JUDGE SEES BLACK SPOT ON NEGRO.—To look at a black spot on a negro woman's arm, was the errand for which Judge Bennett was called from the bench by Attorney A. Walter Wolf yesterday morning. The judge went to Clerk Beutgen's office and was confronted by Beutgen's office and was confronted by a huge negress, ccal black and weighing close to 200 pounds. Her sleeve was rolled up, and on the exposed arm the judge was able to discover a discoloration. The discoloration was the city's exhibit A in a charge of assault and battery brought by Lulu Easton against Lacey Goins. She will have a hearing this morning.

Husbands Are Defendants in Half-Dozen Suits in Which Decrees Are Granted--Cruelty and Neglect

Agreement to separate almost prevented the granting of a divorce to Fritz Klasing from Bertha Klasing yesterday. They were married at Vancouver, Wash., October 16, 1907, but after seven months October 16, 1307, but after seven months Mrs. Klasing, who had been married before, told Klasing that he was not the man for her. They were then living at Seventeenth and Marshall streets. Klasing said he went home one night to find that his wife had sold all the furniture and wors to California.

and gone to California.

He had given hel $89 with which to get a divorce. Five weeks ago she returned. She had spent the money but had no divorce. She wanted him to get it, he vorce. She wanted him to get it, he said, because she had no ground for it. She agreed to pay half the costs, so he began suit. Klasing has been working for Weinhard's Brewary.

Wife Tells of Cruelty.

Jessie E. Goggin was divorced from John Goggin. They were married at Tacoma in 1904 and have lived at Wilkeson, Bucoda, Eatonville, Kapowsin and Orting, Mrs. Goggin told the court her husband had an overpowering taste for liquor, and that when on a spree he heaped abuse upon her. She told of one occasion when he threw the dishes violently upon the floor, and of another occasion when he threw the dishes vio-lently upon the floor, and of another time when he threw the clothes of Mrs. Goggin's sister out of the house and or-dered her to leave. At still another time when they were at Eatonville, in September, 1906, she said, he ordered her to pack her belongings and leave, while 35 men who were boarding at the place stood about listening to the quarrel. She told of other acts of cruelty. At last, she said, he left her near Ortig, without fuel, when the snow was five feet deep. She will resume her maiden name, as there are no children.

Judge Morrow also granted a divorce to Mary Z. Osborn from R. H. Osborn.
The ground was cruelty. They were married at Great Falls, Mont., January 27, 1903. A decree will also be given to Ro-vella Schultz separating her from Frank Schultz, whom she married June 9, 1904. She will resume her maiden name, Fox. Cruelty was the charge.

Husband's Debts Pursue Wife.

Judge Gantenbein gave Bessie M. Palmer a divorce from Claude C. Palmer, to whom she was married at Clarinda, Ia., April 23, 1963. She said her husband squandered both his own money and hers on liquor and dissolute associates, providing no food or clothing for her or their child. When she gave him her own money to pay household expenses he spent it on himself, she said. She was continually harassed by collectors. Finally she gave him $70, mortgaging the furniture on his promise to repay her. The mortgage was foreclosed and the furniture lost. He threatened to "get away with her" and her parents, she said.

Mrs. S. A. Bayley secured a divorce, from S. M. Bayley yesterday morning on the ground of desertion and non-sup-port. This is the second time she has sought a divorce in a Circuit Court, the sought a divorce in a Circuit Court, the first being at Oregon City. The two were married in 1881. Mrs. Bayley se-cured her divorce in the Clackamas County Court, and on January 21 took out a license in Multinomah County and married J. W. Long, she being 46 years old and he 56. Question arose as to the manner in which she was caring for the children, and when the matter was laid before Juvenile Judge Bronaugh he found she was never legally divorced from Bayley, because the service of summons was not properly made. So she commenced divorce proceedings anew in the local court, and secured her decree yesterday at the hands of Judge Gantenbein. The case had no sooner been heard than she and Long trooped down to County Clerk Fields' office, prepared to be legally married. They secured a license and were hunting for some one to perform the cereing for some one to perform the cere mony when Judge Gantenbein tele-phoned to their attorney, C. H. Piggott, that their union would not be legal for six months. They returned yesterday afternoon and had the license canceled.

Maude A. Anthony filed a divorce suit in the Circuit Court yesterday against Frank C. Anthony, saying that he recently threatened to shoot her and that he is now serving time on the rockpile for carrying concealed weapons. She says also that she has been compelled to support herself, as well as their twomonth-old daughter. She tells of one occasion when he used his fist to make her eye black and blue. They were married at Vancouver, Wash., November 18,

Many a men, and woman, too, is now working in Portland at a large salary and not laying up a cent. Salesmen, expert stenographers, business managers, superintendents—in every branch we find men, and women too, making forty dollars a week and spwards, and yet they stand financially today where they stood a year ago. Another and more provident class making hig salaries are putting money into city homes, some into life insurance, and are showing wisdom by such courses. But these high salaries will not last always, the city home will not support the owner, more than likely it means death to mature the insurance policy. Why not figure on putting just a few dollars each month into a small tract in Banner acres, set it to fruit and in five, or six years get from it each year double the salary you are now getting, and have, besides, an ideal home site. There is no such acreage tract on the Portland market today as Banner acres, regardless of price, and we can prove this to any investigator. The soil is of the very best in Oregon, for sightliness the tract is absolutely unequalled, it is on the best good roads in the state, and yet the price is only terms. "Independence on ten acres" should read "A competency on five acres." If set to fruit and carefully handled, for there is no better fruit land—cherry, apple berry—than Banner Acres. In no other fruit district can you find auch land at anything like the price, and this will soon be all sold and the opportunity gone forever.
