Goldfield Crowd Compels Flight, Under Guard of Deputy-Ill-Assorted Couple Rents Alley Room in Tonopah.

GOLDFIELD, Nev., March 15,-(Spe cial.)—George Masaki and Juliett Schwann, a Japanese and white, arrive this afternoon from Los Angeles wit the intention of being married, but they were forced to leave two hours later on were forced to leave two hours later on the first train going out of Goldfield. When they applied for a marriage li-cense the woman asked if there was any objection to issuing one for a Japanese. And was informed that nothing in the statute books forbade such a marriage. Objection was encountered when it came to performing the ceremony and the two judges and justices of the peace re-fused.

By this time a crowd began gathering and the Sherin ordered a deputy to take the couple to the suburban train that would leave for Tonopah within 10 mintiles. This was done. On the way the woman explained herself.

While the neighbors fret and fume and the house-wives, over their teacups, pince the Japanese-American quartet in the same category as Roosevelt's "undesirable citizens," the two American wives of the sons of Nippon remain cheerful and happy with a little story of their own to tell.

I would like to know how many American husbands get up in the morning and build the fires," sald Mrs. Katsutaran Tanigoshi, whose husband, a full-blooded Japanese, is an attorney in Judge Noyes' office. "A few, perhaps, build the fires, but how many get breakfast, let me ask? That is what my husband does. He never forgets the little attentions, either. He always remembers to bring me flowers and books and percentages and better the second percentages." and hooks and never goes out nights."

And the little woman nodded her head proudly. She is a white-skinned girl with delicate features, but the baby she held in her arms has the brown skin and the almond eyes of the Oriental.

"Those people detract from the value of our property. We cannot move away or many of us would," said Mrs. D. H. Carleton, who has lived on El Molino street seven years. "They may be nice as far as Japanese go," said Mrx, Fred Morse, "but I am sure I would let my house go unrented before I would bring such families into my home,"

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., March 15 .-Howard Simpson, a Spokane real estate dealer, furnished the sensation today in the trial of John C. Maybray and his associates in the United States District court, charged with fraudulent use of he mails.

No witness called thus far has received the attention accorded Simpson. Consid-erable mystery surrounded the manner in which he secured the information he vouchsafed in the case, and neither side attempted to show how he came into possession of it.

He indicated clearly, however, that he had been in touch with the leading defendants for many years, was perfectly familiar with their handwriting, their method of operation and in most cases with their personality. Mr. Simpson said he was a man of wealth and standing in his home city.

Handwriting Is Identified.

The Government introduced a directory of about 200 names of men who are alleged to have been identified with Maybray in his operations. This directory was taken from Maybray's effects when he was arrested at Little Rock, and was compiled, according to the chirography, by various persons. days" up there in New York. The changes attributed to the influence of railroad men that had been brought to bear upon the President and Attorney-General before January 11, when the bill was presented to the chairman of the com-mittee on interestate commerce. He as-serted from the time the measure had serted from the time the measure had been turned in to the President until it had left him, nearly every railroad president in the country had visited Washington and had been heard by the President and Attorney-General, many of them twice. Substantially, every change had been made to suit the railroads.

He did not object to the granting of the hearings on legislation, he said. His objection was to the course of the executive officials in taking in hand the entire direction of legislation. If the Attorney-General and the President were to prepare bills it was "eminently fair that they should hear those interested."

Senate Left in Dark.

But although the railroad men had pre-about the changes. No doubt there was good reason for the changes, but be that as it might, the introduction of a system "which would lead those desiring to influence legislation to appeal to the White House rather than to Congress" he considered pernicious.

Mr. Cummins invelghed against the proposed court of commerce as unnecessary and expensive. He asserted that not to exceed seven or eight cases a year would come before the court and the expense would not be short of $100,000 per would come before the court and the ex-pense would not be short of $100,000 per annum. He also argued that any court created for the trial of railroad cases alone would be unwise because of in-fluences surrounding the selection of members of the court and because of "the tremendous power of the railroads,"

Jurisdiction Not Specific.

Mr. Cummins also pointed out the possibility of an enlargement of the jurisdiction of the proposed court over that now exercised by the United States Courts. He thought the jurisdiction should be made as specific as possible.

More serious and disastrous than any of these objections, he said, was the blow to shippers in taking the Interstate Commerce Commission out of the defense of the cases, making the United States the defendant and placing the cases en-tirely in the hands of the Attorney-General. Such a course, he contended, would give the Department of Justice power of secret evidence, from which there could not be appeal or redress. This course, he thought, must necessarily destroy the effectiveness of the law.

Mr. Elkins defended the provision for utilization of the services of the Attorney-General. He was opposed by Senator Balley, who said that if the provision were retained the railroads would be not a supposed by the selection of an more interested in the selection of an Attorney-General than of the President himself.

Commerce Court Attacked.

Senator Bristow of Kansas offered a long list of amendments to the bill, the most important of which proposes the complete elimination of the proposed merce court.

Other amendments offered by Mr. Bristow provide continued representation of the Interstate Commerce Commission in any proceedings in which the commission may be interested; provide against the granting of an injunction staying orders of the commission except by a full court and after a hearing, and require that the traffic agreements authorized by the bill shall not become effective until approved by the committee.

TAX LAW IS DEFENDED

CORPORATION CASES READY FOR HEARING.

Government Maintains Revenue Obtained by New Statute Is Not Direct Property Tax.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—The Gov-ernment's defense of the constitution-ality of the corporation tax provision of the new tariff law was submitted today in printed form to the Supreme Court of the United States. It is the work of of the United States. It is the work of Lloyd W. Bowers, Solicitor-General, but bears the signature also of his chief, Attorney-General Wickersham. Upon it the Government will shape its oral defense of the law when the corporation tax cases come up for argument, probably Tuesday. The first point sought to be made is that the tax is not a direct tax upon property, but is an excise tax upon "the carrying on of business." The declarations of the statute as well as decisions of the courts, are relied upon to support this point. As to the statute, Mr. Bowers says in his brief that it shows the transaction of business to be the subject of the tax and that the income of ject of the tax and that the income of business is used merely as measuring the amount of tax, "which rests not upon that income, but upon the occu-pation from which it is derived." In his consideration of cases bearing upon the point whether the corporation apon the point whether the corporation tax was a direct tax or an excise, Mr. Bowers refers to the famous income tax cases. He says these cases have been interpreted, undoubtedly with the concurrence of the entire Supreme Court, as referring to a tax imposed on propcolely by reason of its ownership

"That must mean," said the Solicitor-General, "a tax upon property by reason of its mere existence or ordinary enjoy-ment, though the property is not put to ment, though the property is not put to some special use. A tax upon business is not a tax imposed upon property solely by reason of its ownership, for if the property is not put to business use no tax falls upon it or its income." Finally on this point, Mr. Bowers con-tends that franchises cannot be the specific subject of the tax, as a tax is not imposed in any way unless business is actually done.

One reason assigned for exempting in dividuals and partnerships is that they are without the aid of legal rules applicable to corporations and joint stock companies. Both reason and authority, it is claimed, justify the exemption of corporations whose net income is not over $5000.

"Exemptions from taxation of a limited amount of individual property are well nigh universal." says Mr. Bowers, "and they rest, doubtless, upon the just and necessary policy of leaving a living opportunity unburdened by government."

I show agricultural and hosticultural or Labor, agricultural and horticultural organizations are exempted, he says, be cause they seem "hardly to be organized for profit." He adds that if it is neces-sary the statute could well be construed as not exempting such associations if as not exempting such associations it their primary purpose is business profit. The exception of societies operating under the lodge system, he contends justifies itself. Such, Mr. Bowers states, are the Knights of Pythias, Knights of Labor, certain Masonic orders, the Red-men and the Woodmen of the World. It is almost humorous he adds, that such organizations must be process he adds, to urge ered insurance companies having purely or chiefly pecuniary functions.
