

PATTEN RETURNS FROM LIVERPOOL

Incident of Manchester Exchange Exaggerated, Says "Wheat King."

STORY GROWS IN TELLING

Speculator Confirms Reported Retirement From Business, but Refuses to Say He Will Give Up Game of Making "Corners."

NEW YORK, March 18.—James A. Patten, the speculator, who arrived from Liverpool last night, explained in detail his "hook" on the Manchester exchange. "There was no violence offered me," he said.

"In the first place, the Manchester exchange is not a cotton exchange exclusively, but a general board of trade, to which merchants of every variety belong. I was escorted on the floor of the exchange by James Brown, one of the oldest and largest cotton spinners of Great Britain."

"When I heard cries of 'boo,' which I did not in the least understand, until by physical pressure it was borne in on me that the crowd meant to push me out of the exchange. We were jostled and pressed for about 75 feet. I should say, before we turned to the door of our own position and walked into the street. The crowd followed me shouting 'Yankee!'"

"Mr. Brown led me across the street into a private office where several prominent members of the exchange and several large exporters called on me to express their regret and sympathy."

"To understand the action of the crowd, it is necessary first to know that the membership, so far as the cotton mills are concerned, is largely made up of factory managers, and that these managers in great part are raw Lancashire and Yorkshire men."

"Therefore, when many of the mills were forced to close down by the high prices of cotton, these managers, informed only by the newspapers and unable to see the depression in the trade to me exclusively, I attach no significance to the incident and I hold no ill-feeling whatsoever."

"Mr. Patten confirmed his approaching retirement from business, which already has been announced. The firm of Bartlett, Patten & Co. would be managed, he said, by the junior partners, though he still would hold stock in the company."

"Asked if he had also withdrawn from good and all from speculation, Mr. Patten smiled and answered: "Did you ask Mr. Morgan and Mr. Rockefeller?""

LUCK MEETS FISHERMEN

Sudden Run of Salmon Trout Rejoices Seaside Dwellers.

SEASIDE, Or., March 18.—(Special.)—The run of had luck experienced by fishermen on the Necanicum changed with a rush yesterday afternoon and evening and this morning, and the lucky anglers have not yet finished excitedly discussing the marvel.

The salmon trout have absolutely refused to bite, whatever the bait used. Yesterday afternoon anglers fished the river caught full baskets of brook trout. The run of salmon trout did not start until the evening, when the ascending high tide brought them up to the Seaside House. Just below Seaside riffles every angler caught almost as many salmon trout as he could carry in an hour.

The biggest basket was obtained by Sam Lee, who came home with 17 beauties, one of which was 18 inches long.

All the fishermen used angle worms as bait, and salmon eggs appeared most proving attractive to the fishy palates. There is no fly fishing as yet. Those fishing on the high tide early this morning were almost as successful.

Charles Johnson, a laborer in the employ of the United Railways, was seriously injured when a dumpcar overturned and buried him beneath two tons of dirt at a point on the company's right of way near Linton last evening.

Johnson's life was saved through the timely efforts of his fellow-workers, who quickly removed the dirt from his body. Fortunately the impact of the falling dirt threw him partially out of harm's way. His head and shoulders were not covered in the heap. When he was rescued from his perilous position it was found he was suffering from internal injuries.

DANNY O'BRIEN VICTOR

REFEREE FORCED TO STOP FIGHT IN THIRD ROUND.

Anderson Strong in Second, When O'Brien is Floored—Preliminary Causes Much Enthusiasm.

VANCOUVER, Wash., March 18.—(Special.)—Danny O'Brien, of Portland, knocked out Bud Anderson, of Vancouver, in the third round of what was to have been a ten-round boxing contest, before the English smoker last night. Each had fought the other twice before and both decisions were draws.

In the first round hooks and punches came thick and fast, and O'Brien had slightly the advantage. In the second round Anderson came back strong and knocked down O'Brien, who regained his feet. Both exchanged blows, Anderson getting one on the nose. In the third round, O'Brien started strong and with a vicious swing knocked down Anderson, who stood up before the referee had time to ring the bell. O'Brien is the victor.

Referee Bud Smith stopped the bout. Anderson was all right in a few minutes. As a preliminary, Frank Busch, of Iowa, threw J. Frankfort two straight falls. Both exchanged blows, and Busch gave a good three-round boxing exhibition. Referee Smith's nose was punched accidentally until it bled in breaking the boxer's ambulance. A clinch.

Ed Whitman, of Portland, 128 pounds, and Floyd McRwin, 140, went four fast rounds. Both showed good form, though Whitman is more experienced. The bout between Plimmer Ellis and A. J. Courtney for six rounds created more enthusiasm than the main event. Ellis landed several hard whallops on Courtney's nose, making it bleed. Courtney had been out of the hospital only five days.

Miss Elsie Ross, of Portland, Disports Herself in Waves at Seaside, and Says She Has Good Time.

SEASIDE, Or., March 18.—(Special.)—Miss Elsie Ross, of Portland, was dared to go into the surf yesterday and today she took the dare. In a pretty red bathing suit and a hat of the same color perched jauntily on her auburn hair, Miss Ross emerged from a dressing house north of Pacific pier, and, running down to the water, stuck one toe in gingerly. Just then a wave waist-high struck her and the ice was broken. After that she was in, and she was in before she knew it. The young lady, who did not appear more than 20 years old, had a glorious time in the surf.

tour in the South. The failure of Governor Brown, of Georgia, to introduce him to an Atlanta audience Wednesday night, his reference to the commander in an interview as a "faker," and the operation that he had left his home after midnight. His entrance to the banquet hall, supported by President Schnabel, of the association, and Lionel B. Webster, ex-county judge, who acted as toastmaster, was applauded vigorously.

Principal of the speakers at the dinner, Judge Williams responded by a toast, "Nestor of the Oregon Bar," following an eloquent presentation by Judge Webster. Judge Williams related that he had been a member of the legal profession for 65 years and for 10 years of that period had presided as judge. From 1847 to 1853 he was district judge in the State of Iowa and for five years was chief justice of the territorial government in this state.
