

COUNT IS ON TOMORROW

ENUMERATORS, 127 OF THEM, WILL START IN PORTLAND.

Supervisor Beach Has Call for Many Blanks which will be Prepared for Census-Takers.

Uncle Sam will begin counting the people of Portland tomorrow morning, and it is just as well for each man, woman and child to be cheerfully prepared to answer a large number of more or less impertinent questions as to age, occupation, color and kind of hair worn with this season's styles, the number of times you have been married and why.

Watchdogs and burglar alarms will be of no avail in keeping out the invader, because the dignity of an act of Congress is behind the man wearing the badge. Besides all that, there is a firm resolve on the part of the business people of the city to see to it that every person from Seaw Town to Portland Heights and Mount Tabor is accounted for.

With the first streak of dawn, 127 well-dressed young men will be turned loose by Supervisor Beach. Most of them are young men of pleasing appearance who are conceded to have the advantage of being able to extract information with the least possible pain to the patient.

Supervisor Beach has no qualms about the enumeration of the growth of Portland beginning Friday. He has investigated the statistics of the bureau and ascertained that about every big event which has been to the credit of Oregon began on Friday, even his own eventful career.

An allotment of funds for the employment of a number of interpreters was yesterday received from the Washington office. The men will be largely used in the Italian, Chinese and Japanese quarters, and will be paid $5 a day for the work.

Supervisor Beach passed yesterday at Astoria in an endeavor to straighten out the tangle of instructions which his assistants do not understand. The men were confused as to the districts in which they were to work, how to handle certain elements and would have been unable to do justice to the river city had Mr. Beach not taken the time to pay them a second visit.

Hundreds of people called at the office of the Census Bureau yesterday to secure individual blanks which may be filled out and left at their places of residence to be taken up by the enumerators, or mailed to the office of the supervisor in a franked envelope which is also furnished.

Eugene Enumerators Instructed. EUGENE, Or., April 13.—(Special).—Census Supervisor R. J. Hendricks, of Salem, conferred this afternoon at the Commercial Club room with 29 of the census enumerators for Lane County and gave out final instructions for the prosecution of the work which will begin Friday. The promotion department of the Commercial Club is also lending support in taking the census and has issued a circular to the public to expedite the work.

Gresham Recorder Resigns. GRESHAM, Or., April 13.—(Special).—D. M. Roberts, for the last three years City Recorder of Gresham, has resigned to accept a position with a Portland real estate company. He will go to Central Oregon to promote an extensive property enterprise there.

Possible sunrise April 12, 1910, 12 hours 24 minutes. Dawning (sun appeared to sea level) at 5 P. M., 20.40 inches.

Table with columns for Station, Direction, and State of Weather. Lists various weather conditions for different locations like Boston, Chicago, Los Angeles, etc.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

The North Pacific high pressure area is still central over Western Oregon and considerable cloudiness exists in the north Pacific states, but no rain of consequence has fallen during the 24 hours except a small amount near the coast. It is much colder east of the Cascade Mountains and the conditions are favorable for snow in the early morning in Southern and Eastern Oregon and in Eastern Washington and Idaho. In Northwestern Oregon and Western Washington there will be light frosts in exposed places. Fair weather will continue for 24 to 36 hours over nearly all parts of the district.

FORECASTS.

Portland and vicinity—Fair, with light frost in the early morning, warmer during the afternoon. Westerly winds. Oregon—Fair, with light frost in the afternoon; heavy frost in early morning south and west portions and light frost northwest portion. Westerly winds. Washington—Generally fair, warmer during the afternoon; heavy frost in early morning west portion in the early morning. Westerly winds. Idaho—Fair, with heavy frost in the early morning; warmer during the afternoon and north portions during the afternoon.
