

CIRCUS SHIMMER

Dress Rehearsal is Given on Multnomah Field.

INDIANS ATTRACT CROWDS

Reds From Umatilla Reservation Are Encamped South of Club-House, Where Tom-Tom Dances May Be Seen Nights.

Nearly all of the 30 acts of the Society Circus, which will give its first performance Wednesday night on Multnomah Field, were rehearsed last night in full dress, and from the showing made the show will eclipse any similar event ever held in Portland, if not on the Pacific Coast.

All of the actors and riders went through the dances, drills and riding exhibition with professional-like precision. Hardly a flaw in the movements of both the man and horse actors was perceptible at the rehearsal.

One of the prettiest events staged last night was the Japanese girl dance by 24 pretty Multnomah club girls, hand-somely costumed and equipped with fans and parasols. This act is a new one to Portland amateur entertainments and is very prettily executed. A flower-decked jinrikisha is employed in this act.

Indians Great Attraction.

The tribe of Umatilla Indians, from the Umatilla Reservation, near Pendleton, that is to take part in the Rose Festival and the Society Circus, arrived last, accompanied by their horses and numerous trappings, and is encamped on the King tract, south of the present Multnomah Club grounds. The Indians in their tepees were the center of much curiosity on the part of the "palefaces." There are 35 Indians in the band, including the women and children.

The Indians were busily engaged last night in their tom-tom dances. The Indian mode of living is expected to be a peculiar attraction for the many Eastern visitors, who are unaccustomed to the aborigines. The Umatilla Indians are said to be the best-equipped tribe in America today in the way of horses and traps. The Indians will take part in the "Spirit of the Golden West" parade tonight and also in the Society Circus parade Wednesday at noon.

The Portland Hunt Club riders were at the rehearsal in mass last night, dressed in their natty red coats and high hats for the men, and the women in trim black riding suits. The big drill was very snappy, and showed evolution. All the acts of the circus will be short ones, but gingery in the extreme.

Daring Riders to Be Seen.

E. W. Pallette, the ex-Culver Military Academy horseman and athlete, who, along with E. E. Moore, a graduate of the Pennsylvania Military Academy, will give a fancy and daring exhibition of cavalry riding, vaulting and hurdling, has been ill for the past two days, but will take part on Wednesday night. These men will also take part in a Roman standing hurdle race, which is a thriller. William Walter and Eugene Oppenheimer, members of the Hunt Club, will also be seen in a Roman standing race in which two horses will be ridden bareback.

The circus will be held regardless of weather conditions. The rings and platform are under heavy tents, and the big grandstand is rainproof, so rain cannot interfere with the circus.

The field was lighted up for the first time last night, and the lights make the grounds appear as light as day.

Tomorrow at noon a Society Circus parade will be held on downtown streets. Several hundred members of the Multnomah Club, with their colors and canes, and numerous riders of the Portland Hunt Club in uniform accompanied by several bands, will parade. The Umatilla Indians will also be in line. Tickets for the circus are on sale at Sherman, Clay & Company's store, Sixth and Morrison streets.

REGIMENT GOES TO ALASKA

Sixteenth Infantry Will Relieve Companies of Twenty-second.

VANCOUVER BARRACKS, Wash., June 6.—(Special.)—Twelve companies of the Sixteenth Infantry, now in Fort Logan H. Root, Arkansas, and Fort Crook, Nebraska, have been ordered to Alaska on June 15, to relieve the Twenty-second Infantry, which will go to Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, Texas. Colonel Cornelius Gardner will have command of the Sixteenth Infantry.

Possibly the only retired Lieutenant-Colonel who is a negro is Allen Aliensworth who visited the department headquarters last week, when on a trip through the United States.

The building in which is housed the department headquarters, one of the oldest and most dilapidated in the post, is being repaired. Several times appropriations for a new building have been made, but it has always been used some other place.

MAROOED MINER RESCUED

Steamer Crew Takes Him From Iedge in Alaskan River.

SEWARD, Alaska, June 6.—John Schmitt, of Los Angeles, had a narrow escape from death late in May while coming down the Susitna River from Talkeetna station. His boat was capsized by floating ice, but Schmitt managed to reach a log and made his way to a ledge of rock where he was marooned without food, until rescued by the river steamer Alice.

He was nearly dead of starvation when found, but the boatmen nursed him back to life and he is now on his way to Seward, fully recovered from the effects of his harrowing experience.

VALUE OF AN ASSEMBLY

Latter Will Prevent Split of Republicans, Says Writer.

PORTLAND, June 6.—(To the Editor.)—Is it not about time for the Republicans in Oregon to stand on their rights? The primary is a party matter and as possible should be kept free from outside meddling.

The right to assemble and discuss all questions of government, of free speech and free press is as old as the colonies. Even Oregon's initiative and referendum have not ventured to abridge the rights of architects and Socialists freely gather in our streets, where they obstruct travel and annoy all men who employ labor. All parties in Oregon, including secret orders, discuss the good of their order, but an assembly of Republicans is a menace to the state and "such a thing is sure to wreck the party." To attempt a portrayal of the sorrow that these men would endure, were the old party to be wrecked, is utterly futile. So sacred was the old party to the hearts of the Socialists, prohibitionists and Populists that they allied themselves with the Democrats to make a law that would enable all Republicans to be candidates, and to this end, provided that each Republican could sign all petitions that were presented to him regardless of his having signed their neighbor better than themselves, for this sacred primary did not apply at all to Socialists, "Trusts" or Populists. Democrats it was so immaterial that in 1908 so many Democrats registered as Republicans that the party organ expressed a fear that the Democratic party might not appear on the primary ticket in 1910. It must be admitted that the primary law was made to divide the Republican party with so many factions that each member of the party could vote in encouraging a different faction of the Republican party. Such was the spirit of the law, voted for the wonderful law. True, some who were Republicans, for office only, and some were too busy with commerce to note the inevitable results of the law, voted for the measure. It is undeniable that the law was made for the Republican party, but we were not attempting to repeal it. We were asking no favor, but we have the right of assembly, and the men who do not wish to attend are at liberty to stay away. There is unquestionably an attempt to divide the party into as many, or if possible, more factions than four years ago, and nothing short of an assembly can save the party from such division. The Democratic newspapers have the same love for the Republican party that the voters have with the lamb, and hence will stand in with the men who think they have a better show for office with a divided than with a united party. True, there is no power to prevent any other meeting—they will try under any and all conditions, law or no law—but if the work must be ratified under the primary, and again at election, there is not half the danger of imposition that there is with a ticket purposely cut up to permit an organized clique to win out on a small plurality. An assembly may prevent such results as we have twice witnessed. T. J. FORDING.

T. R. IS GUEST OF PRESS

LONDON JOURNALISTS GIVE SUPPER FOR AMERICANS.

Speak Softly Rather Than Use Big Stick, Says ex-President at Correspondents' Function.

LONDON, June 6.—The Institute of Journalists gave a supper tonight in the historic Stationers' Hall to the American correspondents accompanying ex-President Roosevelt. Hundreds of the most prominent literary men, including editors of most of the London papers, were present.

Harry Webster Lawson, editor of the Daily Telegraph, presided with Mr. Roosevelt at his right and Ambassador Reid at his left. George Loring Cheserton, the well-known sporting writer, sat next to Roosevelt, who, in his speech, too "The Big Stick" for his text. He explained the original utterance, and emphasized the importance of speaking softly rather than carrying the big stick.

Mr. Roosevelt said that he was impressed with the number of correspondents speaking softly regarding the affairs of other nations. Dwelling on the improved Anglo-American relations, he said that they had improved exactly in a ratio with the United States' growth in strength and importance. As a nation, he said, strong and self-confident, the likelihood of its getting into quarrels with other nations decreased, said the ex-President.

Edward T. Cook, who formerly was editor of the Westminster Gazette and later of the Daily News, gave a toast to the American press, which was responded to by Gilson Gardner.

Mlle. POLAIRE APPEARS

ACTRESS WITH SMALL WAIST MAKES WOMEN GASP.

Frenchwoman, Said to Be Ugliest in Paris, Does Apache Dance on Roof Garden.

NEW YORK, June 6.—(Special.)—Mlle. Polaire made her first appearance in America in the Garden City Casino tonight. Mlle. Polaire is said to have the smallest waist in the world, which "any man can encompass with his hands." When she removed her black satin cloak tonight women present gasped sympathetically. It is furthermore urged in Mlle. Polaire's favor that she is the ugliest woman in Paris. Where could Yvette Guilbert have been the day the competition was held?

Mlle. Polaire, in a little sketch, "The Visitor," was an actress who remained away from home until 3 in the morning, when an Apache entered the window of her apartment to rob her. She laughed, because she took him for a beautiful blonde prince whom he had just murdered in the garden. She only recognized the apache when he grabbed her. Then she insisted on doing the apache dance with him. He was rebellious, but submitted.

His dagger lay on the table and she danced him near it. They walked backward and forward, but always close together. Finally she cunningly seized a strategic position, seized the dagger and dug it so far down in his back that his dancing days were ended.

BLOODY CLOTHES FOUND

BOY IS HELD FOR MURDER OF PARENTS AND BROTHER.

Youth Admits He Hid Overall and Hat, Fearing He Would Be Accused of Crime.

MARSHALLTOWN, Iowa, June 5.—A pair of bloody overalls and a bloody hat which the authorities are using as evidence to connect Raymond Hardey with the murder of his father, James Hardey, his mother and brother, Earl, whose bodies were discovered early this morning with the skulls beaten to a pulp, were found on the Hardey farm here tonight.

The authorities pinned young Hardey down to a statement and he admitted he had hidden the clothing in fear that he might be connected with the crime.

Young Hardey declared that the blood on the clothing in his hands, and while Hardey protests his innocence, he says he is afraid he cannot prove it, because the exact hour of the crime cannot be fixed. The parents of his fiancée, Miss Mabel Starnes, bear out his statements that he was at the Starnes home from 8:30 P. M. to 12:30 P. M., and that he was not off the place in the meantime. The farm is but three and a half miles from the Hardey home.

Another strange incident connected with the case was the finding of a horse belonging to the Hardeys, bridled and saddled, early Sunday morning. How the animal came to be ready for use is not known. Young Hardey told Miss Starnes Sunday night of the incident and that he and his father expected to set up and watch for developments that night. An inquest is set for 11 o'clock Wednesday morning.

HOUSES TO CONFER

Get-Together Measure Is Planned on Railroad Bill.

HOUSE REGULARS ARE FIRM

Insurgents and Democrats Overruled in Desire to Have House Adopt Senate Measure—Minority Party Men Divided.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 6.—It was practically settled tonight that there will be a conference between the Senate and the House on the railroad bill. Since Saturday last there has been a movement on foot to have the House agree to the Senate bill in its entirety and thus avoid a conference.

The "insurgent" Republicans and Democrats have been represented as strongly in favor of such a course. The "regulars," on the other hand, have insisted that the bill needed smoothing out in several particulars.

Taft Wants Conference. President Taft probably will ask that the bill be sent to conference, in order that the section which gives the Interstate Commerce Commission power to investigate and suspend increases in rates may be made effective without delay and not have to wait upon the 60-days' clause affecting the rest of the bill.

This action is necessary to carry out the terms of the agreement reached at the White House tonight with the Western roads, recently enjoined from putting rate increases into effect.

It was stated tonight that about 20 or 35 Republicans, mostly "insurgents," were prepared to vote to accept the bill as it came from the Senate. The Democrats are seriously divided, and Representative Champ Clark spent most of the afternoon trying to get a consensus of their opinions. The Democrats, it was said, would not vote in sufficient numbers to adopt the Senate bill to procure its passage through the house.

Democrats Find "Joker." Democratic leaders in the House discovered an alleged "joker" in the Senate bill, which they say would permit the railroads to engage in rebating without fear of prosecution. It is a provision to that section of the existing law which prescribes a penalty of $500 for failure to quote a rate to a shipper on request or for misquoting a rate. The provision was presented by Senator Shively, a Democrat and is as follows: "Provided, however, that no rebating anything in this section contained, any person or company suffering damage in consequence of any violation of any of the provisions of this section shall have the right to recover such damage by suit against the carrier in any court of competent jurisdiction."

The theory of the Democratic members of the House who pointed out this feature of the bill was that it would open the way for railroads to give rebates under the guise of paying damages to a shipper. Lawyers in the Senate, both Republicans and Democrats, ridiculed the suggestion.

Because of falling off in receipts the following offices will suffer a decrease in salary: North Bend, $1700 to $1600; Ontario, $1700 to $1600; Sumpter, $1300 to $1100; Wasco, $1400 to $1300.

In Washington the principal increases are as follows: Aberdeen, $2700 to $2800; Castle Rock, $1400 to $1500; Centralia, $2400 to $2500; Colville, $2000 to $2200; Everett, $2400 to $2500; Kennewick, $1800 to $1900; Montesano, $1200 to $1300; North Yakima, $3000 to $3100; Pasco, $1700 to $1800; Port Townsend, $2200 to $2300; Pullman, $2400 to $2500; Puyallup, $2000 to $2100; Rainier, $1900 to $2000; Snohomish, $2100 to $2200; Spokane, $2800 to $2900; Vancouver, $2600 to $2700; Walla Walla, $2000 to $2100; Wenatchee, $2500 to $2600.

Bremerton for decline in receipts will suffer a decrease from $2700 to $2400.

SECRET OPTIONS SECURED Oregon Electric Believed to Be Buying at McMinnville.

McMINNVILLE, Or., June 6.—(Special.)—Options were completed today on the west half of two blocks lying east of B street on the line of the proposed Oregon Electric, the tracts lying on each side of First street, the deal being made by H. W. Friese, of Portland, who also took an option on a piece of business property at the corner of Third and B streets.

It is popularly supposed that the two half blocks have been secured in the interest of the Oregon Electric for terminal grounds. The railroad company had endeavored to procure an option on two half blocks south of this site, but met with opposition from the owners. The property lately secured is fully as close to the business districts as the other.

Insurance Men Will Meet. McMinnville, Or., June 6.—(Special.)—The State Association of Mutual Insurance Companies will convene here tomorrow for a two days' session. There are 12 Mutual Insurance Companies doing business in Oregon, which will be represented at this meeting by 40 to 50 delegates.

ENTRANCE TO LAURELHURST ON EAST GLISAN STREET

The Above Entrance Arches to This Beautiful Residence Property Indicate the Manner in Which All Improvement Work Is Being Followed in

Laurelhurst

The Addition With Character

The above statement is not mere advertising. It is a fact. The improvement work in Laurelhurst is being followed more aggressively today than when it was started. There will be 26 miles of asphalt streets, of water, gas and sewers in Laurelhurst when the entire tract is completely improved. There will be 52 miles of cement walks and curbs and of shade trees and cluster lights. Improvements are being rushed to completion. Eight miles of water and sewer mains have already been installed, nearly one hundred men and several cement mixing machines are now engaged in laying the cement walks, shade trees have been planted and the work of laying the asphalt streets is to be started this week and there is to be no let-up until it has been completed.

A FEW FACTS ABOUT PORTLAND

By reason of its ideal location at the junction of two of the country's largest navigable rivers and with a great expanse of country tributary to it and enormously rich in farming, agricultural and mineral products, timber, etc., Portland's position as the largest and most important city in the entire Northwest is unassailable. The great railroad statigists of the world recognize this fact and Portland is today the terminus of five transcontinental lines, with others building rapidly to it. Portland is and always will be the railroad, commercial and manufacturing center of the Northwest. Portland's population in 1860 was 2000. Its population in 1910 is not quite 220,000. Portland is growing in size, population and importance at an astonishing rate. When this growth for the past ten years is taken into consideration and its present rapid growth is considered and when its wonderful resources, capable of unmeasurable expansion, are remembered, there can be no doubt but that its realty constitutes the safest investment in the United States today. There is not a city of its size in the entire country whose realty is being offered at such low prices.

Invest Your Money in Portland—Values in Laurelhurst Will Double in a Year

Laurelhurst is Portland's most beautiful residence park. It is located in the heart of the best residence section of the East Side. Surrounded by an improved district, Laurelhurst itself is being more highly improved than any other residence section of Portland and it is wisely restricted to only the most attractively designed homes. Laurelhurst has asphalt streets 28 to 48 feet wide, cement walks 6 feet wide, 9-foot parking strips between the sidewalk and curb with shade trees and handsome cluster lights at regular intervals. It has 10 to 24-inch sewers, 8-inch water and 4-inch gas mains. Restrictions range from $2500 up and nothing but single detached dwellings can be erected. Ladd Park, which is to be the most beautiful in Portland, is located in the heart of Laurelhurst. Four different carlines serve this property, which is from twelve to fourteen minutes' ride from the heart of the city.
