FAGAN TO SHOW HOW

"Noodles" Will Sell Shamrocks This Afternoon.

BENEFIT IS FOR ORPHANS

Newsboys' Carnival Will Be Feature at Grand Theater Tonight in Conjunction With Regular Show. Paper Sellers Go In Free.

From 11:30 to 1:30 today "Noodles" Fagan, the famous newsboy, will sell shamrocks for the benefit of the orphans' home, from a box at the corner of Third and Washington streets. "Noodles" will set a pace it will be hard for the best of them to follow. It will be a sight well worth seeing. Tonight will be newsboys' night at the Grand.

Around the World Three Times.

"Noodles" has made three trips round the world. The first he began around the world. The first he began in 1895, going first to Paris en route to Madrid with a message to King Al-fonso from the newsboys of New York city. He visited the principal cities of England, Ireland and Wales, selling papers in each. He showed the newsless of Paris how to show their wares along of Paris how to shout their wares along the Bois de Boulogne and the Champs de Elysees. He yelled the extras of the French capital in the Latin Quar-ter. He shouted Berlin papers almost under Emperor William's ear, and was received by every European monarch whose country he visited. King Ed-ward, Emperor William and the French ward, Emperor William and the French president were glad to grasp the hand of the boy who had the grit to start on a world-girdling trip and earn his way by selling newspapers.

"Noodles" delivered his message in due time to King Alfonso and received a medal. In speaking of the Spanish monarch the newsboy said: "He is to me the best of all the crowned heads of Europe. Why? Because he meets every one of his subjects on the same plane. The poor man looks just as ane. The poor man looks just as ood to Alfonso as the rich man. There is no red tape to him. If he was here he'd belong to the 'Hello, Bill' society. Twe seen him in Madrid and in Barce-lona, and he would greet his subjects in the most friendly manner. He speaks good English, and when I met him the second time, there was no kowtowing. It was just 'Hello, "Noodles,

Can you blame me for liking Alfonso?" Trip Paid for by Paper Sales.

On his first trip around the world "Noodles" landed in New York one year and seven days after leaving the metropolis. He stopped en route in Australia and Hawali, and was given a medal for completing the tour in rec-medal for completing the tour in record time, considering the places at which he stopped, and in having paid all his expenses by selling newspapers. Three years after his first trip the wanderlust again seized "Noodles," and he determined on a second world's tour. This time he took a message to Com Paul Kruger in South Africa from the newsboys of Philadelphia.

The third trip made by "Noodles" around the world was in 1903, when he took a message from the newsboys he took a message from the newsboys of New York to King Edward at his coronation in London. "Noodies" startled the staid English newsies along the Strand and Piccadilly row. He woke the cabbies in Trafalgar square with a shrill cry and the American guests of the Hotel Cecil caught a fa-miliar sound when "Noodles" yelled "Wuxtry" in front of that famous hosy. King Edward received the mes-e from the newsles. He took odles" over to Buckingham Palace.

He will show the newsboys how to style of strenuosity.

Newsboy Night Thursday.

There will be newsboys' night at the Grand Theater on Thursday night, when every newsboy in the city will be admitted free to the second show. A newsboys' carnival will be the feature in conjunction with the regular show. Warble, sparrow monkadoo contests, rapid fire, boxing, wrestling contests, Marathon race, etc., will occur in quick succession. Prizes will be given.

On Saturday morning next at 10 o'clock he will deliver a free lilustrated lecture at the Grand Theater for the benefit of the ahildren of Portland.

"Travelogues of the World" is the subject of his newsboy lecture.

SPRING PLOWING BEGINS

Season Earliest in Years in Wallowa Valley-Building Under Way.

WALLOWA, Or., March 16 .- (Special.) Plowing has been begun this week in the Wallowa Valley, the earliest in years. Despite the heavy snows and long spell of extreme cold, the Spring has opened unusually early and building operations are well under way.

At least a dozen buildings are now under way in Wallowa alone, and many more are preparing to start within a

The big sawmills will begin work in two weeks and the promised 20,000,000 feet of lumber to be marketed annually in Wallowa will be reached, if not exceeded, this Summer.

SEASIDE DOES OWN WORK

Recently bids were called for the con-struction of a fireprof vault in the base-ment of the City Hall for the preserva-tion of records and for a water office. The Council believing that the bids were too high and that the city was being held up, decided to reject the bids and proceed with the work, employing day laborers.

It has been possible to engage good carpenters and the work is progressing.

OPTION CAMPAIGN CLOSES

Dayton Will Prohibit Treating if Town Goes "Wet."

DAYTON, Wash., March 16 .- (Special.) DAYTON, Wash, March 16.—(Special.)

-Dayton's unique war over saloons is rapidly drawing to a close. Local option is to be decided next Tuesday, and the town is now agitated by the hottest election campaign in the history of the place. The press is divided, with two publications out of three favoring a "wet" town.

Both "wets" and "dry" are preparing to close the campaign with railies and "poster demonstrationa" Registration, which is almost complete, shows that the largest vote on record is to be cast. One noticeable fact is the tide of shifting opinion. Many business men, who, is months ago, voted for a "dry" town, are going to vote "wet" this time, and vice versa.

If Dayton is voted "wet" and saloons returned, there is no question that an anti-treat law will be passed, the number of saloons limited and high license charged. Dayton will be the second town in the Northwest to enforce the anti-treat law. Those closely in touch with the situation say the result is going to be close. Dayton's commercial club is said to be strongly "wet."

Former Patient Weds Nurse.

DAYTON, Wash., March 16 .- (Special.) -Cupid again united Oregon and Wash-ington yesterday when Mary M. Doran, of Hot Springs. Or., and Jesse Morris were married secretly at the Court House at 6 o'clock, by Justice of Peace John W. Holman. The bride came here from Oregon two years ago as nurse for Mr. Morris. He is a son of P. C. Morris, a well-known pioneer living at Turner, this county. Mr. and Mrs. Morris have gone to Winona, Wash., to make their home.

Lincoln

every member possesses this art cas ever be a victim of oppression in any of its forms. Such community will be alike independent of crowned kings, money kings, and land kings."

Half a century ago our great President pointed out the only salvation of his wage-earning countrymen. With the keener competition and higher price of living that exists today, the words of the immortal Lincoln may be appreciated as never before.

Back to the Soil. There is only one answer to this great economical question that has split in two the great political organisations of the country: GO BACK TO THE SOIL. We do not mean by this that you should give up the pleasures of city life, but we do think that the one best bet for the average wage-earner is to own a nice fertile tract of fruit land within a few miles of the city.

"Come out and look at our beautiful ten-acre tracts on the railroad, not far from Portland. The land is all cleared, ready for the trees. These tracts are surrounded on all sides by beautiful orchards and experts declare this land to be unexcelled for apples, pears, cherries or walnuts. Remember that this soil is very rich. There are no rocks or gravel on it and we positively guarantee it to be first-class apple land. It is the kind of land an experienced farmer would buy on sight."

Do It Now.

We will sell you this land at a price much lower than uncleared and inferior land is bringing. We will accept a small payment down and a small amount each month. Make up your mind and see about this today. There are only a few tracts left and we are sure they will not last long. We will be pleased to show you the property.
