every session will be greater than that number and over-Glow meetings will be provided for.

W. A. Lovett, secretary of the movement in Portland, reports that no other event has attracted such general interest among Portland's thousands of church members as the Laymen's convention. The movement has been rec-ognized by every Protestant evangeli-cal congregation in the city, each one having named a committee on arrange-ments. The co-operating committee of 25 members from the various denominations is giving more time to the movement and it is hoped to make the Portland convention one of the most important held on the Pacific

The Alveolar method of restoring missing teeth without the use of plates or ordinary bridgework is something that calls for dental work of the highest class. The character of the work is beyond the capabilities of any but the very top-notch operators.

We make this announcement in the beginning of this advertisement in the hope that it may catch the eye of some who have classed us with the average dental parlor practitioners who do hurry up work at bargain counterprices—that is the most expensive dentistry that you can buy. We are teeth savers. With the Alveolar Method we are able to restore teeth which have been lost through ignorance, poor dentistry or disease, without having to use a plate or ordinary bridgework. In short, we are able to put the teeth which you have lost back in your mouth and match those which are left so perfectly that you will not be sensible of having lost any of nature's teeth, and all that we require is that you have two or more teeth left in either law—if they are loose, we righten them and cure the cause of the loosening.

If it is not possible for you to come at the present time, write for our booklet, "Alveolar Dentistry," which explains the method in detail, a valuable book on the teeth and one that brings patients to us from all over the land. We send it free of any charge. If you are having teeth troubles send for it today.
