OAK-GROVITES COMPLAIN

TROLLEY COMPANY AGAIN IN FOR CRITICISM.

Betterment of Service During Rush Hours and Holding of Cars When Draws Are Open Are Demanded.

A miniature rebellion has broken out in Oak Grove against the service on the Oregon City line of the P. R. L. & N. Company. At a meeting of the Oak Grove Improvement Association Thursday night resolutions were passed asking for a better service during the rush hours of the day and that, in view of the non-completion of the Madison-street bridge, over which the cars formerly ran, the conductors be instructed to hold their cars at East Water and East Morrison streets when the draw is open so that passengers may have an opportunity to catch the cars. In this connection a communication, directed to the company by 14 men, who were forced to wait 30 minutes for a car on account of the draw being closed and their car leaving before they crossed the bridge, was included in one of the resolutions. The communication, followed by the resolution, is as follows: East Water and East Morrison Streets, Portland, Or., April 4, 1910.—The undersigned are members of a party of 14 who have just missed the 5:30 P. M. car for Oregon City on account of an open draw and the failure of the O. W. P. & N. in starting its cars to give any consideration whatever to delays so caused. We hereby protest against this indifference to the comfort and convenience of the patrons of this line, especially when a delay of half a minute would have been sufficient to enable us to reach the city. B. Lee Paget, F. J. James, N. W. Matthews, P. H. Kruger, E. J. Debevoise, J. W. Willits, H. L. Field, James S. Reed, T. J. Gary, George M. Lazel. Whereas, Under normal conditions, while the cars are leaving East Water and East Morrison streets, no effort whatever is made to meet the exigencies accompanying the opening of the Morrison-street bridge draw; Resolved, By the regular meeting of the Oak Grove Improvement Association that the accompanying statement be incorporated with these resolutions, as a fair illustration of annoying conditions constantly occurring; and be it further resolved, That the officials of the O. W. P. & N. division of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Co. are hereby petitioned to take such steps as may afford the desired relief and adjust the service to such delays as might result thereby in precisely the same way as they will have to when their cars reach cross the Madison-street bridge. The resolution criticising the service reads as follows: Whereas, The Oregon City car and trailer leaving Portland at 5:30 P. M. Wednesday, April 6, showed by the register when it reached Astoria that 471 fares had been collected; and many tired men and women were consequently obliged to stand whilst traveling six or seven miles; and whereas, The Madison-street bridge is the normal condition during evening rush hours, as it has existed for many weeks; be it Resolved, That the Oak Grove Improvement Association hereby congratulates the Oregon Water Power & Railway Co. upon the splendid business showing thus made, and respectfully requests it seriously to consider the necessity for a 25-minute service during the hours through which this congested condition continues. A touch of rheumatism, or a twinge of neuralgia, whatever the trouble is, Chamberlain's Liniment drives away the pain at once and cures the complaint quickly. First application gives relief. Sold by all dealers.

INDIANS TO BE COUNTED

EXPERTS TO TAKE LAST CENSUS UNDER TRIBAL SYSTEM.

Portland Citizens Realize Importance of Full Count and Plan Aid in City.

Captain O. C. Applegate, in charge of the enumeration of Indians in Oregon, passed through Portland yesterday en route for the Grande Ronde reservation, where he will arrange for the opening of the work. As an ex-Indian agent in this state, Captain Applegate is familiar with the tribal customs and uses the sign language, a method of communication known to all the tribes. This being the last time the Government will be called upon to enumerate the redmen by tribes, owing to the raid breaking up of the reservations through acceptances of allotments, Captain Applegate proposes to carry the lists and plates of the Second Congressional district for the location of every living descendant of the original Americans. With only seven days remaining before Supervisor Beach's enumerators begin work, a greater interest is being awakened among Portland citizens in the necessity of lending every possible aid to the men with the badges, labeled "Census, 1910." It is being realized that the only method by which Portland can secure justice in the returns is for every resident of the city to make a personal matter of seeing that every other resident has been counted. The census supervisor is warning the many callers at headquarters in the Lumber Exchange building, Second and Stark streets, of the necessity for not only getting together the data concerning members of the family, but to not overlook the servants. In every family where a servant is employed, the servant should be counted as residing at that home. The officers of the census enumeration for Portland have received many inquiries as to how the ownership of a home should be reported which has been acquired on the installment plan. Supervisors of hotels and lodging-houses are required by law to prepare and deliver to enumerators a full list of all the permanent occupants of their places of business. The portion of the law relating to that duty is as follows: "And it shall be the duty of every owner, proprietor, manager, superintendent, or agent of a hotel, apartment-house, boarding or lodging-house, tenement, or other building, when requested by the director of the census, or by any supervisor, enumerator, special agent, or other employe of the census office, acting under the instructions of the said director, to furnish the names of the occupants of said building, and to give the occupants free ingress and egress to any duly accredited representative of the census office, so as to permit of the collection of statistics for census purposes including the proper and correct enumeration of all persons having their usual place of abode in said building; and any owner, proprietor, manager, superintendent, or agent of said building who shall refuse or willfully neglect to give such information or assistance under the conditions hereinbefore stated shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be fined not exceeding $500."

"Girls Will Be Girls"--- From Smoky Pittsburg

Wonderment Expressed at Portland's Clear and Clean Atmosphere.

"Isn't it funny?" And the owner of the delicious treble voice laughed outright as she held up her hands for inspection. The humor lay in the fact that Miss Hastings, the speaker, had not had to wash her hands and face after the morning's original bath. Miss Hastings was one of a party of eight bonny girls in their early twenties at the Nortonia yesterday. According to their guide and preceptor, one Walter Eccles, they were representative of Pittsburg beauty and they were sent out to the West by the Pittsburg Dispatch for a brief, rushing trip. It was late in the afternoon and all the girls had been scurrying about sight-seeing. Then an amazing thing happened. They discovered they had only washed once that morning. "Why, girls, we must be frigid," said one as they rushed to a hotel mirror. "But they weren't." And that was what made Miss Hastings see the humor in the situation. "Just fancy," she said, "only having to wash once or twice a day. And don't you think it strange to look at the sky? How is it it is not foggy and smoky?" After the interviewer had begged for a half, she continued: "You see in Pittsburg everyone has to wash quite a number of times a day. When we go down town, we like to take even a clean collar so we can slip in somewhere and make a change. That was why I thought we must be horribly dirty after rushing about sight-seeing." Miss Giles wanted to know just where she could see an Indian. "A horrid man this morning said nearly all the people here were Indians," she continued. "And I haven't seen one yet. I did so want to. Strongheart is the only Indian I ever saw and he was not a real one—he was on the stage." Although Miss Giles had not seen an Indian she was frankly unconvinced that many people in Portland had never seen one. She seemed to imagine, too, that the roses grew wild and that any one could shoot bears in his back yard. "But the others did not believe these things. 'Don't be silly,' begged one of them: 'why I heard all the log houses disappeared over 10 years ago.' And off they all ran. The party consisted of Misses Giles, Warren, Harding, Kempton, Hastings, Galloway, Cones and Bell. Portland Man Takes Wife.
