It has to turn Klaw & Erlanger from being producers and agents, so far as the West is concerned, to being producers, theater owners and theater managers. Mr. Cooke said "there is not a the-ater in Portland fit for a stable." He asked to be quoted in this remark. He declared that Cort and Hellig never paid booking fees to Klaw & Erlanger for the shows produced in their thea-ters. They paid a small sum, said Mr. Cooke, that was insufficient to pay even the cost of postage stamps on corre-spondence regarding the shows.
