gter 11 o'clock. The charge against Moore is brought inder section 18 of chapter 138 of the regon laws enacted by the Legislature The maximum penalty is a Ine not exceeding $1000 and imprisonhent not exceeding two years.

Announcement was made several days igo in the District Attorney's office that h case of a mistrial Moore would be stried again as soon as possible on he same charge. Moore's case is the aret time under the new law that the juestion of solvency of a bank had beome an issue in the Oregon courts. Attorney Fulton at 8:30 o'clock in the porning announced that the defense would waive argument before the jury. ch as the attorneys for the deense had asked for time the preceding ifternoon, Judge McGinn asking that his peach be deferred until yesterday, the antouncement that they would make no ar-rument came as a great surprise.

Charge Tells of Deposit.

Judge Bronaugh excused the jury until 0:30 o'clock to enable him to prepare him formal charge. Then court was reconrened and the charge given. Briefly, he beld in his interpretation of the law that draft deposited by Minnie Mitchell was a valid deposit, that Moore did not have to be present in the institution at the time the transaction happened. He defined insolvency by saying that the insets, taken at a reasonable price, regardless of their cost, to meet the liabilities, settled within the usual course of busipeer after the monner in which the average careful, prudent man might adminis fer his own business which he was about Several Instructions Opposed.

Attorney Fulton took exception to sevaral points in the judge's charge. Objection was made to the in-structions as to the delivery of Objection was made to the in-gructions as to the delivery of the bank draft being a deposit within the meaning of the law; to that portion of the charge in which it was said that it was not necessary for the defendant to be Germany, reached the city yesterday on present in the bank at the time of the alleged deposit; to the judge's comment on the testimony of the defendant, the weight to be given it and also because it was singled out and commented on separately from the testimony of other witnesses. In part Judge Bronaugh's charge was as follows:

To constitute the crime charged in this indictment, three things must appear to your satisfaction, beyond a reasonable doubt, from the evidence in the case. First, that the Oregon Trust tered st the Nortonia.

J. Y. Gooding and wife, Worcester, Mass., and F. D. Thayer and F. D. Thayer and F. D. Thayer and Wife, Worcester, Mass., and F. D. Thayer and F. D. Thayer and Wife, Worcester, Mass., and F. D. Thayer and wife, Worcester, Mass., and F. D. Thayer and the case. First, that the Oregon Trust & Savings Bank, on the 20th day of Mitchell a deposit as charged in the indictment; second, that at the time said deposit was so received, if it was received, the said Oregon Trust & Savings Bank was insolvent; and, third, that the defendant, Walter H. Moore, then and there knew the said bank to be insolvent.

Coin Received Is Deposit.

"If you believe from the evidence that on the date charged in the indictment a bank draft was delivered by said Minnie Mitchell to the Oregon Trust & Savings Bank, as charged in the indictment, and was received by said bank, by one of its authorized agents, and credit given therefore by said account by entering the same upon a agent, by entering the same upon a deposit slip or book as a credit in favor of said Minnie Mitchell, said agent then delivering said book to said Minnie Mitchell with authority to draw and check against said Oregon Trust & Savings Bank to the extent of the credit said demonstration train. Savings Bank to the extent of the credit so given on said depositor's book, then you are instructed that said receipt of said alleged deposit by said bank was an acceptance of a deposit within the meaning of the law, even though said deposit may have been received after the usual banking hours. The subsequent closing of the bank, if you find that it closed by reason of insolvency, and the return of the deposit to said Minnle Mitchell, if you find it was returned, is immaterial.

You are instructed that it is not receissary that the defendant should have been present in the bank when said deposit was received, if you find that the defendant should have been present in the bank when said deposit was received, but it is sufficient if you believe from the evidence that the said deposit was tree to adorn the walls of the trail, as the opening from the hotel designated.

and received by some person other than designated. the defendant, but that such person was then and there in the employ of the Oregon Trust & Savings Bank and acting under the direction and control of said defendant in said employ and that such other person had general power and authority from the defendant to receive deposits into said bank.

Closed Doors Not Enough.

Closed Doors Not Enough.

"The mere fact that the bank in question closed its doors and suspended payment on or about the 1st of August, 1907, if you find it to be a fact it did so, would not of itself be sufficient proof or evidence of insolvency. If you shall find that even though the bank was compelled to close its doors and suspend payment because of insufficient cash to continue active business, and suspend payment because of insufficient cash to continue active business, and suspend payment because of insufficient cash to continue active business, and shall also find that at the time the deposit in question was received, if it was received, the value of the assets of the bank cealizable in a reasonable time, in the course of liquidation by the proprietors as ordinarily prudent persons would ordinarily prodest the state of the same was solvent, and should find the defendant not suitly.

"If you should find beyond a reasonable doubt that the bank was insolvent at the time the deposit was received, if you find that it was received, then in order to find the defendant or the cell of the crime chapted in this indicates the other elements which I have exity the other elements which I have exity the continents.

The following persons from the Pacific Prom Selected at New York hotels to oke he could be ordinarily prudent persons would ordinarily prudent persons from the Pacific Prom Selected at New York on an auto trip, and individuate to the defendant not persons from the Pacific Prom Selected at New York ordinary for the ordi plained to you as being necessary to constitute the crime, that you shall find that the defendant knew the bank to be insolvent at the time the deposit-in question was received, and such knowledge must have been actual knowledge.

Insolvency Is Defined.

The word insolvent as used in the statute to which I have directed your attention, and in the indictment herein, and applied to a bank or firm or corporation engaged in the business of banking, means inability to meet liabilities in the usual course of business; and if the assets of the banking firm are insufficient in value to pay the debts of such firm, company or corporation, then such firm, company or corporation is insolvent. A bank is solvent within the meaning of this act when it possesses assets of sufficient value to pay within a reasonable time all its liabilities through its own agencies, and is insolvent when it does not possess assets of such value. "The word insolvent as used in the not possess assets of such value

"You are further instructed that the defendant is a competent witness in this case, and you must consider his testimony in arriving at your verdict, but in determining what weight and credibility you will give as testimony in making up your verdict, you may take into consideration as affecting his credibility his interest in the result of the case, and that he is the accused party on trial, and testifying on his own hebalf." own behalf."
