

ENUMERATORS SHARE SURVEYING FIELD

Census to Begin Friday, Men Inspect Their Districts to Facilitate Count.

RIVER ROUND-UP PLANNED

Supervisor Beach and 127 Operatives to Combine to Register All Houseboat Dwellers—All Information to Be Secret.

No arrangement has yet been announced from Washington for the appointment of census inspectors and interpreters. It is probable, however, that the appointments will be made a few days after the enumeration has started.

In two days the count will be on. Many of the enumerators are already in the field making themselves familiar with the district to which they have been assigned.

It is believed that the population of the various town, houseboat and dweller among the wharves along the water front will reach at least 6000. All of them are employed as laborers in the various industries of the river.

A great aid to the enumeration will be afforded, says Supervisor Beach, if the 725 school teachers of Portland explain to their classes that the object of the census is to secure data for the information of the government as to the occupations and the financial progress of each family.

PERSONAL MENTION.

J. S. Dellinger, editor of the Astorian at Astoria, joined the crowd in the Imperial lobby last night. F. W. Jones, manager of the Hotel Nelson at Seattle, is spending his vacation at the Seward. Colonel P. H. Ray, of New York, and Dr. C. B. Ray, of Medford, arrived at the Portland yesterday.
