

TRIAL BRINGS OUT SECRET COOPERATION

Agreement Found Stipulating Division of Profits From Telephone Bond Sales.

WILDE WAS TO GET HALF

Other Half From Disposition of $200,000 Bonds and $200,000 Stock of Puget Sound Company Went to Moore and Morris.

A copy of a secret agreement between the Oregon Trust & Savings Bank on the one hand, and W. H. Moore, W. Cooper Morris and Louis J. Wilde on the other, made December 11, 1908, just four days before Morris is alleged to have wiped $7,500 in notes of the Oregon Trust books with Home Telephone bonds, was introduced in evidence in the Morris trial yesterday afternoon.

This agreement, which has never before been mentioned, although its existence was suspected by those familiar with the manner in which Moore and Morris purchased for the Oregon Trust bank the Puget Sound Home Telephone stock and bonds, is taken as tending to show the motive of the two men in purchasing the stock for the bank. Some of those who heard the testimony at the Moore trial believe it also shows the motive of Moore and Morris for failing to tell Receiver Devlin that he could turn the Home Telephone bonds back to Wilde dollar for dollar within a certain time.

The agreement provides that 50 per cent of the net profits arising from the sale of $200,000 in bonds and $200,000 in stock of the Puget Sound Home Telephone & Telegraph Company be divided between Moore, Morris and Wilde, each receiving one-half, and Moore and Morris each a quarter. W. H. Moore on the witness stand yesterday afternoon admitted having signed this agreement along with the other two men. He didn't quite understand it, as said, when he signed it.

Agreed to Purchase Stock.

The testimony showed that Moore and Morris, as officers of the bank, agreed with Wilde to purchase the stock for the bank. This was done by individuals made an agreement by which each was to receive a part of 50 per cent of the profits made by the bank in selling the stock and bonds. Moore also testified regarding the four notes totalling $75,000, which Morris is charged with having embezzled. They are the notes which, he said, and were the property of the bank. He said Morris proposed to him to take some telephone stock and write it up at 50 cents on the dollar, and without any notes, which he said they did on December 15, 1908. The state also attempted to prove by him that the bank's notes were canceled the bank's notes was the bank's own stock.

Lloyd Smith, paying teller of the bank, said two brown envelopes, each marked "Cash" and containing $25,000, were given him on August 24 and 27, 1908. Nobody ever told him what was in the envelopes, and he never saw the notes, after he had balanced his cash for the night, Morris and H. A. Graves, the assistant cashier, took the envelopes and wrote off the cash item of $50,000. The envelopes disappeared, he said, and he has never seen them since.

Difference Found in Balance.

Ex-Cashier Graves said yesterday morning he considered it nothing unusual that the bank's cash balance, transactions after the paying teller had closed his accounts, but admitted that on no other occasion did he make entries from cash which they were not in the books. He admitted also that the cash slips were given him by Morris after the other employees had left. Morris had the combination to the cash vault, he said, and he had it himself a part of the time.

Adolph Schulz, former assistant bookkeeper, went through the entries in the general ledger, covering the same ground as Mr. Devlin did on the day before. He wrote up the "D. W. P." item of $50,000, he said, from a slip given him by Graves, but didn't know what it meant.

Henry A. Moore and Leo Friede testified they never heard of these transactions until the trial of W. H. Moore, tending to show that they were not authorized by the other directors of the bank.

Judge Gantenben, in whose department the case is on trial, said no session will be held this afternoon, although there will be a session this morning. The case will be argued by Fitzgerald and Special Prosecutor Clark are conducting the case for the state, and M. J. Gordon for Moore and Alex Sweek for the defendant.

Copy of Agreement.

Following is the secret agreement concerning the bond deal brought to light yesterday: December 11, 1908—We, the Oregon Trust & Savings Bank, on the one hand, and W. H. Moore, W. C. Morris and Louis J. Wilde, parties of the second part.

In consideration of the efforts of the second party in securing a favorable contract with the National Securities Company, Los Angeles, Cal., for the purchase of an additional $200,000 of the bonds and an equal amount of the stock of the Puget Sound Home Telephone & Telegraph Company, and for the exclusive handling of said securities, as provided in an agreement of even date herewith, agree that 50 per cent of the net profits resulting from the sale of said securities shall be divided as follows: one-half of said 50 per cent of said profits to W. H. Moore and W. C. Morris and one-half of said 50 per cent of said profits to Louis J. Wilde.

The said parties of the second part agree to use their best efforts to facilitate the sale of said bonds and stock, and to turn over all sales of the said part of the second part, the net profits to be divided when all the securities are disposed of, or sooner by mutual consent. The retention of any amount of stock bonds or securities hereafter shall be considered for the purpose of dividing the profits, the same as a sale.

OREGON PIONEER BURIED

John A. Thompson Had Lived in State Since 1853.

John A. Thompson, a pioneer of Morrow county, died at his home, 314 East Seventeenth street North, in Portland, on Monday, May 2. He was 75 years old.

Mr. Thompson was born in Franklin County, Missouri, and in 1853 crossed the plains with his parents, the family settling on a donation claim in Suislaw Valley, Lane County, Oregon. During the second Rogue River Indian war, in 1855-56, he was a member of Captain Keisey's company and was present at the battles of Cow Creek and the Meadows. In 1858, accompanied by his brother, Robert, who died in Pendleton, he moved to Eastern Oregon, and for many years they worked together, packing, mining and stock-raising.

They were settled on Hinton Creek, ten miles east of Heppner and engaged in sheep raising. In 1906, he sold out the extensive land holdings and retired from active business, building a fine residence in Heppner. In 1908, the family moved to Portland.

The remains were sent to Heppner and interred in the Masonic Cemetery, on Wednesday afternoon. The funeral was largely attended by citizens from all parts of the county. Mr. Thompson was married to Miss Mary Infield at Eugene on November 23, 1871, by whom he had five children, three sons and two daughters, only one of whom survives, Ralph, a graduate of the O. A. C. at Corvallis.

JURIST TO BE HONOURED

MONUMENT TO JUDGE WILLIAMS PROPOSED.

Park Board Takes Up Movement in Which Friends Throughout State Will Co-operate.

A monument to the memory of the late Judge George H. Williams, famous as the grand old man of Oregon, will undoubtedly be provided in due time, as yesterday morning Mayor Simon and members of the Park Board took up the subject and a meeting of the friends of the jurist will be called soon to arrange for it. It will probably be placed in Williams Park, at the corner of the street which has also been named in his honor.

Mayor Simon declared himself strongly favorable to such a plan, but the friends of the late jurist will be called upon to present a preliminary plan, and they will call a meeting for this purpose for some night next week.

It is the idea of the Mayor and members of the Park Board that this monument should be state-wide, but that it should be conducted by a committee of the intimate friends of the late jurist. Many of these, it was said, will be willing to contribute liberally toward the expense of the monument, while there will be many throughout Oregon who will want to help.

The Mayor and members of the Park Board will inspect the proposed Terrill-Williger boulevard property tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. This is one of the most important subjects now under consideration by the board.

Dr. Victoria Hampton asked the board to permit Oregon grape or some thing similar to be planted in the block farthest south in the parkway, instead of planting it to grass, but permission was refused, as suggested by Mr. Moore, who recommended that grass be planted. A complaint from the members of the Church of God against the playing of baseball on Sunday in Lincoln Park, Lower Albina, was read and filed. Councilman Ellis, who was present, said that there is no merit in the protest, that it is useless to very good advantage by the residents, nearly all of whom are satisfied.

ART DISPLAY WILL OPEN

Students Are to Show Work at Museum Next Week.

An exhibition of the year's work of the Art School will begin at the Art Museum Monday night with a reception, although it will not be thrown open to the public until Tuesday. The exhibit will then be open until May 23. All classes present specimens of their work, which included color sketches, sketches from life, casts, studies in design, brush and ink work. Ninety-eight students attended the school and they will present more than 150 pictures. The classes have been under the instruction of Miss Kate Cameron Simpson.

The paintings, sketches and drawings have been artistically arranged about the walls and galleries of the Art Museum, where they will be viewed to the best advantage. One of the most interesting features of the exhibit is the work of the children's class. There are a number of sketches from life that show marked talent with the brush.

Property further out, far from carlines, without many of the advantages of Irvington Park, are selling at six and seven hundred dollars per lot, while our price for lots in Irvington Park is $450. So, in justice to ourselves, in justice to the present owners of lots we have sold in Irvington Park, we are going to advance the price (on May 16th) to something near what the property is worth. In no part of the city can be seen more and better evidence of home building than in Irvington Park. Not for speculation, but for advertising purposes, but to be occupied by the builders as homes.
