Desire to Tell His Story Before Others Are Heard Is Credited to Deposed Official - Root Probably Has Written.

WASHINGTON, March 22 .- Washington today woke up to the fact that Gifford Pinchot, whom President Taft recently removed from the position of Chief Forester of the United States, was on the ocean already four days out Roosevelt, probably at Naples,

The widely current rumor here is that Mr. Pinchot goes to meet the returning traveler in compliance with a summons received by cable Friday. Nobody in a position to know would either confirm or deny this part of the story. There is no disposition to deny that Mr. guest at the home of Mrs. Brown. Pinchot's principal errand abroad is to meet Mr. Roosevelt.

First Version to Be Told.

It is to be taken for granted the ex-President will receive from the deposed Chief Forester, with whom he was on peculiarly intimate terms, his first direct information bearing on the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy from any of the principals in that dispute. It was rumored here today that Senator Root, a member of the investigating committee and Secretary of State in the Roosevelt Cabinet, had written to Mr. Roosevelt at Khartoum on the sub-

On the other hand, those who know Mr. Roosevelt, say he is too good a politician not to realize that to give Pinchot an unsought hearing before he had had an opportunity to discuss the subject with President Taft or some member of his political family, would be generally regarded as a direct slap at an Administration he would naturally feel bound to support.

Mr. Pinchot slipped away from Washington quietly last Friday evening, and next day sailed from New York for Europe. His absence on Saturday from the Ballinger-Pinchot hearing, at which he has been a constant attendant, attracted little attention, though he had not intimated to his associates there that he intended to go away for a long trip.

Vacation, Says Shipp.

Thomas R. Shipp, secretary of the National Conservation Association, of which Mr. Pinchot is president, said today that the ex-Forester had gone to Europe for a "much-needed vacation." SEATTLE, Wash, March 22.—(Special.)
-With the knowledge that a small fortune, that he can call his own, is due after 1910 is passed, all on account of an act of kindness four years ago, George R. Sousa, a trumpeter in the United States Navy and nephew of the famous "March King," John Philip Sousa, is preparing to meet his benefactress in this city this Young Sousa, now attached to the cruiser Washington, is, like his uncle, somewhat of a musician, and has just learned of his good fortune in the possession of $11,000 in cash and income property at Hot Springs, Ark., to twice that value, when his term in the Navy expires at the end of the year.

The property is a gift from a woman admirer, Mrs. Catherine Brown, of Washington, D. C., 27 years old, who is in the near-class to Mrs. Russell Sage when it comes to cash; and he hasn't a cent-yet.

Sousa Is 21 Years Old Announcement of Sousa's good luck came in a letter from his admirer telling of a visit she is planning to Seattle, Mrs. Brown is on her way to California and will reach Seattle on tomorrow or Thursday. She has followed Trumpeter Sousa in his cruises all over the world.

Heretofore Presidential visits to state capitals have been limited to occasions when the Nation's ruler had to open an exposition, or some thing like that.

Hughes Is Deemed Savior.

President Taft is thoroughly concerned bout the condition of the party in this state. A Democratic victory here this year would undoubtedly mean a Demo cratic House of Representatives, and be a bad start for 1912, when Taft's successor will be elected.

RECEIVER DEVLIN DEFENSE'S TARGET

WITNESS TELLS MORE DETAILS

Oregon Trust Lost $80,000 in Golden Eagle Deals.

BANK SALE CRITICISED

Transfer of Securities of Concern Termed Insolvent, Argued by Attorney Fulton as Sufficient to Discredit Devlin.

For six or seven hours yesterday Thomas C. Devlin, receiver of the Oregon Trust & Savings Bank, was the object of an attack by Attorney Fulton, in the defense of Walter H. Moore, accused bank president now on trial. Mr. Devlin proved himself an adroit and resourceful antagonist in the play of wits.

Attorney Fulton devoted yesterday to attacking Mr. Devlin as an interested witness, and endeavored to show there was something wrong in the way the interests of S. G. Reed, P. L. Willis and Mr. Devlin in the German-American Bank were acquired. Mr. Devlin, in making the full details of the transaction public for the first time, showed that he and associates were led into the ownership of the German-American Bank stock through a proposition which came from L. J. Wilde and his confreres.

Mr. Devlin had forgotten one or two little points in connection with the deal made prior to the order of the court sanctioning the German-American deal, but a misstatement made by him in the morning was corrected by him in the afternoon. In addition to the losses enumerated by bim the day before, he brought out yesterday that in the closing of the Golden Eagle deal the bank had lost $80,000.

Insolvent, Says Witness.

At the opening of the morning session District Attorney Fitzgerald Deputy handed Mr. Devlin a list of notes in the bank at the time of the crash prepared by Mr. Moore when reorganization of the bank was planned. Mr. Devlin identified them and said: "This was made in order to get at come knowledge of what these notes were worth, and shows the good and bad. Mr. Moore prepared the list in the latter part of November, 1907. He placed the valuation upon the notes himself." The list was offered in evidence.

"From your examination, Mr. Devlin," asked Mr. Fitzgerald, "as receiver and accountant of all the assets in this bank that came into your hands, and considering the kind and character of all those assets and the value of the same, and considering the amount of the Habilities of the institution, are you able to state the financial condition of the bank as to whether or not it was solvent on the day it was turned over to you as receiver, the day it closed?" "I am," responded the witness.

"You may state to the jury what that condition was," continued Attorney Fitz-"The bank was insolvent," said Mr. Devlin.

Bond Value Not Told.

"Can you give the amount in which it was insolvent?" asked Attorney Fitzgerald. "I stated on September 17, 1907, the day

I made up my report," Mr. Devlin repiled, "that the bank would not pay 80 cents on the dollar. According to the schedule I made out, the liabilities exceeded the amots by $433,008.55, but that estimate takes in the telephone bonds at par. They were not worth par."

Owing to an objection the witness was not allowed to tell the value of the bonds. He then testified that a majority of the telephone bonds were taken by depositors in lieu of their deposits. Mr. Devlin then said he had made a thorough search for the bylaws of the bank just after he went in as receiver and experienced great difficulty in locating them, Mr. Moore, he said, always asserting that he did not know who had Attorney Fitzgerald then introduced a copy of the bylaws as evidence. From them he read that the savings deposit accounts were not to be invested in any but National or municipal bonds or in first mortgage on real estate. "How many National or municipal bonds did you find in the bank?" asked Attorney Fitzgerald

Loss Over Store $80,000.

"When the receiver closed out the bustness," Mr. Devlin answered, "we received about $25,000 or $27,000, the loss to the bank being $80,000."

Attorney Fitzgerald reserved the right to recall Mr. Devlin for another line of testimony and the witness was turned
