Woodbury has written to Mayor Simon, calling attention to the collection of garbage all over the city during the daytime, and suggesting that an ordinance be passed limiting the collection hours to night time. The Mayor stated yesterday that he was in favor of this action, but that the Board of Health is working out a plan for the collection of garbage in all of its various phases and that he prefers to await its report before taking further action.

SINGER MAKES ROUGH AUTO TRIP.—Angela May, comic opera and vaudeville singer, arrived at the Portland hotel yesterday afternoon, after an inter-state trip from Boise, Idaho, by automobile, in which exactly one month was consumed. She left Boise April 15 and enjoyed the trip immensely, although the journey involved the removal of tremendous boulders, the surrounding of trees fallen across the road and the hauling of the car through the morasses that the rain had caused to form in the road.

WOMAN'S FRENCH SHOW.—Charged with attempted attack on Ida Weiser, the 4-year-old daughter of M. ALL COMING TO CONCERTS.—New York Symphony Orchestra Under Damrosch Will Attract Many Outsiders to Portland.

The most fascinating, as well as the most instructive music in the world is that of a great orchestra, such as Walter Damrosch brings to Portland for two concerts May 18, matinee and evening. These two concerts are under the direction of Lois Steers-Wynn, who will prove to be the crowning of the musical season. Hundreds of music-lovers in the adjacent towns are planning to come to Portland for this important event, realizing the fact that the keen delight received in hearing such incomparable harmony of a hundred diverse instruments, each one having an individual charm of its own, yet all blending in contributing to the unity of the whole effect, is beyond all calculation. The New York Symphony Orchestra is the only orchestra in America today that devotes all its time to the highest form of music—the symphony.

NAVAL OFFICER WILL MARRY PORTLAND GIRL.

Ensign Charles Washburn Croese, U. S. N., it was unexpected and came as a surprise to friends of each. It has been a long time since the fall of 1907, as affairs of the heart go, and it has been that long since Croese and Miss Frances Hammond, of Portland, were last seen together. At that time, the regulations of the Navy Department would not permit a midshipman to marry, and when this became known, the betrothal was broken.

It did not reckon, however, on the quality of now Ensign Croese's adoration for the girl he accidentally met in Golden Gate Park, San Francisco, when the battleship fleet was there on its cruise around the world in 1908. At that time, he was a midshipman and could not marry. Croese was barely of age and just out of Annapolis, taking his first long cruise.

While walking with a friend in Golden Gate Park one day he saw Miss Hammond and followed her some time, vainly searching the while for a woman wearing a reception committee badge. He finally was successful and secured an introduction. He immediately commenced his suit and has continued it without abatement since. He left soon afterward, but secured permission to write and from every part of the world there came to Miss Hammond letters, old souvenirs, Japanese kimonos, Turkish rugs and tapestries and the like.

"If you will just wait," he wrote her, "until I am promoted to a Junior Lieutenant, we can be married." His replies, however, were not any too encouraging and it was not until his recent visit here, a full-dressed ensign, that her consent was gained. The date has been set for June 7 and will take place here.

Miss Hammond yesterday confirmed this at her father's home in Rose City Park. It will be a simple home wedding and the couple will immediately go to San Francisco. From San Francisco, they will soon go to Honolulu, where Ensign Croese is to be stationed. He is at present assigned to the battleship Maryland, now at San Francisco. He must go to the mid-Pacific islands on a battleship, while she will remain there on a liner, the greater part of their honeymoon being spent apart.

"In mining districts our rangers are now required to keep in touch with mining operations in the reserves, to see that timber is not sold from the claims. The question of timber can be raised only when patent is applied for."

"We have agreed with Secretary Ballinger that all agricultural land in the forests shall be open to settlement. All of it that can be excluded from the reserve boundaries will be thrown out in a series of proclamations soon to be issued. Even the best tracts which may not be excluded advantageously, we shall afford every aid to the settler."

ENSIGN WINS GIRL

Pretty Romance to Culminate Here After Two Years.

FRANCES HAMMOND BRIDE

Romance Which Began When Naval Officer Met Girl in Park at San Francisco in 1908 to Have Its Climax.

This is a modern version of an ancient subject, a romance in which the sternness of Government regulations, the pageantry of military display, the pretty, pliant face of an American girl, and the natty uniform of a United States naval officer. Be it known, however, first, that the naval officer in question is not of the type usually brought to popular mind when that title is mentioned through Kipling's memorable inscription to Admiral Evans. On the contrary, it may all be expressed in this: "Annapolis, '07."

When announcement was made yesterday of the approaching marriage of Miss Frances Hammond, of Portland, and Ensign Charles Washburn Croese, U. S. N., it was unexpected and came as a surprise to friends of each. It has been a long time since the fall of 1907, as affairs of the heart go, and it has been that long since Croese and Miss Hammond, of Portland, were last seen together. From an Editorial in Yesterday's Oregonian

West Side property owners who are antagonizing better bridge facilities should take one note of the April building statistics. In that month there were permits issued for 215 residences and 23 business houses for the East Side and 20 residences and 15 business houses for the West Side. For the first four months of the year the East Side took out permits for 1074 residences and 61 business houses. For the same period West Side permits were 82 residences and 23 business structures."

Over seventeen residences building east of the river to the west of the river. This is the story of the growth of the two sections in a nutshell. Is it any wonder that we have claimed and still claim that the future "Greater Portland" will practically be on the East Side? As population creates land values and the natty uniform of a United States naval officer. Be it known, however, first, that the naval officer in question is not of the type usually brought to popular mind when that title is mentioned through Kipling's memorable inscription to Admiral Evans. "Land of Opportunity"

This is the accepted slogan for Oregon, and according to records of sales of farm lands made in the last few years, investors and home-seekers show their faith in the prediction.

A tract of 2000 acres, located most favorably in the line of rapid development in the Willamette Valley, 30 miles east of Portland, 15 miles from Gresham, is offered for sale by the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company at a low price per acre on favorable terms.

A projected railroad line is to pass through or near this tract, a county road already furnishing means of entry and exit for vehicles, including automobiles.

In the wooded portion 22,000,000 feet of good saw timber stand ready for the woodsman's ax, and the timber at present prices would go far toward paying for the entire tract. There is a lumber mill within three miles in operation.

There are fully 900 acres of level or gently sloping farming land, available when cleared, and from 700 to 800 acres of fine grazing land now waiting the farmer or dairyman.

Two good-sized creeks, with numerous tributaries, furnish an abundance of water. The tract will be disposed of as a whole, though a new owner could subdivide to great advantage.

For terms and full particulars call on or address Land Department, Room 623, Electric Building, Portland.
