CONFESSES CRIME

Four Attempts Made to Throw Heavily-Laden Passenger Cars From Rails.

MAN HATES HUMAN RACE

Obstacles Piled on Tracks of O. W. P. and Southern Pacific Near Nickum-Officers Capture Him at His Work.

His heart filled with lust for wholesale murder, Frank Rinaldo yesterday calmly recited the story of his three attempts to hurl night passenger trains from the high treatles of the Oregon Water Power Company, and a similar effort to wreck a Southern Pacific passenger train when passing under the stle that crosses over the electric road just east of Nickum. Rinaldo was arrested Saturday night and is confined in the County Jail. Had the Italian been successful in any of the attempts to derail trains, the loss of life would have been large. The electric trains were filled with people en route to and from their homes between Portland and Cazadero, while the long line of Southern Pacific trains carried hundreds of visitors to the Rose Festival.

Man Boasts of Attempts.

"I would have killed them today—lots of them—If you had not errested me." announced Rinaldo, as he calmly faced a party of inquisitors at the County Jail yesterday afternoon. "They accused me pesterday afternoon. "They accused me about a girl. It was done by an Italian who has gone away. They laughed at me and I hate them. I hate the courts, but not the railroad."

Rinaldo made his first attempt to ditch

Rinaldo made his first attempt to ditch a train on the Cazadero line on Thursday night last, when he heaved cordwood, fence posts and the long limb of a tree onto the middle of curved treatle No. 6, between Kerrigan and Berkeley, and at a point 20 feet above the bottom of the gulch. Retiring to a position in the brush along the hillside he waited in the darkness for the crash. The first train to approach the trestle was a freight train in charge of Conductor E. W. Calkins and Motorman S. A. Webber. W. Calkins and Motorman S. A. It struck the timber and pushed it ahead of the motor several

Then slipping and sliding down the bank to the Southern Pacific tracks, Rinaldo arranged a death trap for the first train which should approach around the curves, which he hoped would con-ceal it from the engineers until too late ceal it from the engineers until too late

As the man climbed back up the bank to watch the success of his plans against the electric line trains, he was seized by Officers Leonard and Lillis, and after a Officers Leonard and Lillis, and after a slight resistance surrendered and coolly admitted his guilt. While the men were standing beside the trestle the same Caradero passenger train in charge of Conductor Heath slid up to the obstruction, and Rinaldo grinned as the train employes rolled the stones from the track. When questioned at the County Jall. Rinaldo answered through an interpreter, but did not attempt to deny his purpose but did not attempt to deny his purpose or in any manner mitigate his crime. "I do not like the country and the courts," was his only explanation.

The prisoner signed a written confession in the presence of all the officers. In, which he said that he had been in America, in the vicinity, of Portland, about four years. During that time he has been employed as a laborer on the O. W. P. line, and later as a gardener in the vicinity of Sellwood and Nickum. In the statement made to the officers, Rineldo says that about seven months ago a 12-year-old Italian girl was assaulted in that vicinity, and that the people with whom he was acquainted, as well as the father of the girl, laid the responsibility for the crime at his door. THIEVES LIKELY TO BE MANY DURING WEEK.

Special Care Should Be Taken to See That Doors Are Locked, Say Detectives.

That Portland will be flooded with professional crooks, burglars and sneak-thieves during the Rose Festival is the bellef of the local police, and a warning was sounded yesterday to all people to dispose of their valuables in such a manner that prowiers would not find it easy to make a haul during the reign of Rex Oregonus.

asked that all residents of this city use every precaution to guard their valua-bles during the Rose Festival. From almost every city on the Pacific Coast has come notifications from the police departments that an influx of "stick-up" men might be expected here this week.

Portland people are urged, above all other things, to note that their doors are locked when they leave their homes. In the excitement of the time, according to the police, many people are apt to leave their homes unsecured, and this is exactly what the invading army of marauders is watching for. Captain Moore requests that the citizens of this city take unusual caution during the coming week, citing the instance of two people who have already suffered through lack

Wolfe, residing at 340 Tenth street, was robbed of several valuable stick-pins between the hours of 8 and 11 Saturday night. Mr. Wolfe's house was entered by thieves who picked up all the jewelry lying on his dresser, and then evidently becoming frightened suddenly, left with-out further search of the house. Mr. Wolfe admits that he was foolish to go away from his house and leave his valu-ables lying in open sight as a tempta-tion. Besides a couple of diamond scarf pins, which were taken from his home, two necklaces belonging to his wife were two necklaces belonging to his wife were secured by the burglars.

Miss Evelyn LeRoy, living in the Glenwood Hotel, at Second and Salmon streets, reported to the detectives yesterday that her room had been entered during her absence and a large number of articles taken. Miss LeRoy told Captain Moore that she had left her door unlocked when she went out. She lost a quantity of silverware and jewelry, and a considerable amount of wearing apparel. Among the latter were two night gowns and a pair of silk chemises, which led the authorities to the belief that a woman "hotel-room thief" is operating in the city.

that a woman noter-room there is operating in the city.

The only way to combat these marauders, according to Captain Moore, is so to dispose of valuables in one's home that burgiars will be unable to find them. An effort is being made by the authorities to round up all suspicious characters who are unable to give a satisfactory ac-count of themselves, and lock them up until the close of the Rose Festival, when they will have an opportunity to leave

SUIT TO LAST OVER WEEK

Many Witnesses Remain in Devlin's Action for $82,500.

There is little hope that Thomas C. Devlin's $82,500 suit against the former directors of the Oregon Trust & Savings Bank, exposing the inside workings of the Medford & Crater Lake Railroad deal, will be finished this week. Attorney A. E. Clark, representing Devlin, said last night that the testimony of his witnesses will probably consume four days, as he has 15 witnesses. STUNTS NOW 30 IN NUMBER Programme of Interest Planned for Three Performances, Wednesday and Friday Nights and Saturday Afternoon.

Multnomah Field presented a very ousy scene all day yesterday in preparation for the society circus, for members of the Multnomah Club and Portland Hunt Club, which will jointly perform in the big show, were rehearsing their respective stunts while workmen by the score were constructing dressing tents and erecting the main tent.

A score or more of clowns were re nearsing their San Francisco-Portland baseball game. This "game" has reached the scientific point and has nearly attained the professional standard. Opie Smith, Olmar Dranga, Frank Vincent, Hood Bottler and "Pat" Riddle are the lads that will give an exhibition of this great National contest.

Kaye Has Charge of Clowns.

The clowns are under the guidance of Henry Kaye, who has Matt Brown and H. Tierney for assistants. One of the stunts which the finny ones will per-form will be an impersonation of Bar-ney Oldfield in his one-man-power rac-ing automobile which has a guaranteed speed of a mile a minute of Speed

MACHINISTS TO WAGE 8-HOUR CAMPAIGN EVERYWHERE.

Members of Union Expect to Win Contest Here and That Move-Will Begin in East.

The opening gun of a National fight for the eight-hour day in the metal trades unions was fired when the present strike of the machinists of the Pacific Coast was declared, is the statement of strike of the machinists of the Pacific Coast was declared, is the statement of William Hannon, vice-president of the International Union. As soon as the fight is won here, as the strikers confidently declare it will be, the campaign will move eastward across the country until every machine shop in the Nation amenable to union influence has been put on the schedule of reduced hours.

The fight was started on the Pacific Coast, says Hannon, because conditions seemed most favorable here for a trial of strength on the merits of the question. This and the $3.60 minimum for a day's work are the only issues of any importance at all in the fight, the strikers declare. They say that they are not fighting the "open shop," but are in fact demanding an open shop in which union men can work without discrimination. nen can work without discrimination.

"We do not expect any settlement of the question by arbitration." said one of the leaders yesterday. "We offered that at the start and were met by refusal. Now it is a fight to a finish, though we do not refuse to arbitrate. We have the support of our international organization and can stay out indefinitely, and will do so until our demands are granted. There will be no violence on our part. Our men are peacefully picketing the shops, but have strict instructions against being led into any disturbance."

"They have started at the wrong end of the line." said W. H. Corbett, president of the Willamette Iron & Steel Works, when told yesterday that the strikers were planning the strike here as the beginning of a National campaign.
