

DISCOVERY MINE SALES

Elk City, Idaho, Property Deal Blocked With $400,000 in Sight.

MORROW AND HARMON HOLD

Mine Developments in New Eldorado Across Line Show Rush Is On, "Center Star" Claim Bond- ed for $100,000.

Refusal by Jack Harmon and William Morrow of an offer of $400,000 for the sale of their new bonanza property at Elk City, Idaho, has been followed by a new discovery on the mine. It is authentically reported to be a parallel ledge, and that it carries a uniform value of $200 to the ton across its full eight feet of width.

Following the first discovery of rich ore, Harmon and Morrow are said to have continued development work in exposing the values of the property. Going 500 feet east of the tunnel where the first strike was made, the prospectors began a second opening, reasoning that in a tunnel to intersect the original ledge. They struck pay ore much sooner than anticipated, and investigation confirmed the theory that another ledge traversed their ground.

News of the situation was received last night by William Mackey, who is largely interested in the camp. With it came information that the Center Star claim, located in the Elk City district, and in the locality of the Harmon and Morrow property, had been bonded by James Murphy and Charles Tiedeman to B. Hinnard & Co. of New York for $100,000. The sale, which was made by Elvin Weiss, a mining engineer, and carried a large cash payment.

The Star on Clearwater.

The Star is on the south fork of the Clearwater and is thought to have the same ledge on which the bonanza claim is located. Murphy and Tiedeman went into the district in 1907, and began work on the south side of the creek above the old placer diggings, reasoning that in a country which was not covered by wash the placer gold must have come from nearby ledges.

Murphy and Tiedeman put in three years tracing the gold up the gulches until the placer deposits could no longer be found. At that spot they located a group of claims. Several tunnels were run, but each effort brought disappointment, the spot selected being too high and evidently above the ledge, although a three-foot stringer of ore was found.

Not dreaming of the wealth just a few feet from them, the miners went further down the hill and began again. Within a short distance they cut five feet of free milling ore, which is said to be second only to the Harmon and Morrow find. A drift has been found in the ore for 31 feet, and the indications warrant experts in the opinion that the ore chute will be 700 feet long.

Idaho mining men are getting into Elk City early. F. Cushing Moore, State Mining Inspector, has examined the ore reported by Harmon and Morrow and has declared them authentic.

Rush for Eldorado On.

Nothing seems to have been needed to start the rush, and it is reported to be going up on the snow. Locations of that character are anticipated to produce trouble later on, for the reason that many old and valid locations cover the ground. The latter will hold as against the newcomer.

Grangeville correspondents definitely announce that surveys for an electric road from that point to Elk City are to begin as soon as the snow will permit. The projectors of the enterprise have men into the country to gather data and information necessary to their plans.

The road is planned to cut through the heart of the Pen-Mile district, which Elk City is located, and to pass within ten miles of Buffalo Hump, to which spur the road will be built. The distance from Grangeville to Elk City is approximately 60 miles. It is planned to give a freight and passenger service of 30 miles an hour.

EXHIBIT OF GREY; MAN DISAPPEARS

Serious Charges Are Placed Against Portland Private Detective.

ALLEGED VICTIMS AWAKEN

Names of Two City Police Officials Mentioned by Charles A. Tennant as "In on Deal"—Chief Cox Starts Inquiry.

Charges of extortion upon representations of being a police officer, in which he used the names of two police detectives, are made against Charles A. Tennant, proprietor of the Portland Detective Agency in the Merchants Trust building and an ex-member of the police force. In a signed statement to Chief Cox by two of his alleged victims. The statements were made and signed yesterday and this morning the matter will be laid before the District Attorney's office.

The charge is made in the statement of H. J. Davenport, a former partner and Detective Price, detailed to the tenement. They, he said, according to the statement, together with a captain of police, were to receive part of the money.

Musician and Wife Held Up.

Edward Bernard, a musician, and his wife, living in the Anacortes Hotel, are the informers against Tennant. They charge that Tennant came into their room at an early hour the morning of March 17 and said he had a warrant for their arrest. He showed a star and his card, they said, and suggested that the matter could be hushed up for $20.

"We offered him $10 he said he would have to cut it with Carpenter and Price and the captain, and that he would have twenty," said Bernard. "We gave it to him and he said he was going in to do the same to Reuben Backus in the next room. There, we were told by Backus, he got $15. Afterwards we learned he was a private detective and knew we had been 'shook down.'"

Backus was a bartender and lived in the Anacortes. When he learned the matter was to be aired, it is said, he left the city, fearing a Portland arrest might become involved. He is now thought to be in Seattle and an attempt may be made to have him return here.

It was through the activity of Carpenter and Price that the matter was brought to the attention of Chief Cox. They learned of it two days ago and filed their alleged connection with the matter. It was reported to Captain of Detectives Moore and Chief Cox. An investigation was immediately started. Tennant was called into Chief Cox's office Saturday and asked about it. He entered a denial of the whole affair and said it was an attempt on the part of some of his associates to keep him from securing the sergeantship of the special police detail at the Oaks next Summer.

Anxious to get at the bottom of the matter, Chief Cox asked Tennant to come to the police detective bureau Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when he would have Bernard and his wife and Fred W. Brown, proprietor of the Anacortes Hotel, another witness against him, there and thrash the matter out. At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon Tennant did not appear, but telephoned he would be down at 4 o'clock. At that hour he did not appear and since that time nothing has been heard from him.

Others Testify Against Tennant.

Fred W. Brown, proprietor of the Anacortes, also signed a statement for Chief Cox in which he says Tennant admitted to him on three different occasions taking the money from Bernard and Backus. All three witnesses expressed a willingness to make affidavits to the statements given yesterday.

According to Bernard the man representing himself to be Tennant did not say what charge the arrest was to be made when the money was paid, but fearing incarceration in jail and not knowing just what he would have to fight the money was paid. Later, he said, he met Tennant in Trautman's cafe, 267 Morrison street, and asked him to give the money back, but that he refused, saying he did not have it, as it had already been "split."

"I saw him yesterday and he promised to give it back Monday," said Bernard. Chief Cox believes neither Carpenter

GOOD ROADWAYS TALKED Milwaukee Grange Speaks for and Against Bonding Plan.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 20.—(Special.)—At the meeting of Milwaukee Grange, Pastors' Husbandry, yesterday afternoon, the Johnson road bill was discussed, its provisions being both commended and commended.

W. E. Treasler, lecturer, read a synopsis of the bill as prepared by L. R. Webster. A. F. Miller condemned the plan of bonding a county or parts of a county for road construction, and declared that people were too much inclined to run into debt without thinking about the pay day which must come. He advocated building of trolley lines by counties for the use of farmers in sending their produce to market. His contention was that such trolley lines would do away with the construction of thousands of miles of expensive roads.

Mrs. Julia Castro urged that the National Government should assist in the construction of wagon roads, as it aids in building water ways.

Mrs. J. L. Johnson spoke in favor of the issue of bonds for road construction, in accordance with the plan of the Oregon Good Roads Association, as the only feasible way of getting money to build permanent roads in the country. Mrs. Johnson announced that the Clackamas County Pomona Grange had endorsed the bonding plan. Other nor Price had anything to do with the alleged extortion game.

MILWAUKIE CLUB LEASED

A Zimmerman Obtains Possession of Former Gambling Resort.

The Milwaukee Club, owned by Isaac Grattan, somewhat notorious in the past as a place where gamblers gathered after having been driven out of Portland, has been leased to A. Zimmerman. It is supposed that a brewery is the real lessee of the premises.

The Milwaukee Club has been the scene of several exciting raids, first by order of Mayor Lane and then by the Clackamas County authorities, by whom it was finally closed.

Mr. Grattan has retained his saloon license, for which he pays Milwaukee $500 a year, although the building has been closed for three years. There is much speculation as to what is to be done with the premises. It is rumored in Milwaukee that it is to be operated as a road house.

The clubhouse is an old building of which the Milwaukee Club has had possession since the late 1800s.
