Address at University Today Is Expected to Be Important One. People Impressed by His Capacity for Detail.

CAIRO, March 27.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt and his family today attended the morning Easter services at the Eng-fish Church, which was crowded with worshipers. Later they gave a small private luncheon in Shepherd's Restaurant, and afterward Colonel Roosevelt received informally a deputation of Copts and Mohammedans and leading Egyptian jour-

Colonel Roosevelt discussed religious intolerance and other non-political sub-jects with his guests, while they were served with coffee and cigarettes.

Teday's Speech Important.

Every one is awaiting anxiously the speech of Colonel Roosevelt at the university tomorrow. His discourse, it is thought, will prove an important one. The assessination last month of Boutros Pasha Gall, premier and minister of for-eign affairs, by a student, is expected to be alluded to in an address. Colonel Roosevelt attended a banquet given in his bonor tonight by the sirdar, Sir Reginald Wingate.

Sir Reginald Wingate.

After the dinner and reception at the American agency Saturday night, Colonel Roosevelt returned to Shepherd's Hotel, where a largely attended Venetian fete and dance was in progress. Colonel Rossevelt, however, went immediately to his suite, in order to obtain a much needed rest after a strenuous day.

Egyptians Are Impressed.

In the course of a conversation be tween an educated Egyptian and the correspondent of the Associated Press today, the Egyptian declared that Colonie Rooseveit had learned more about the Assout American mission in two days than Lord Cromer had learned in 25

PHRENOLOGY HIS TOPIC

Lecturer Quotes Huxley in Support of Government Aid Plan.

At the meeting of the People's Forum At the meeting of the People's Forum last night in Alisky Hall, Pofessor George Morris gave a lecture on character reading through the study of phrenology. The speaker referred to various ways of judging character by the way people walk, by the way they wear their hats and by the expression of their faces. Phrenology, Professor Morris declared, was not only an interesting study but a useful one. He quoted Huxley, who, he said, expressed quoted Huxley, who, he said, expressed the opinion that the Government should employ experts in phrenology to visit the schools throughout the country and wherever by its use special talents were found the Government should undertake the education of such children where the parents were not able to do so. Huxley, the speaker said, had declared that the waste of power in Niagara Falls was ineignificant in comparison with the waste of power lost by failure to develop the special talents of young people.

At the conclusion of his address Professor Morris made an examination of several persons in the audience. Preced-ing the lecture humorous recitations were given by Mrs. Morris, Miss Gove and T. D. Stevens. H. D. Wagnon presided.

Engene Cigar Stores Will Fight Ordinance in Present Form.

EUGENE, Or., March 27 .- (Special.) -All the cigar stores in Eugene, ten in number, were open this morning, except one, a city ordinance to the conexcept one, a city ordinance to the con-trary notwithstanding. The ordinance providing for the closing all cigar stores, pool and billiard rooms and card rooms on Sundays was passed a month ago but did not become effective until today.

The measure was resented by many of the dealers and the week following its passage a petition was circulated among the business men asking to have the ordinance amended so as to allow no sale of cigars and tobacco. Eight of the stores closed their card rooms and pool halls. One opened its pool and card room in the rear of the store as usual, and was cited to ap-pear in court tomorrow morning by Chief of Police Harrington.

KANSAS CITY, March 27.—(Special.)—Mrs. Jack Cudshy shows the strain she Mrs. Jack Choany shows the strain she has been under for the past few weeks. The wife of the wealthy packer who, in his own home, seriously cut the rich banker, Jere Lillie, when he found him in company with Mrs. Cudahy, is now shunned by those who formerly sought her out, and is avoided by the ones who used to be among the first to seek her favor.

Mrs. Cudahy has tasted this sort of treatment before from certain circles of Kannas City society. Indeed she has never succeeded in establishing that close intimacy with some of the more cultured people here that she desired. Her notoriety-neeking has not appealed altogether to those who select their friends according to standards other than wealth according to standards other than wealth. Mrs. Cudaby still occupies the beautiful home from which her husband has gone. It is the general helief that his California trip is the beginning of a separation from her forever. There have been rumors of her forever. There have been rumors of a reconciliation, but according to those in as good a position as anyone to be informed there is nothing to these tales. It is even hinted that Cudahy will take this means of punishing her for what he has declared to be her faithlessness. He is a Catholic and the teaching of his church on divorce, it is said, will be lived up to strictly.

It was in a spirit of bravado during the first realization of her ostracism that she gave out the interview about her fondness for the stage and its people. It is true that she has received many offers from theatrical managers. It would not surprise Kansas City much if scener or later she accepted one of these. Taft Talks to Senate.

The Administration is looking to the Senate to save the principal features of the lowest bid, in all probability will the original bill. Supporting the President in this matter are Senators Elkins, Aldrich, Kean, Crane, Cullom and Nixon, as well as many other Republican leaders. Vigorous assaults upon the measure company. one or two of the amendments favored by insurgents.

Not the slightest consideration is being given by the Senate to the attitude of the House on the bill. The chances are when a conference is held the two measures as passed will resemble each other very little. That being the case, the act will have to be made in conference. It is clear that the Senate conferees will be strengthened by the influence of the White House.

Conservation May Go Over.

More force is being exerted by Senate leaders to carry out President Taft's views on the railroad bill than on any other Administration measure. It would surprise no one if the conservation measures should go over until another session. It is also certain there is a hard road ahead of the statehood bill, although the Democratic Senators have given some in-dications of demanding an agreement that a vote be had on the statehood bill as the plan for giving an open road to the railroad bill.

The naval appropriation bill is before the House now, and there is in prospect a sharp contest over the question whether there shall be constructed two big battleships, or only one, as the minority of the committee favors. Navy and Army.

The postals saving bank bill is expected to come out of the House committee with-in a few weeks. There is considerable to insure keeping funds in banks in the vicinity where collected.

Cannon May Be Issue Again.

If the row between the regular and insurgent Republicans is at an end, as leaders of both factions profess to believe, it would appear that Congress may be expected to adjourn about June 15. There are indications, however, that the fires of the recent contest are smoldering and may break out at any moment. Considerable talk is heard about eliminating Cannon from the Speakership, and on Saturday the idea was advanced that Asher C. Hinds, the parliamentarian of the House, might be favored for that

The Democrats are vehement in their declarations that they will carry the next House, and it is not known how they would feel about the selection of a nonmember for the Speakership. Neither is it known how Mr. Hinds would feel about giving up his position of a seat in the House for an honor that might be comparatively short.

ASHER HINDS TO PROFIT

Plan Embraces Making Parliamentary Authority Speaker and Representative of His District Besides--Democrats Hold Back.

WASHINGTON, March 27 .- (Special.)-The late insurgents still regarding themselves as very much alive, have directed fresh attention to the idea of having the Speaker of the House of Representatives merely the presiding officer through the suggestion that Asher C. Hinds, the leadng present-day parliamentary authority in the United States, be selected to fill the chair now occupied by Joseph G. Cannon in the dual role as Speaker and Representative from the Eighteenth District of Illinois.

While the radical insurgents, those who insist on refusing to let the country for-get that they are insurgents, are clamor-ing for Cannon's scalp in addition to his sceptre, and threatening to find a way of deposing him before the end of the session if he does not abdicate, there has been a good deal of talk in other quarters as to the advisability of completing the reform started by divorcing the Speakership entirely from politics.

Speaker has been the actual one to decide complicated points of order.

The one serious setback that is prominent above all others to the immediate carrying out of any scheme looking to the selection of Mr. Hinds as presiding officer of the House is the fact that this is not just the season for the Democrats to take to the idea.

Democrats Have Hopes.

The Democrats have hopes of carrying the next House of Representatives and they are not prepared to furnish any precedent that would rob them of the glory and honor of having the office of Speaker with such power as may cling to it, in case the minority party becomes the majority in 1911. If anything along the line suggested is done at the present session, it would be more likely to follow strategic action on the part of the regular Republicans—should they become convinced they were to lose the next House.
