MAYOR TO EXPLAIN

Citizens to Discuss Question of Public Docks.

VETO WILL GIVE REASONS

Bonds Should Not Be Sold Until Definite Plan Has Been Outlined. Completed Project Will Involve Many Millions.

Mayor Simon will hold a conference this afternoon with a joint committee of the Chamber of Commerce and the Taxpayers' League on the question of public flocks. While the Mayor has announced aiready that he will veto the ordinance which was passed by the City Council Wednesday, ordering the sale of $500,000 bonds, he has granted the committees named the privilege of presenting their side of the case.

Mayor Simon never has expressed himself on the actual subject of public docks, Mayor Simon never has expressed himself on the actual subject of public docks, but it is believed that, had the City Council proceeded according to some definite plan, and gone carefully into the project in a business-like manner before trying to sell the bonds, he would have at least acquiesced. However, without making any effort at all to arrange for a site for a public dock and with no definite plan outlined, the Council, led by Chairman Driscoll, of the committee on commerce, landings and wharves, passed the ordinance for selling the bonds.

Plan Should Precede Bonds.

Mayor Simon's veto, when it is issued, will go into the details of this question fully, and he will state his several objections to the ordinance, so that the public will have full knowledge of his attitude. He unquestionably will charge that the Counclinen who passed this measure did so without having any definite plan for acquiring the site for a dock, and to this procedure he will make strong objection.

The Mayor will state also that he is opposed to selling $500,000 of 4 per cent bends until such time, at least, as some definite plan for using the proceeds has been determined upon. Otherwise, it will be pointed out, the city simply will have to may the heavy literest on the issue. to pay the heavy linerest on the issue and get nothing in return—a policy to which he is emphatically opposed. He is against selling bonds for any purpose unless it is shown to be absolutely neccessary, as he has stated many times

Whole Project Costly.

Another strong objection the Mayor has to the procedure is that, if there is to be a system of public docks in Port-land, there should be an issue of bonds, not less than $5,000,000. This, he declares, not less than $5,000,000. This, he declares, will merely start the project, which, when completed, will probably cost the people anywhere from $10,000,000 to $25,000,000. The same statement of the people anywhere from $10,000,000 to $25,000,000. The same statement of the such a tremendous project as this looming up, Mayor Simon is naturally rautious, baving been elected on a platform that promised a thorough business-like administration. It is his determination, as stated by himself, to keep down the public debt and to reduce taxation as much as possible and not to lay further burdens upon the people.

COOS IS FOR ASSEMBLY

Republican County Committee Votes Unanimously on Question.

Coos County is the latest to an-ounce ananimous decison of the ounty Republican Central Committee for an assembly. According to infor-mation received at Republican head-quarters in the Cornellius Hotel yester-day from C. A. The precinct primaries for the selection of delegates to the assembly will be held on the afternoon of May 27. The assembly will be held June 3

SOCIETY CIRCUS PROBLEM IS BUSYING CLUB MEMBERS.

Plans Are Being Made to Seat Eight Thousand Persons on Multnomah Grounds.

The Mulnomah Field ground plan for the Society Circus during the Rose Fes-tival is now being mapped out and the numerous acts and sideshows that will make up the circus will need all the space the field affords. With from 400 to 500 M.A.A. C. members participating in some capacity, 100 Portland Hunt Club members with a mount each on the grounds, a platform for the fancy M. A. C. carnival dances, a track for the airship flights, two big rings, bleacaers to accommodate several thousand spectators and quarters for the concessions and the huge sideshow, the field will be filled with entertainment, not to say crowded.

FORTLAND, May 12—(To the Editor.)—
It may not be amiss to sound a note of warning to the despoilers of flower beds and rosebushes.

Since the sidvent of the rose, that royal flower of which Portland is justly proud, and which is making Fortland as the flose City famous throughout the land and even in foreign countries, the pillaging of the blooms even before they mature is wide-spread. The chief offenders are schoolboys and girls, the latter predominating in boldness of purpose, and in defiance of the threats of indignant property-swences who take pride in their bobby of cultivating rose-gardens. The coming of the rose is joy-fully anticipated by those who take great pains in caring for the bushes, and the appearance of the blooms at once diffuses cheerfulness all over the locality. Imagine the chagrin of property-owners when they see a gaing of young marauders besigning their gardens in a mad tour of destruction, artipping and destroying the bushes.

The effrontery displayed by these young rose theres is second to hone, not even to that of the bank robber who pulls a gun on the teller and commands him to keep mum. They pay no attention to the housekeeper who warns them off. Indeed, they even dare her and hurl insuiting language at her, until she is only too glad to disappear, leaving them to carry on their depredation to their heart's content.

However, the young people are not the only offenders in this respect. The rose season has just opened, and aiready the grown-ups bave manifested themselves. The written has caught numerous women in the act of atripping bushes. Sitting on the porch a few evenings ago, I was surprised on hearing some person tearing away at the climbing roses within ten feet of me. The crimbing thought she heard the snapping of clippers, and the swinter the snapping of clippers, and the swinter the snapping of clippers, and to satisfy herself she arose and looked out of a window. It was not a dream, for there in the bright montlight stood a man and a woman filling a clothes basket with ros

COURT USES HARSH WORDS

Judge Bennett Declares if Jury Fails to Convict Suspect There Will Be Miscarriage of Justice. Weingarden Witness.

"Low as this woman is, I believe she is right when she says Henry Harris is beneath her feet and I will Harris is beneath her feet and I will hold him to the grand jury under bend of $5000," said Judge Bennett yesterday in passing upon the case of a man accused of keeping a disorderly house. "It is only when these people fall out that the city gets a square deal," continued the Judge. "This is one of the vitest cases I ever handled and I believe that if a jury of 12 men fails to convict the defendant there will be a miscarriage of justice."

The prosecution of Harris arises out of that of Sam Weingarden, now before the Circuit Court on appeal from a sentence of $200 and 90 days in jall on a charge of "white slave" dealing. Weingarden blames Harris for his trouble and is after revenge. The charge is that Harris has in past time conducted no less than three or four disorderly houses, taking a large proportion of the earnings of the women.

Weingarden Takes Stand.

Weingarden Takes Stand. Weingarden himself was the first witness for the prosecution. He testi-fied that Harris had four houses, in one of which his wife was kept. He specified 203 Main street and 2021-2 Clay street as two of the places. He said that Harris had attempted to blackmail him in the sum of 123a on blackmall him in the sum of $300, on penalty of being run out of town. Weingarden testified that he himself was a respectable and innocent business man Rosie Babchique testified that she had "worked" for Harris, paying him $2 a day for a room. Last month one of his houses was closed up and she continued to reside there and rented it. continued to reside there and rented it, she said, for $190 a month. She said that Harris demanded $200 from her for his lease and threatened to have some one kill her if she did not leave town.

Marguerite Leroy was oratorical when she took the stand and it was plain that she had a well-developed grudge against Harris. She had a torrent of words to get rid of and all the officials of the court could not stop her until she ran down. She said that she conducted a rooming-house on Fourth street and that Harris tried to get her out of it because, he said, he could put six women in it, because he was paying for "protection."

"Protection" Not Paid.

The woman said that she had never

The woman said that she had never "protection" and did not be paid any "protection" and did not believe that Harris did either. Some of the intimate details that she gave the court concerning Harris were unprintable and almost incredible. "Bad as I am," she said, "he is the dirt beneath my feet."

Attorneys for the defense moved to dismiss the case on the ground that the indictment was faulty, but the court held that a case was made out and fixed the bonds at $5000 or $2500 cash. To this the attorneys objected most strongly, saying that they could not raise it and that it amounted to prejudging the case, but the court adhered to its determination and Harris was taken to a cell until such time as the required amount is put up.

FORCE FOR INCOMPETENCY.

Chief's Statement of Social Evil Suppression Questioned by Portland Municipal Association.

Declaring that Chief of Police Cox is utterly mistaken in his belief, as stated a few days ago, that the social evil was suppressed at the time he issued his orig-inal order six months ago and relterating that gambling is going on in Portland,
"high and low," D. A. Pattullo yesterday issued another statement on the moral condition of Portland. The statement in Chief of Police Cox is quoted as saying that "the conditions in the North End are recent. I know when the original order was issued by me, the evil was successfully abolished. Since that time, though, many arrecent. I know when the original order was issued by me, the evil was successfully abidished. Since that time, though, many arrests have been made and every precaution taken to suppress it, a few have crept in and coverity operated, though not openly and flagrantly, as is intimated.

If Chief Cox Imagines this to be a true statement, he is interpreted in the beautiful and the statement, he is interpreted in the past six months until within the last day or two, when extra precautions have been taken as the result of public protest. But the business is by no means confined to one district. It is to be found in the North End and the South End, on Stark street, on Washington, on Twelfth, on Third, on Fourth, on Yambill, on Front and Madison. In fact, there is hardly a single street in the heart of the city where it is not found. It is doubtful if at any time in the city's history there have been so many women of the underworld in evidence. They have been flocking in here for some considerable time, and they have come because they knew they might expect an easy time, and the manner in which they are flaunting themselves in public is sufficient proof that in their expectations they have not been disappointed.

Gambling is going on high and low, and the fact remains that the Police Department is for some reason inadequate to cope with it. The position of the Chief with regard to Chinese gambling is ludicrous. Has he forgotten or did he ever know that Tom Word, when Sheriff, with two or three deputies effectually stopped Chinese as well as white gambling? Why, then, cannot the whole police force of the city do it now? Chinese effectually stopped Chinese as well as white gambling? Why, then, cannot the whole police force of the city do it now? Chinese effectually stopped Chinese as well as white gambling? Why, then, cannot the whole police force of the city do it now? Chinese effectually stopped Chinese as well as white gambling? Why then, cannot the whole police force of the city do it now? Chinese observed an easy tim rushing under protection for which they are paying somebody.

But the Chief of Police is simply the employe of the Administration, and he is not to be biamed alone. Behind him are the Mayor and the Police Committee of the Executive Board and Council, and ultimately the hurden of the situation rests upon them, especially upon the Mayor, for it has already been demonstrated in the community that the Mayor can clean up the town in short order if he desires. It, therefore, behooves him to look to his police force for at present it is manifesting signs of scrious incompetency.

eral years with that element in one of the New York churches whose application of Christian Science was so doubtful as to result a few months ago in their dismissal from the Christian Science Church. Miss Stephens had endeavored to break away from this element, and had recognized that such practice in which they were induiging was not christian Science. But she had apparently not been sure enough of her ground to remain away from the association, evidently valuing friendships of many years.

Mrs. Eddy's teaching about animal magnetism is in the nature of an uncovering of its methods, and points the way of protection against if. She does not helieve that pernicious mental evil is a power, but she has exposed the fact that certain persons do believe in such an influence. She has taught her students how to guard against this deception by holding steadfast to the spiritual furth that God is in reality the only power. Mrs. Eddy's exposure of the subtle and malicious workings of evil must not be mistaken for an indorsement of these evils.
