

HUSBAND TORIES OF MARRIAGE & LIFE

Wife Compelled Him to Move 30 Times in Nine Years, Says ex-Minister.

LIFE IS ONE LONG QUARREL

Jealousy of Women Parishioners Makes It Impossible for Him to Stay in One Place—Cost of Living Cause of Divorce.

A preacher appeared before Circuit Judge Morrow yesterday morning and asked for a divorce. He was Rev. C. E. Daugherty, managing editor of the Klamath Stationery & Printing Company. He said he left the ministry because his wife complained of the way she women parishioners treated him. He first took up real estate, but later went to printing. But in spite of his efforts to please his wife, she continued to be declared, going to Grand Junction, Colo., the home of her parents. It was there they were married, July 31, 1901. Daugherty is a graduate of Pacific University of Eugene. He was preaching there when she became jealous, he testified, and caused trouble in the congregation, accusing him of infidelity.

"I resigned my position and determined to seek a new field of labor," he continued, "but she would have tantrums, and sometimes went so far as to slap me in the face. We moved to Paso Robles, Cal., where she continued to accuse me of unfaithfulness and quarreled with me at every chance. She followed me on the streets to see if I was running after another woman. Five months after I went there I had to leave. Then we went to Madison, Cal., and when there she accused me on two different occasions. After that we went to Petaluma, then to Hopland and then to the State of Washington. Pair Moved 30 Times.

"Her conduct has compelled me to move 30 times in the last nine years and about three-quarters of the time it was because she made trouble in the congregations. At the last place in Washington, where she preached, she caused trouble and I resigned to please her and to get out of the torment in which I was living. Last June she went to her home in California, and she started back to visit me once, but came only as far as The Dalles."

Mrs. Ruth Powell testified that she was a member of Daugherty's congregation at Kelso, Wash., and that one day when she was sitting on the lounge in Daugherty's home, talking with him, Mrs. Daugherty came in and accused the preacher of disloyalty, slapping him in the face. Mrs. Powell said she was married, and when asked by Daugherty's attorney if she had any intention of marrying the ex-preacher, replied that she had not.

Ida Parnass secured a divorce from Solomon Parnass because he promised before the marriage to give her $500, and has not kept his promise. She told her story to the court through an interpreter. She married Parnass November 1, 1909. He told her he would give her $500, but time went on and no money was forthcoming. So one day she reminded him of his promise, and he told her he had $150 in the bank, and that he would write it over on their joint account after the wedding. She said that she had seen nothing of the money.

Door Locked After Theater.

However, that was not the worst. She has two children by a former marriage, with whom she went to the theater on the night of February 25. When she returned late she found the door locked and upon awakening her husband, was told that she could sleep in the streets. Continued demands for assistance brought the threat to call a policeman unless she left and stopped disturbing her husband's rest. She finally persuaded him to let her in, but she said that she left the next day. Judge Morrow decided she should have a divorce when he gets around to signing the papers.

The increased cost of living was responsible for two divorces yesterday. At least that was what the women said. Harriet E. Churchill is one of them. The amount of money given her to pay the household expenses was so small, she said, that she was unable to pay the rent and move to a cheaper house. Her husband, H. B. Churchill, was dissatisfied, she declared, with the humble home, and taking his own belongings and some of hers, found a room for himself.

Winnie Stogsdill was the other woman who said the cash receipts did not equal her income. Mrs. Stogsdill, her husband, whom she said was in the butcher business, wanted her to go and work. She declared, saying she did not wish to give up her home and her housework. He said he would take a position at the packing plant on the Peninsula and would then go to Eastern Oregon. Stogsdill had been out of work a month, said the wife. They were living on woodlawn at the time of the separation. The wedding took place at The Dalles, October 12, 1908.

Weapons Kept Under Pillow.

Annie V. Axtell complained that George W. Axtell became jealous of her in 1906, after they had lived together 25 years, and habitually kept a knife and a revolver under his pillow. She said he would sometimes take the gun and watch the house nights, as though looking for someone, and at last ordered her out of the house. They have three grown children. Axtell, said the wife, is a mine owner. They were married at The Dalles, July 29, 1882.

Georgia Nelle Thornton secured a divorce from James H. Thornton upon depositions, the only witness being Elias Day, who said that Mrs. Thornton was a resident of Oregon for a year before the divorce suit. The Thorntons were married at Covington, Vermont, January 11, 1903. The wife signed a deposition to the effect that her husband is addicted to the use of intoxicating liquors and laudanum. She came to Oregon to escape him, she said, and as she was about to leave, he locked himself in the bathroom and turned on the gas, intending to commit suicide.

Minnie Rosenberg obtained a divorce from Don Rosenberg, whom she married September 26, 1909. She said she swore at her in public and was so abusive that she had to leave him. Rosa Margulies brought a divorce suit against Meyer Margulies in the Circuit Court yesterday. Her complaint is that when she was attempting to bathe their child, he gave the youngster a violent beating and when she remonstrated knocked her down.

She says also that he accused her last week in the presence of others, of being unfaithful to him. She asks the custody of their two children, and that the husband be required to pay $5 a week for their support. She was married to Margulies June 15, 1902.

Otto H. Ewers filed a divorce suit in the Circuit Court yesterday against Elizabeth Ewers, charging her with having paid too much attention to George Hunt while she was living with her husband at Sacramento, Cal. They were married in the California capital, December 12, 1900.

Judge Settles Grover Case Dispute.

Presiding Judge Morrow, of the Circuit Court, decided yesterday that Attorney John Manning may take the deposition of Mrs. Rachel Hawthorne next Thursday morning in the case of Lafayette Grover vs. suing to secure title to a large piece of property near the City Park. In passing upon the right of the plaintiff to have testimony taken, Judge Morrow said he believed the plaintiff had the right to arbitrarily require the taking of testimony, although he admitted that he could find no law as to how it should be done.

Stanford White's Relative Paroled.

F. Manson White, architect and a relative of Stanford White of Thaw trial fame, pleaded in custody before Presiding Judge Morrow yesterday afternoon to having forged and passed a check for $5 on January 20. He was sentenced to one year in the County Jail, and paroled to John Teuscher, of the Prisoners' Aid Society. He was instructed to report to Mr. Teuscher once a month.

Kans Sued on Mortgage.

Andrew Kan dealer in Chinese goods, and Minnie Kian, his wife, are being sued in the Circuit Court for the recovery of $8000 and interest on a mortgage. Louis C. Prander filed the complaint against them yesterday. The mortgage is upon 425 acres, a part of Perry Pratyman donation land claim. The plaintiffs are also for $750 attorney's fees and $125 taxes.

O. R. & N. Issues New Map.

What is considered by many to be the most up-to-date map of the Pacific Northwest in existence, has been issued by the Oregon Railroad & Navigation Company. It is 48x64 inches and contains the map of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and strips of the country adjoining. An important feature of the map is the location of the various reclamation projects in the three states.

RECEIVER IS CONFIRMED

C. M. REDFIELD WILL TAKE CHARGE DESCHUTES CANAL.

Is Especially Charged to Supply Settlers Under the Ditch With Water. No New Sales May Be Made.

Divesting the receiver of all power to do more than preserve the property of the Deschutes Irrigation Company, an order confirming the appointment of Charles M. Redfield, of Bend, as receiver, was placed on record by Judge Bean in the United States Court. The salary of the receiver was placed at $250 per month.

L. K. Adams, junior member of the law firm of Sinnott & Adams, with offices in the Chamber of Commerce building, was named as special attorney for the receiver and his compensation fixed at not to exceed $100 each month. The next step in the litigation will recur upon the complaint filed on behalf of the Ohio investors for a foreclosure of the first mortgage given as security for the bond issue in which they placed $250,000 of their money. The set reclamation people will have until Monday morning of next week, April 4, in which to respond to the complaint.

The bondholders of the concern will surely proceed with foreclosure of the mortgage, said Attorney Wilson last night. Wilson, however, is not a disbeliever of Judge Bean as to the rights of the Easterners to maintain their suit. To be an announcement that the terms of the mortgage had been violated through the failure of the Deschutes company to pay the installments of interest as they became due. Therefore the foreclosure is only a matter of time. "We will probably ask the court to cancel the bonds by a deed of the property, and will organize another company to proceed with the affairs of the concern, complete its plan of reclamation and redeem the contracts which have been made. It must be understood that we are ready at any time to accept the money due the Ohio people and step out."

B. Williamson, care of J. W. Bailey, Food and Dairy Commissioner, Portland. Analysis of food are in the province of Mr. Williamson; other analyses of Mr. Bradley.

COURT MOVES EAST

Judge Bean to Open First Term at Pendleton.

BANK CASE TO COME UP

Litigation Between Indians Involving Tribal Marriage Custom and Titles to Land Dependent Upon Them Are to Be Heard.

Beginning Tuesday morning the United States Court will hold its first term east of the Cascade range. In the bill which provided for an additional District Judge for Oregon a clause was inserted providing that the court should remove to Pendleton on the first Tuesday of April each year, and that the judge to be appointed should preside. Therefore Judge Bean will make the trip. He will be accompanied by District Attorney McCourt and an officer to be designated by the United States Marshal. Among the important cases to be considered is that of the receiver for the Farmers & Traders National Bank of La Grande against F. G. Bramwell, for recovery on a note found among the files of the awarded to respondent, who sued for an interest in the 200 acres awarded to his wife. The couple were divorced, but not before another child had come to the tape. Mary Guyett, then married a white man named McIntyre, who later was sent to the penitentiary, and while he was there the woman obtained a divorce from him. She is now the wife of a man named Welch.

Ellen Parr is suing the United States as trustee for an interest in the estate of her adopted mother. The squaw who became foster mother to the wife of the foothills died and her two natural children excluded the adopted daughter from participation in the estate. Ellen Parr is the wife of a Frenchman named John Dawson.

Indian Cases May Puzzle.

The docket contains 15 controversies between Indian claimants and the United States. Some of the cases are of the Umattilla reservation, and some of them are expected to tax the ingenuity of the court in their determination. Following the Indian custom of "trial marriage," Mary McIntyre bore a papoose for Joe Guyett prior to their marriage. Each had received an allotment of land. Soon after receiving the land, they were married. Investigation of the claims by the United States caused a cancellation of the award to respondent, who sued for an interest in the 200 acres awarded to his wife. The couple were divorced, but not before another child had come to the tape. Mary Guyett, then married a white man named McIntyre, who later was sent to the penitentiary, and while he was there the woman obtained a divorce from him. She is now the wife of a man named Welch.

The squaw who became foster mother to the wife of the foothills died and her two natural children excluded the adopted daughter from participation in the estate. Ellen Parr is the wife of a Frenchman named John Dawson.

Marriage Is Questioned.

Another intricate problem for the court to unravel is found in the litigation between Yakima Joe and an Indian woman known as Toislap. Joe was a Columbia River reservation Indian who lived with a daughter of Toislap, whom he asserted he had married. The daughter of Toislap had received an allotment Joe went to the Warm Springs reservation, where, in 1907, another woman and secured an allotment. The daughter of old Toislap died, and the mother claimed the land as her heir. It is asserted that the daughter had never been married. Joe heard of the death and returned to the Umattillas to secure the land.

BEARING BOYCOTT BANNERS

Employers' Association Offers Protest Against Practice.

The following letter written by A. L. Tetu is submitted to The Oregonian by the Employers' Association, with a request for publication.

PORTLAND, Or., March 31.—(To the Editor.)—As a citizen of Portland I desire to call your attention to a nuisance which has of late grown very common in Portland. It is the carrying of boycott banners in the streets of Portland in the best interests.

I am informed that this practice is not tolerated in any city in the East, and I doubt if it is permitted in any city on the Coast, not excepting San Francisco, which everyone knows is in the saddest and sorest condition in the history of the world, and too much freedom to the union. Los Angeles is the only city in the West that has stopped this practice with a vigor.

It is a disgraceful sight to see people coming into Portland daily, and while finding a beautiful city with attractions of every kind to induce them to remain and invest, yet they are confronted with this one insult to their intelligence and common sense.

If there is no law to enable this city government to stop this practice, would it not be clearly of service to the community for the Board of Public Health to call upon the citizen to present an ordinance to the City Council, and that the ordinance should be Portland take up to the fact of the importance of making their Councilmen understand that this nuisance is not wanted and should be legislated against at once?

THE CHILDREN ENJOY

Life out of doors and out of the games which they play and the enjoyment which they receive and the efforts which they make, comes the greater part of that healthful development which is so essential to their happiness when grown. When a laxative is needed, the remedy which is given to them to cleanse and sweeten and strengthen the internal organs on which it acts, should be such as physicians would sanction, because its component parts are known to be wholesome and the remedy itself free from every objectionable quality. The one remedy which physicians and parents, well informed, approve and recommend and which the little ones enjoy, because of its pleasant flavor, its gentle action and its beneficial effects, is—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—and for the same reason it is the only laxative which should be used by the fathers and mothers.

If you would have them grow to manhood and womanhood, strong, healthy and happy, do not give them medicines when medicines are not needed, and when nature requires assistance in the way of a laxative, give them only the simple, pleasant and gentle—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna. As you value the health of the little ones, do not accept any of the substitutes which unscrupulous dealers sometimes offer to increase their profits. Please to remember, the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package. To get its beneficial effects it is necessary to purchase the genuine only. Buy a bottle today to have in the house when needed. Put up in one size only. Regular price 50c a bottle and for sale by all leading druggists.
