The meeting will be a business one, and an effort will be made to select the referce for the big fight. Action in this matter was deferred today until tomorrow on account of the formality of depositing $30,000 more of the guarantee sum in a local bank. Under the original articles of agreement May 4 is the last day upon which the man who is to officiate in the ring July 4 can be chosen, and it is said tonight that both Sam Berger, representing Jeffries, and George Little, Johnson's manager, are ready to submit their selections.

Jeffries came up from his training quarters at Ben Lomond late today to escort his wife back to the camp. In spite of his trainer's advice to lay off a day or so and take things easy, Jeffries plans to return to camp tomorrow, tak-ing an early train, declaring that he does not wish to break training for more than

"Don't hurry back. A couple of days' rest won't be unwise."
"I couldn't idle for more than a day." returned Jeffries. "Ti's no longer any effort for me to work and I know I'm soon going to be in bully shape. I wish the fight was the fourth of next month instead of the Fourth of July. I know I could be at my best in another four weeks."

'And for that reason." Burns chipped in, "I'm going to advise you to take things easy for the next fortnight. Just a little light work and boxing will keep you feeling good, for you've accomplished a great deal more than was expected of you in the first four weeks of training." The dash that characterized Jeff's work of yesterday was apparent again in his forenoon work today, and Bob Armstrong came in for another sound drubbing when he sparred him for four rounds. The stiffness and soreness in the right shoul-der, which has been bothering Jeffries, seems to have disappeared, for he used the right with good effect all through the

Friends Say He Advised Against Bets Fight Would Occur.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 3 .- (Special.)-An Eastern story to the effect that John-son had wired a friend in Chicago not to bet that the fight would take place as scheduled stirred up considerable trouble around the headquarters of tue promoters this afternoon. Johnson promptly denied that he had sent any such message, and wanted to see the man who was taking such liberties with his name.

The Eastern dispatch went on to say that a friend had written Johnson asking him if he should bet the fight would be held on July 4 and that John-son advised him against such a bet. "It's all a lie," shouted Johnson, when he was asked about it. "I never sent any such message and they ought to ask me about these things before sending out such fakes."

Rickard also wants it denied, as he is afraid that it might hurt the Eastern seat sale.
