"BOCCACCTO" AROUSES PLEAS-ANT RECOLLECTIONS.

Promise of Fine Sesson of Melody by Masters, as Presented by National Opera Company.

"It is just like old times," remarked a well-known first-nighter, who hasn't missed a good opening performance in the last 20 years, "to have the real thing in light opera."

This remark was made anent the National Opera Company, which is opening a Spring season at the Portland Theater. He continued: "A whole lot of us remember when Bocassic, was presented at the ber when 'Boccaccio' was presented at the opening of the old Casino by Jeannie Winston and made such a hit that we had continuous light opera for nearly a year. It looks as if history was going to repeat itself."

In these days of other kinds of musical entertainment there is distinct novelty in a company which embraces principals of National reputation and operas written when music, not comedy, was the prime requisite—standard light compositions that have been stamped with approval at every capital throughout the world-cheery, melodious works that will proba-bly live as long as grand opera.

A new generation has sprung up since Portland has enjoyed a continuous season of such universally popular operas as "Boccaccio," "Fra Diavolo," "Fatinitza" and "Martha." It is well that the younger set of theater-goers should be introduced to the masters of melody whom their ancestors so thereusely an intended to the masters of melody whom their ancestors. cestors so thoroughly enjoyed. Von Suppe, Balfe and their contemporaries had fine ideals in the art of harmony which later composers have never reached.

There is novelty also in a company of 50 people, every one of whom, from the prima donna to the man in the back row of the chorus, can sing—a genuinely mu-cical assembly of people who also can act. To the credit of Managers Russell and Drew be it said that commendable enter prise is shown when the prima donna in this company and the basso were chosen from among the artists who accompanied the Chicago Symphony Orchestra in Its tour of the United States. Portland needs Frank Priesch. Other principals in the cast rank with these two artists. Frank Priesch.

With adequate orchestra, new costumes and special scenery; with a well-drilled chorus whose every member can sing; with the most comfortable of Portland's theaters devoted to the better class of entertainment, it goes almost without saying that Russell and Drew at their playhouse at Fourteenth and Washington streets have entered auspiciously upon a musical season of high, but not too high, order.

HORSE SCARED TO DEATH

Old Animal Sees Engine, Trembles Lunges Forward and Dies.

KLAMATH FALLS, Or., May 1.—(Special)—The death of an animal from fright is probably a rare occurrence, yet this is what happened here today. T. E. Griffith, son of County Judge Griffith, drove into town with a team of old work animals and tied them up to a post near the Southern Pacific depot. About that time a freight engine came along, and one of the animals began to tremble and watched the engine as it passed. About the time the engine passed opposite the animal it gave one spas-modic lunge forward and dropped dead without a struggle

Visit of Empire Builder and Son of Much Interest.

PLANS TO BE ANNOUNCED

Intentions of Great Northern in Oregon Will Be Made Known. Itinerary During Present Visit Still in Doubt.

James J. Hill will arrive in Portland this morning. Reservations have been made of eight rooms at the Portland Hotel to accommodate the empire builder and his party, which includes Louis W and his party, which includes Louis W.
Hill, Howard Elliott, George F. Baker, president of the First National Bank of New York, and Charles Steele, representative of J. P. Morgan & Co. The party came by way of Seattle.

Announcement Is Expected.

Mr. Hill is expected to tell whether the system will build an east and west line across the state, and, if so, where it will intersect the Deschutes line, and at what point it will connect with an eastern line. He will make public the plans of the company regarding terminal arrangements in Portland, the probabilarrangements in Portland, the probability of a line to Coos Bay, and the extension of the United Railways to Till-

He will also tell what use the Grea Northern system will make of the Ore-gon Electric, supposing it to be a fact that his company owns that line, whether it will be used as a feeder to the steam roads; when the extensions from Salem to Albany, and from Tigardville to Mc-Minnville will be made, and whether the Deschutes line will be extended beyond the point at present indicated. These questions were propounded to Louis W. Hill at the time of his last visit and he stated unequivocally that he would discuss them when he returned. It is also probable that something definite will be said in regard to the recent rumor that the rival roads have made peace in the Deschutes Valley and will build a joint Louis W. Hill to Stay.

Further interest is given to the visit of the Hills by the fact that Louis W. OREGON LINE WILL BE LIMIT Hill Says Deschutes Road Will Not Go Farther South.

SEATTLE, Wash., May 1.—(Special.)— James J. Hill said today that the Des-chutes line being constructed by the Great Northern would not be extended beyond the Oregon line. Mr. Hill further said that the Deschutes extension would not that the Deschutes extension would not be completed this year. The rumor has been prevalent in railroad circles for some time that the Great Northern was contemplating plans for en-tering what is commonly called Harriman terring what is commonly called Harriman territory, by building into San Francisco and Southern California. Mr. Hill did not positively say that the Great Northern had no intention of entering California, but he did say that it would not enter that state by the Deschutes route.

The Hill party will leave Monday morning for Portland to inspect railroad property of the California of the Ca

SOCIALISTS HONOR DAY

DISCONTENT IS THEME OF ORATORS.

Leaders Discuss Social Problems and Denounce Aggression of Capitalist Class on Market Street.

Oratory of discontent filled the air in the vicinity of Market and Seventh streets yesterday afternoon, and about 1000 adherents of the Socialist programme assembled to cheer the speakers. For several hours local leaders of the movement discussed social problems and denounced the aggressions of the capitalistic class. The occasion was the annual May day festival, which is observed by revolutionary bodies all over the world by revolutionary bodies all over the world as a holiday consecrated to the spirit of unrest.

This "Glad to Know You Better" trip business elements of Oregon been so revealed that never before have the unified as they now are. "Oregon for Oregonians, but we need more Oregonians," that is the general opinion. At the interchange of thoughts in the public addresses at the many towns visited it was especially emphasized that it is business wisdom to keep that it is business wisdom to keep Oregon money in Oregon, instead of sending to other states for commodi-tles produced as well and better in Oregon. It is the consensus of opinion of all that in order that our present prosperity continue a special effort must be made. Every Oregonian must constitute himself a committee of one. to use his influence on every possible occasion, so that "Oregon made" may always receive preference.
