

REPEL WAS ON PARK BOARD ISSUE

New Flotation Proposed by Board Will Be Opposed by City Executive.

BAD BUSINESS, SAYS SIMON

He Says Municipality Has Recreation Area Enough for Present and Will Not Favor Acquisition of Council Crest.

Mayor Simon will not support the proposal to issue $1,000,000 or $2,000,000 worth of bonds for the purpose of parks and acquisitions along park lines, made by members of the Park Board. Neither is he favorable to expanding the present $500,000 that remains from the $1,000,000 issue. This is taken to mean that he will not favor taking over Council Crest as a park, unless it can be bought for bargain rates.

That the city has enough park property and that it should develop what it already has acquired, are opinions firmly held in the mind of the Mayor, and he will adhere to this policy, outlined by him at the beginning of his term. While being willing to give the people an administration that will be keeping with the rapid growth of the city, he is unwilling to give consent to bond issues and desires to operate the municipality on a strictly business-like and economical basis.

"I don't like bond issues," said Mayor Simon yesterday. "There must be a pay day sometime, and this is a point generally overlooked by people who are strong for bond issues and the acquiring of a large amount of property by the city. Now, I dislike to go into debt in my private affairs and do not do so except in extreme cases, but I then always have figured on paying off the indebtedness. While Mayor of Portland I propose to run my affairs the same way. I prefer to pay off the public debt, instead of increasing it. That is why I recommended a sinking fund to pay off the bond issues of many years ago."

"There is another thing," continued the Mayor, "which many seem to overlook. That is the large park area we have acquired and which belongs to the city now. It seems to me that the best policy is to improve this ground and make it accessible and available for the people before buying more land. They argue that we can purchase more cheaply now than in the future, but I answer this by saying that we will be more able to pay the prices asked in the future. At present I cannot see where we need more parks, but I do see where we need an expense a large sum to acquire a parkable part of the remaining bond issue."

Mayor Simon's remarks were occasioned by an agitation that has been started by park enthusiasts for the issuance of $2,000,000 more bonds for the acquisition of parks.

IMPERIAL GRILL OPENED

Diners Feast Amid Soft Music and Find Service Perfect.

The beautiful grillroom of the Imperial Hotel was thrown open to the public at 6 o'clock last night. All the tables had been set and many were disappointed when they went to the hotel with appetites whetted for a dinner, only to learn that they had been negligent in not making advance arrangements.

A harmonious color scheme of reds made up the simple and tasty decorations. The orchestra, from a loft at one end of the grillroom, rendered a programme of classical music, the selections being taken from favorite compositions of the great masters. Subdued lights shone off to better advantage the cut glass and glittering silver. The corps of French waiters, swiftly moving about the crowded tables, served the menu of more than a dozen courses.

The women in evening gowns added to the brilliancy of the first night of the grill. The whole scene was one of gaiety, which was augmented by the pleasing service. All the minute details necessary to the comfort and pleasure of the guests had been worked out by the management and the opening night passed as if it had been an old cafe which had gone through the period of trials generally experienced before it is brought up to the standard of perfection.

MERCURY GOES UP TO 84

Boise Is Hottest City in Northwest With Thermometer at 92.

Although Portland suffered somewhat with the heat yesterday, with the thermometer standing at 84 degrees, this was not excessive compared to other parts of the Pacific Northwest.

At Boise the mercury registered 92 degrees, the warmest reported from any portion of the Northwest. At Sacramento the inhabitants sweated with the temperature at 102 degrees, while in San Francisco the heat was oppressive with the mercury standing at 80 degrees.

PORTLAND AND SEATTLE RAILROAD, TO COLLECT $15,000. SHE ALLEGES BLEMISHES TO HER FACE AND NERVOUS SHOCK, CAUSED BY BEING THROWN AGAINST A STUMP BY THE RUNAWAY HORSE.

Allice Engelsen in the complaint alleges that the railroad company charged the country road near Washougal, making it pass near the track. One fine day in August, 1908, she was driving along the country lanes, she saw, when a frightened horse, willfully, negligently, unreasonably and unnecessarily blew the whistle on a passing engine, causing the horse to run away and herself to be thrown out against a stump.

The permanent disfigurement to Allice Engelsen's face is said to be a circular scar above her left eye, and she adds that her general health has been impaired by the violent shock. Had the railroad company not caused the country road to be changed nearer its track the horse would not have been frightened by the whistle, the runaway would not have occurred and Allice Engelsen would not have been permanently injured and disfigured in looks, so she asserts.

POLICE UNEARTh HORSE

SUPPOSED SMITH CLEW LEADS TO COLT'S GRAVE. Mrs Matilda Nelson, Who Was With Missing Widow on Night of May 17, Does Not Know Her Fate.

An evidence of the fact that the police still pin faith in the original theories that Mrs. Hanna Smith met with foul play and that her body might have been buried in an isolated spot, came to light last night when Captain of Detectives Moore and Detectives Sloane and Endicott, who are working on the case, returned to the city from the Palatine Hill district, where late yesterday they exhumed the contents of a newly-made grave. Beyond desecrating the final resting place of a yearling colt, the sleuths accomplished nothing in their adventure which might be considered important in clearing up the mystery surrounding the early woman's disappearance.

Early yesterday morning, Captain Moore received a telephone message at his home from some person who refused to divulge his name. The sender, whose name was the message to the sleuth was that there was a new mound of earth in an isolated section of Palatine Hill. The informer said she had journeyed to Palatine Hill, met their informer and after securing picks and shovels at the pumping station at the street corner, she had followed the path through the thicket in hopes of unravelling the mystery. After tramping a distance of over a mile through the underbrush, the party halted at a signal of the stranger. Cautiously he removed several boughs which had been cut and strewn over a mound of fresh earth. Stripping themselves to their shirts, the men and women, and Detective Sloane and Endicott went to work unearthing the contents of the grave. The effort that they made to lift the yearling colt was rewarded. The mystery of the "blonde woman," who was the last person known to have seen Mrs. Matilda Nelson at the time she cleared up yesterday, when the detectives, on information furnished by Mrs. O. Boden, located Mrs. Matilda Nelson at the home of Everett Street, and questioned her as to her knowledge of Mrs. Smith's affairs. Nothing was learned from her that gives the officers any new material to work on.

Mrs. Nelson failed to come forward with other friends of Hanna Smith when the first first developed, and though she was known to a number of them, none of them knew her address, and not until Sunday, when Mrs. Boden saw her at church, she notified the officers that it was possible to secure a statement from her. When Mrs. Boden approached Mrs. Nelson, she ran away and showed the greatest unwillingness to talk. This is ascribed by the officers to her natural repugnance to being mixed in a criminal case to no good purpose.

When questioned by Detectives Endicott and Sloan, Mrs. Nelson said that she was with Mrs. Smith at 9 o'clock Sunday night, May 7, the last night of her life, as it is known to have been seen. She also told of having visited Mrs. Smith on the Friday preceding. She was contemplating going to live with Mrs. Smith on her new home was ready, and was one of her closest friends.

It is believed that 250,000 people from every city, town and village in Washington, Idaho, California and Oregon comes the cheering news that hundreds are preparing to join in the grand parade in the city on Wednesday. The splendor of the parades which take place during every day of the week, Railroads leading into the city are scouring the country for cars, equipment, and are spotting passenger coaches at every division point. They are intended for carrying the people who have announced their intention of seeing the carnival.

The grandstand and court of honor will be erected in front of the Post office building, and every parade will twice pass in review.

On Friday afternoon and evening of carnival week East Portland will be in charge of the celebration, its parade of human rosesbud, made up of 6000 children, being followed by a maskers' revelry on Union avenue. The street will be roped off and visitors allowed to frolic incognito to their entire satisfaction.

Queen to Be Chosen Wednesday. The contest for Queen of the Milwaukie Rose Festival float will close tomorrow night at the City Hall, when a man meeting will be held to present the vote stands. Miss Beatrice Webster, 152; Miss Flossie Warren, 127; Miss Myrtle Mullen, 31; Miss Shinder, 124; Miss Lizzy, 12; Miss Florence Olsen, 8; Miss Keck, 23. A big lot of votes are being held back for Wednesday night, and there promise to be a whirlwind finish at the meeting Wednesday night addresses will be delivered by Ben Riesland, president of the Board of Health, and Improvement League; William De Veny, of the East Side Improvement Association, and others. There will be music while the votes are being counted.

Whistle Cause of Suit. Blast Alleged to Cause Runaway and $15,000 Is Asked. VANCOUVER, Wash., May 30. (Special.)—Because an employe of the North Bank Railroad tooted the whistle on his engine and the raucous noise frightened the horse Alice Engelsen was driving, suit has been filed in the Superior Court against the Spokane, Portland and Seattle Railroad, to collect $15,000. She alleges blemishes to her face and nervous shock, caused by being thrown against a stump by the runaway horse.

REX OREGONIENS IS ON WAY TO COURT

Wireless Message Says King of Festival Will Arrive on Schedule Time.

CITY PREPARING FOR FETE

Big Buildings Will Present Riot of Color When Portland's Gorgeous Holidays Begin — Thousands of Visitors Are Coming.

REX OREGONIENS SENDS GREETING.

Via Wireless. Isle of Mystery, May 30. To My Local Subjects, Greeting: The yacht Carnival is now 700 miles at sea, and will reach my realm of Portland at high noon of Monday, June 6, and of the fourth year of my reign. Let the spirits of revelry, of beauty and of peaceful victory over the products of the earth be in readiness. My captain is steering in the glare of a stream of light which cannot be accounted for by my scientists. It appears to be gaseous without gas, or it should not strike my good ship, or if it does, it is not enough to delay an hour of our arrival will not be delayed.

WITH THE ANNOUNCEMENT THAT REX OREGONIENS HAS EMBARKED ON HIS ROYAL YACHT AND IS NOW BREASTING THE HIGH SEAS EN ROUTE TO THE ROSE FESTIVAL, HIS PORTLAND SUBJECTS YESTERDAY BEGAN SPREADING THE ELABORATE DECORATIONS WHICH MUST HONOR THE FOURTH ANNUAL VISIT OF THE IMPERIAL PARTY TO THE REALM OF FRAGRANCE AND PLEASURE.

When the royal visitors reach the city dock at the foot of Stark street, the eyes of the monarch and his entourage will be met by a brilliant display of color in pink and green, and from every building, every sidewalk and each street corner there will be a view maintained, they will be welcomed by thousands of Portlanders and visitors who are coming from all parts of the Union to join in doing homage to the great King.

Joselyn Gets Message.

Yesterday President E. S. Joselyn received a wireless message that the sea voyage to Portland was progressing smoothly, and ordered that immediate steps be taken for the reception of Rex. Acting on the word, the Portland Railway, Light & Power Co. covered the downtown streets with red, white and blue bunting, which also served in recognition of Decoration day and the veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic. The same colors were swung from the guy ropes of the power wires, while strings of their home, Everett street, and questioned along the blocks in front of business houses. On a number of corners in the downtown district ropes of electric light bulbs were crossed in the shape of the street to another, forming arches.

On top of the Wells-Fargo building a gigantic electric fountain is being erected, and Manager Beckwith promises that the front of the sky scraper will be swathed in the colors of the festival. The electric work is being done, combining bunting and lights.

Buildings Will Be Ablaze.

Managers of 40 of the larger buildings yesterday signified their intention of recognizing the visit of the Carnival King by a riotous display of outside decorations, and it is believed that for the week ends every storekeeper, office man, and property-owner in the business district will have contributed their share to the festal display by placing the colors on their places. In the residence districts, the manager of the festival are in hopes that a single home will overlook a display of pink and green.

It is believed that 250,000 people from every city, town and village in Washington, Idaho, California and Oregon comes the cheering news that hundreds are preparing to join in the grand parade in the city on Wednesday.
