BERRY MARKET BAD

Big Receipts and Cold Weather Break Market.

NO RELIEF IN SIGHT SOON

Prices Range From 40 Cents a Crate Up-Record Time Made by Banana Shipment From

New Orleans.

An unfortunate combination of circum-stances has put the strawberry market to the bad. The weather has been distinctly against trade and in addition to this reegainst trace and in addition to the couple have been excessive and promise to continue so throughout the week. Fortland dealers, in the hope that weather conditions would be normal, ordered heavily in California for chipment this week and at the same time shippers in the Southern state have consigned ilberal quantities to this market. This heavy influx of herries, together with the cold, wet weather, has resulted in a demoralized market.

Receipts of berries from Southern Oregon Receipts of berries from Southern Oregon points have also increased stendily. Not all that came in yesterday could be worked off before the close of business hours. Sales of Oregons were made at $2 at crate. As for the receipts from California, a good part of them had to be carried over to be added to the big receipts that are looked for this morning. Newcastle and Florin berries sold all the way from 50 cents to $1.25 a crate, while Los Angeles stock moved at 40@75c a crate. straight car of Los Angeles berries is lue this morning and about two cars of Florins will also come in. The Willamette Valley and local crop is in good condition, but is being held back by the cool weather. Aside from berries, business was good on the street. A fair-sized shipment of cher-ries arrived and they moved at $1.75 a box. A good assortment of vegetables was offered and prices, in the main, were steady.

The Ryan banana train came in yesterda ever the O. R. & N., instead of the North-ern, as heretofore. Three cars were left here and the remainder went north. This shipment made the best time on record from New Orleans—eight days and 19 hours.

SMALL AINTEREST SHOWN IN GRAIN. Mill Feed Prices Are Cut by Country Millers.

Very little interest is shown in the local heat market and prices are almost wholly ominal. Outs and barley are also quiet. Flour prices are being maintained with a air volume of business. The mill-feed mar-et, however, is decidedly weak because of savy offerings by some of the country ket, however, is decidedly weak because of beavy offerings by some of the country miliers and prices are in buyeff favor.

Hay prices hold their own. A late California trade circular says: "Receipts are very light, but fully enough to meet all the demand which is in this city at the present time, and the market continues along in a duil and uninteresting state. Consumers will not, buy other than for immediate needs and are no doubt figuring on the large crops of hay which they are already beginning to harvest, reducing prices even beginning to harvest, reducing prices eve orgining to harvest, reducing prices even more than at present. The sound of the mower can be heard in a great many sec-tions at the present time, and we predict the arrival of new hay into the market within a week. Consigned hay is still being ent to this market even at the exception ally low prices for which same has to be old. The majority of this hay, however, is hat upon which loans have been negotiated ind shipments are being forced to pay advances. We have found this to be the case several instances the past week. SEATTLE DEALERS THINK BED-ROCK IS REACHED.

Not Much Offered From Portland. Eggs and Cheese Are Weak. Berries Steady.

Sentiment in the local butter market is divided. In some quarters there is a be-lier that prices have reached the bottom and that the efforts to still further reduce prices are being made by packers who are anxious to secure butter for storage pur-poses. A little butter has already been placed in storage here. Portland offered little butter today, as packers are said to be picking up all the surplus there. Eggs were weak, with most sales at 27c.

direction of real relief from some of the factors that have borne most heavily on the factors that have borne most beavily on the factors that subject were varied and embraced a wide assortment of reported sales in Paris, London and Berlin. While none of these was officially verified, the corroborative indications were sufficient to warrant the assumption that large transactions were being consummated in the international markets. The most clearly defined reports pointed to New York City revenue warrants, St. Paul and Big Four bonds and, in vaguer terms, other railroad bond issues. Estimates of the amount of these sales are from $10,000,000 to more than $100,000,000.

The reopening of this source of supply for American capital requirements constitutes a relief of great importance for the condition of the American market, which has thrown the bend market into a lethargic state, and halted the progress of the plans for improvement and extension.

The London money market gave evidence today that the period of strain in that market was definitely over. The arrival in London of last Wednesday's heavy gold shipment from New York coincided with the decisive decline in money rates.

Sales of bonds abroad involve, of course, a prominent addition to the remittances made on interest payments, but this consideration is overweighed by the evident ability to employ additional capital on advantageous terms in demestic enterprises, with the piain indication offered by the bond market of scarcily of such capital of the country's indebtedness on account of
