SLOUGH MYSTERY SOLVED. Dead Man Identified as William H. New, Oregon Pioneer. Mystery surrounding the man found drowned in the Columbia Slough Tuesday was cleared yesterday when S. P. New, 24 Cook avenue, identified the body as that of his father, William H. New. The elder New was 67 years old and came to Portland many years ago from Westland, Ind. He settled in Powell Valley in 1865, where he was a farmer until recent years. At the time of his death he still held property there. He had been missing from his home since February 5. The theory of his son is he had become mentally deranged and wandered away. It is believed that he fell into the slough accidentally and was drowned and was not the victim of foul play.
