PLEADS FOR IRISH

Thomas B. Minahan Makes Address Before Society of Hibernians.

HOME RULE AGAIN URGED

Hatred of British Government Will Not Cease, Declares Speaker, Until Demands of Erin Are Met. Rapid Progress Then.

Extelling Ireland's mothers, and declaring that the Irishman will never lose his hatred for the British government until home rule is established in Ireland, Thomas B. Minahan, of Seattle, addressed the St. Patrick's Day celebration of the Ancient Order of Hibernians in Masonic Temple last night. But in spite of the hatred of the son of Erin for the British government, he said, they have only the kindest of feelings for the rank and file of the English neonle. Ireland does not of the English people. Ireland does not want anarchy, he said, she wants self-government. In substance, he said:
"Love the flag? Why, all its folds are wet with Irish blood! As Americans we love the flag because I other main it has always been nobly right, because under its broad folds every narrow setniment of race distinction, every unworthy thought of creed bitterness every unworthy thought of creed bitternes withers and shrivels as though touched with a flame from the lamp of universal brother hood burning upon the high altar of American citizenship. Irish Love Stars and Stripes can citizenship.

Irish Love Stars and Stripes because it was the beneficent power of American public opinion represented by this fiag that opened the doors of English prisons and gave back to home rule's magnificent intellectual struggle Ireland's Parnells, her Davitis, her Dilions and her Redmonds.

We love this fiag because it was the grand gospel of its teaching that converted Gladstone from a tyrant of corection in 1882 to the English Wendell Phillips of a later day. We love the fiag because of the faot that home rule, now an assured certainty, speaks again the nobility of the power of the Stars and Stripes to shame the oppressor and lift up the oppressed.

New England glories in teh memory of the Fligrim Fathers. We join them, for the sons and daughters of Irish emigrants ever and always stood for the majesty of American law and order, their faces were ever and always set against the atheistic vagaries of socialism an dihoy hated the red rag of anarchy. If they had little of thyse pagan refinement of that heartless, souliess thing we call "society," neither ware they wanting in the homely virtues of purchastred women and clean-minded men. They wery name of divorce.

hearted women and clean-minded men. They kne wno race suicide and they scorned the very name of divorce.

Were they with ue tonight, how eagerly would the pure white hand of our Irish mothers snatch the flag from above the American saloon, from above the blighting, home-wrecking American divorce court, to plant it, prouder, grander, holler than ever at the unsuilied, unbroken altar of the American family fireside.

Rapid Advancement Predicted.

Bapid Advancement Predicted.

If the English people themselves, too long the vestal of a wornout aristocracy, were but to advance to the last of their history, with another Gladstone leading them, if they were just to kick the empty bauble of the English crown into the Thames tonight, if they were to turn the English House of Lords out of the Parliament to where they belong, because they never have represented the true sentiment of the English people, if they might, possibly, some of these bright mornings, meet at their executive mansion or palace and turn it into an English White House with some Taft in the Presidential chair, if they were to turn the House of Lords into an English Senate and give home rule t othe Irish people, you would see whether these countries would not blend in unison as they blended when the infamy of tyranny was done away. They would move forward as did Massachusetts and South Carolina after the Civil War, toward a common destiny and a common glory. War, toward a common destiny and a common glery.

Dom Zan, as well as Miss Flynn, Miss Friedle and Mr. McCartney, were heard in vocal solos.

The Catholic churches celebrated St. Patrick's Day with appropriate masses, Pontifical high mass was sung at the Cathedral yesterday morning, the music being entirely plain chant. During the vesting of Archbishop Alexander Christie, the hymn, "Hiber-

Archbishop Christie Speaks.

Archbishop Alexander Christie com-mented upon the life of Saint aPtrick, comparing Ireland's patron saint to Abraham, the father of the Hebrew race. As a text he took the commission to Abraham, found in Gen. 12:1: "Go forth out of thy country and from thy father's house and come into a land that I will show thee, and I will make of thee a great nation and I will bless and magnify thy name, and thou shalt be blessed." The archbishop said that St. Patrick had a mission from God. He told how Treland's saint was sent to Ireland by Pope Sylvester, where he found a pagan mation, but during his lifetime made them Catholica, and this without the shedding of a drop of blood in martyrdom, as occurred in other lands. In this, he said, St. aPtrick's work was unique. Not less important he said was the feet the less important, he said, was the fact that they have remained true as a people to the teachings of their patron saint in spite of centuries of persecution.

"WHY I SHOULD

This advertisement was written by Mrs. Molly Tidd Slater, 430 Columbia Street, Portland, Or. Mrs. Slater was declared winner of one of the three grand prizes in the advertisement writing contest recently closed in the City of Portland, and her advertisement is reproduced herewith.

INVEST IN OTHELLO

The most important reasons I have for investing in Othello are: The lack of capital to invest in a larger city, and the assurance that my little investment will not prove a failure, but will bring me returns equaling that of a larger investment elsewhere.

I know of no city in the West with the advantages of splendid location, resourceful surrounding country, railroad facilities and the prospects of as brilliant a future as Othello.

Mrs. Slater gives some of the hundreds of reasons why any person of small or large means should invest in Othello. Othello will be, within a very few years, one of the most important cities of the Great Inland Empire of Eastern Washington, where wheat and fruit yield crops almost fabulous in value.

Othello is on the main line of the new Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound Railroad, and is a division point of that road as well as the junctional point where the lines run East and West, and contemplated lines, North and South.

Othello already has ambitions to surpass North Yakima in population and public enterprise, and it is confidently believed by those familiar with the great productive resources of the Big Bend, the Crab Creek, and the Othello districts, all of which bring their wealth and their trade to this marvelous young city, that Othello will be one of the most important cities of Eastern Washington within the next few years.

As a commercial and manufacturing city, Othello will take place among the first few cities of the Northwest.

Lots may now be had in Othello at prices which will be the subject of stories of increased property values more vivid and wonderful than the stories now told of lots which sold a few years ago for 2 or 3 hundred dollars, and have now made the owners independently wealthy.

We will sell a part of our holdings in Othello at prices low enough to give everyone who buys now an opportunity to come in with us at the beginning of the city's progress, and profit with us by the growth of the city.

Not only this, but we will sell them upon practically any terms desired by the purchasers. In fact, we are willing to leave this matter very largely to the purchaser, who need only show us an honest intention to deal fairly to secure such terms as may be desired.

Prices may be increased at any time, and we reserve the right to advance the present selling prices without notice.

Now, investigate this at once. Make it your business to ascertain without further delay all the facts regarding this new city. Secure just as many lots as you possibly can, but by all means secure at least one. It can be purchased upon such easy terms that you will never miss the money, and the small exercise of thrift at this time means independence, self-respect, and respect of others later on.
