Some Insurgents Vote With Regulars for Postponement of Issue.

COMPROMISE IS SOUGHT

Speaker's Refusal to Be Eliminated From Rules Committee Is Obstacle to Agreement-Democratic Line Unbroken.

safe majority of the House. The Democratic leaders, so far, have held their forces strictly in hand.

Tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock the regular and insurgent leaders will meet in the ways and means committee room of the House to discuss a possible compromise. Both sides admitted tonight no tangible basis of compromise had been suggested. It was said today that the attitude of Speaker Cannon himself is the greatest stumbling block in the way of a compromise. The Speaker declines to be eliminated from the rules commit-

Lone Republican Arrested.

The night had passed with some hilarity, but a good deal of seriousness. The sergeant-at-arms, who had been sent in search of absentees, returned early in the morning with a lone Republican Hollingsworth of Ohio, who was paired with a Democrat and who protested voubly against having been taken from his bed. The Democrats laughed and joked him for half an hour before he finally was excused.

The gravity of the situation was more apparent when, at 5:20 A. M., Norris proposed an adjournment until noon. The members had exemplified the principle for which they contended, he said, and were wearing themselves out fruitlessly, while the men they were fighting were getting a good night's sleep.

Mr James of Kentucky made an electric state of the said of the said.

Mr. James, of Kentucky, made an eloquent protest against any concession to personal comfort which would tend to detract from the impressiveness of the object-lesson which they were giving to the public, of devotion to be public busi-ness while the Republican regulars were deliberately absent in the pursuance of a conspiracy to prevent a quorum.

New Sergeant-at-Arms Demanded.

About 5:30 A. M. there was a hot de-bate about the possibility of appointing a new sergeant-at-arms or other officers necessary to bring in the abount mem-bers. It was the general opinion that the sergeant-at-arms and his deputies were making no shoers offers to find the were making no sincere effort to find the missing Republicans. Mr. Dalzell, in the chair, ruled that the minority then pres ent was powerless to appoint any oddi-tional officers of the House.

The Democrats contended that the ap-pointment of additional officers necessary to secure a quorum was an essential part of the powers conferred upon "less than a quorum" by the Constitution of the United States and the rules of the House.

and finally Representative Hardwick (Dem., Ga.) moved the appointment of a temporary assistant sergeant-at-arms, with authority to employ additional assentatives. The chair ruled the motion out of order, but on appeal was overruled with a shout. The same procedure was gone through with on a motion that the newly-appointed officers be equipped with new warrants. Then the new officers went out to look for the missing Repub-

This affair took on a somewhat different aspect, however, when Speaker Cannon himself came on the scene. This was about 6 A. M. Mr. Burleson, of Texas, demanded of the Speaker whether he had eigned the new warrants, "as ordered by this House," Uncle Joe's voice quivered with suppressed rage as he replied, with a bang of the gavel :

Cannon's Tone Deflant. "The chair declines to be catechised by

The chair declines to be calechised by the gentleman from Texas."

This defiance by the Speaker struck sparks all over the room. Mr. Burleson's face was very red and his voice, too, shook with passion as he said:

There followed a debate over the power of a body without a quorum, which cooled after it had progressed some time. The roll call was not concluded until 8 o'clock. The House thinned down to 50 members or so and the restaurant was filled with Representatives at breakfast. The Republican whip. Dwight, sought a quiet corner and went to sleep.

"The Speaker of this House is maintaining a state of anarchy here," shouted Representative Shackelford of Missouri, shortly before 12 o'clock.

Mr. Moore of Pennsylvania was in the chair and had just rapped the House to order after members had been singling "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town

"The sergeant-at-arms sits there," continued Mr. Shackelford, "and makes no effort to perform his duty because the Speaker may have privately directed him to pursue the course of non-action. But the sergeant-at-arms is bound to arrest always and bring them in here. When absentees and bring them in here. When he refuses to do so he lie bringing an-archy upon us. "Gentlemen on this floor were routed from their beds to come here," inter-posed Mr. Coudrey of Missouri.

"Why did the sergeant-at-arms come to my room and get me and leave undis-turbed 20 or 30 other members who were living nearby?" inquired Mr. Shackel-He charged the Speaker with having fillbustered to the detriment of the House business.

Hardwick of Georgia moved to dispense Hardwick of Georgia moved to dispense with further procedure until the call of the House. At that moment Speaker Cannon appeared on the floor. Many members had come into the House during the debate. Mr. Hardwick's motion being carried, Speaker Cannon resumed the chair.

Democrats, as Mr. Cannon hammered his "The chain," the Speaker replied, "in the near future will rule," and again he smilled as Democrats and insurgents

The debate drifted along with small interest on the part of the House. It was evident a quorum was present and it was known that a committee representing the insurgents was seeking repre-

ing the insurgents was seeking representatives of the regular Republicans to confer on the situation and the debate was regarded as a means of permitting efforts toward some agreement.

The insurgents who voted today on the final roll call with the regulars for a postponement of the business until tomorrow were Parsons and Fish of New York, Davidson of Wisconsin, Woods, Good, Pickett and Kendall of Iowa. Steenerson and Miller of Minnesota, Kincaid and Hinshaw of Nebraska, Hayes of California, and Gardner of Massachusetts.

Speaker Cannon, although 75 years old, looked fresh as a peony, considering the tax on his strength. An hour's nap in his office this morning constituted his entire rest. He showed little weariness at adjournment this evening. He and Miss Cannon had a dinner engagement for tanight. When Miss Cannon telephoned to sak whether he felt ship to phoned to ask whether he felt able to keep the engagement, he responded en-thusiastically that he certainly was going to that dinner.

Mr. Mann of lilinois, chairman of the committee on interstate commerce and close friend and supporter of Speaker Cannon, voted against his fellow regulars on the postponement proposition.

"Because the Speaker was prepared to rule, I was prepared to have him rule, and I was ready to support his ruling," he said. "I have a great deal of doubt about the desirability of taking a recease. about the desirability of taking a recess to effect something that does not seem likely to be effected. I am not willing to agree to any proposition that has been suggested by any of the so-called insurgents and if they want to take the responsibility of disrupting the prganization of the House they have the right and have no criticism to make. COURT RULING IS IGNORED

Forest Service Will Prosecute Violations of Its Regulations.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, March 18.—The Forest Service announced today it would ignore the deision of the Supreme Court last Monday in the California grazing case and con-tinue to institute criminal prosecution of all persons who drive livestock on the forest reserves without a permit.

An official statement given out today by the Porest Service says:

by the Forest Service says:

"The enforcement of grazing regulations on natural forests is not affected by the recent decision of the Supreme Court. The decision being rendered by an evenly divided court merely means an affirmation of the decision of the lower court in these particular cases, without any binding force in any subsequent cases that may arise from violation of regulations of the Secretary of Agriculture governing grazing in natural forture governing grazing in natural for

The Chief Forester is instructing the district foresters to "continue the en-forcement of the law and regulations and to take the same action regarding any violations thereof as heretofore." It is the purpose again to appeal to the Supreme Court in the event the lower court again decrees against the Government, in expectation that a majority of all the Supreme Bench will render an opinion sustaining the Forest Service.

being dumped into the river and at present it is conjectured there are 2,000,000 feet of timber in the stream. This is being raffed so that the first freshet will carry it down, but should there be no freshet the company will be out the interest on its money as well as the possible deterioration of its logs until next Winter. Considerable epeculation is rife as to whether the company will win out in its tilt against Dame Nature.

Mrs. Marion Bruce. Cumberland, Me., writes; "I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla for a great many years, and I think it the best blood medicine in the world. I take it both Spring and Fall. This last Winter and Spring I was in very poor health. I was weak and had lost all my appetite and I was all run As soon as I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla my strength came back and my appetite returned. I am now well, do my housework, and no longer have that tired feeling."

Hood's Sarsaparilla restores the appetite_and makes sleep sound and refreshing by building up the whole system. It purifies the blood, strengthens the nerves, aids and perfects the digestion. Take it this Spring. Get it today in usual liquid form or
