

MASONRY SPREADS THE GRAND MASTERS

Ceremony of Sentiment, Uncommon to Grand Lodge Sessions, Marks Meeting.

ALL BUT FIVE PRESENT

Judge Wolverton to Be Next Head of Order in Oregon—Shriner Plan to Celebrate Passage Through Comet's Tail.

The Masonic grand lodge of Oregon began its annual convention at Masonic Temple yesterday morning, the opening session being marked with sentiment such as never before has been noted in the history of that body.

In recognition of their services to the order every living past grand-master was presented with a beautiful apron, the emblems of the fraternity being mounted in gold on a background of purple and the whole surrounded with a lassoed border of gold rope. The name and record of each recipient were emblazoned under the flap of the apron.

Many of the men who were at this convention because they had reached that age when a journey of any consequence becomes dangerous to life, and for that reason their attendance at grand lodge meetings has grown infrequent. The fact that a new constitution was to be presented for adoption at the present session afforded a reason for issuing summons commanding their presence. To a Mason a summons is equal to a bench warrant from a court or the royal command of the King, in England. Every past grand master who was able to get out of bed was there and soon after the grand lodge was opened, they were commanded to appear before the grand master.

Chaplain Presents Aprons.

Grand Chaplain J. R. N. Bell, who has administered to the spiritual needs of the grand lodge since its foundation, made the presentation of aprons to the living past grand masters in the history of Masonry in this state, from the time the first charter was brought from Missouri in 1812, to the date of the current meeting. Amusing incidents in the administrations of the various grand masters were related, and finally a hearty applause greeted each of the distinguished members of the fraternity and invested him with the insignia of his rank.

Of the 24 past grand masters now living all were present except John McCracken, 1823-4-5; D. P. Mason, 1831-5; J. C. Pullerton, 1838-7; M. D. Clifford, 1856-6; W. F. Butler, 1902-3. Those present were: J. H. Kuntze, 1876-7; W. T. Wright, 1883-4; James F. Robinson, 1881-2; R. Van Dusen, 1882-3; J. C. Moore, 1892-3; J. C. Moreland, 1893-4; P. S. Malcolm, 1894-5; Phil Metcham, 1896-7; W. H. Hobson, 1897-8; John B. Cleland, 1898-9; John M. Hodson, 1899-1900; Henry B. Thielsen, 1900-1; W. E. Grace, 1901-2; Elias M. Yoran, 1903-4; Thomas Gray, 1904-6.

So much secrecy had surrounded the intention of the grand lodge that the recipients of the emblematic aprons were taken completely by surprise and were unable to respond to the calls for speeches. After consultation, Past Grand Master Frank A. Moore undertook to express the appreciation of the "trail blazers of Masonry," as he called them. Those past grand masters who could not be present will be presented with their aprons through special committees to be appointed.

Hereafter every past grand master will be made the recipient of a duplicate of the apron presented yesterday. Grand Master Cox read a voluminous report of his official year, showing more than 12,000 members of the order affiliated with Oregon lodges. Two lodges were chartered during the year—Vale and Arleta. Lodges at Seaside, North Bend, Bend and Hermiston were instituted as ordered by the grand lodge.

Wolverton Makes Report.

Judge C. E. Wolverton, as chairman of the committee which with the revision of the constitution and bylaws, submitted his report, which is receiving careful consideration and will be disposed of this morning prior to the election of officers.

It is conceded that Judge Wolverton will be the unanimous choice of the grand lodge for grand master. All other officers will be advanced, down to the junior grand warden, for which place there usually is keen competition.

The Scottish Rite for the Valley of Portland concluded the business of its twenty-second annual reunion with a banquet at the Cathedral last night. Andrew Allen Jayne, class orator, delivered the principal address, dealing with the teachings of the higher branches of the order.

Officers of the grand chapter of the Eastern Star were installed yesterday and the remainder of the day was devoted to routine business. Most Worthy Matron Mrs. Ella Simmons Washburn, of Racine, Wis., delivered an address in which she spoke of the accomplishments of the 500,000 members of the fraternity now in the United States. She gave an account of the progress being made in the construction of an Eastern Star home, and generally commended the closest attention from her audience, conceded to be the largest gathering of the "Masonic women folks" ever brought together in this state.

A lodge of sorrow was held last night at Masonic Temple, the chief speaker being Mrs. Inez M. Ryan. In addition the ritualistic ceremony provided for remembrance of the dead was carried out.

As the climax of the week, Al Kader Temple of the Mystic Shrine is preparing the greatest ceremonial which has been held for many years in this city, and which illustrious Potentate W. H. Galvani gravely announces to be in commemoration of the safe passage of the earth through the tail of Halley's comet.

"Your humble shaykh vowed a vow," says the illustrious potentate, "that if Allah should spare our old mother from the perilous prospect of being hurled none knows where, I would gather the faithful together for the purpose of glorifying the great and wondrous power from behind the stars and receive as many unregenerate sons as may present themselves for the rite of conversion."

The business session of the Shrine will be opened tomorrow night, and the only intermission will be from sunrise to sunset on Saturday. Following the conferring of the ritualistic work by a selected team a banquet will be spread. The present officers of Al Kader have gained a reputation for performing even better work than many of the larger temples of the East, and it is a safe prediction that every Shriner within sound of the signal from the mosque will respond.

Dr. Andrew C. Smith Admonishes Young Men to Be Good Citizens by Being of High Moral Character—Succeed by Work.

In the presence of a large audience, he also conferred gold medals awarded for scholarship in special lines.

contending that good citizenship in this country demanded men of high moral character and careful training. "We need the well-balanced man," said Dr. Smith, "who is both good and courageous. The good man without courage is inefficient and the courageous without being good is the uncivilized animal. You cannot reach success without hard work, and the price of success is found in doing faithfully every duty. Neither must you sit down and wait for an easy job to come along. You are to do what you can find.

"Success does not mean wealth and fame. Be full of courage and vigor. Work hard and play hard. Be a fighter for your rights and when a man smites you on one cheek don't turn him the other, but smash him. This may not be the advice Archbishop Christie and these reverend men would give you, but that is my interpretation on that passage of scripture."

Following the address the diplomas and medals were presented by the Archbishop, with Dr. Smith and President Gallagher seated with him on the platform. The following received diplomas:

Classical diplomas in the academic department were awarded to Alfred John Brown, Portland, and Alfred John Young, Portland. English diplomas in the academic department were awarded to Alphonse William Aya, Eugene, and John Leo Hood, Pocatello, Idaho.

Scientific diplomas in the academic department were awarded to Morrison Albert Conway, Portland; Wynn Henry Redman, Portland; Frank Van B. Redman, Portland; Harry Joseph Wade, Pocatello, and Roland R. Gasser, Portland.

Commercial diplomas were awarded to Oscar Anton Joseph Gorkey, Boise; Charles Freeman Fitzgerald, Aberdeen, Wash.; Urban James Kirk, St. Paul, Or., and Lawrence Paul Woodrum, McMinnville.

Gold Medals Awarded. Rev. Father Gallagher, president, introduced Dr. Andrew C. Smith, who delivered the address to the graduates.

Hidden in the top of a boot in the attic of the St. Charles Hotel, $40, which had been taken from the room of Ben Johnson, a guest of the house, was found yesterday afternoon by Detectives Day and Hyde, a few hours after the loss was reported.

Johnson said that when he retired Tuesday night he placed his money under the mattress of his bed. Yesterday morning when he left the hotel he forgot to recover it. About two hours later he went back and it was gone. He told the detective bureau he suspected Joe Veidt, and the detectives concentrated their efforts on that man. By admissions secured from him, while denying the charge, the detectives were led to search the attic of the hotel, and finally found the money stowed away in the boot. Veidt was arrested and charged with the theft.

Molestation burglary was committed Tuesday night at the rooming-house of Mrs. A. M. Rutherford, at 1073 Corbett street. Three rooms were entered by a sneak-thief and articles of value taken from each one. H. E. Nelson lost a gold watch and T. Lindbloom a watch and ring. A Masonic ring and a chain were taken from the room of H. M. Bush. Two men who have been about the place are suspected.

A tardy report was made yesterday by D. H. Broeze, of 475 Salmon street, of a theft committed during the parade Saturday night. His sister's pocket was picked at the corner of Fifth and Washington streets and a five-dollar gold piece taken. A check signed by Dr. Cravanaugh was also lost.

CREST PURCHASE WAITS

Mayor Disposed to Use Money on Ground Already in Hand.

Mayor Simon, after visiting Council Crest yesterday in company with the members of the Park Board and B. H. Bennett, civic architect, did not seem disposed toward the purchase of the Crest as a city park.

He is evidently determined to follow his announced policy of using the funds at the disposal of the Board for the improvement of the ground already purchased by the city.

FRISCO BARKEEPERS BARTEINDED

Woman, Afraid to Go With Chauffeur, Said to Have Called Taxicab.

ELOPEMENT THEORY FAILS

Man From Vancouver Refuses Invitation to Join Couple on Trip Home—Day Angry When More Drinks Are Refused Him.

Additional confirmation was given to the theory that Prof. Day was helplessly drunk at the time his automobile plunged through the Oregon Slough trestle into the river Friday night by the assertions of Charles May, a bartender at the Minnesota saloon, 84 North Third street, who sold Day several glasses of beer just before the car started on their journey to Vancouver.

The barkeeper says that he sold Day several rounds of drinks shortly after 11 o'clock Friday night and just at the time the chauffeur and Mabel Monto were beginning the first stage of their journey to Vancouver because of the young man's condition and the pleadings of the Monto woman. May refused to sell him additional drinks, although he made several demands for them. According to the bartender, the woman was sober and refused to join her companion in his drinks.

Auto Hits Telegraph Pole.

Speaking of the visit of the pair at the saloon May has said that he saw "Day" Grove up to the curb with the automobile in a reckless manner. In his efforts to get the car under control and stop he skidded around the corner of Fourth and Everett streets clear across the street and banged into a telephone pole in front of my place.

The car struck the pole broadside and was not damaged. Frisco and the woman were in the front seat at the time. When the car was stopped at the saloon, I heard the crash of the car against the pole and rushing into the doorway I met Day staggering into the saloon. He demanded drinks for himself and the woman. I served him.

"He carried out a glass to the woman in the car but she refused to take it. I said she had been drunk all day and now that she was sober she would stay sober. Frisco came back into the saloon and was served with two more glasses of beer. I heard the woman in the automobile say: 'Don't sell him any more drinks. He's drunk now and we're going to the hotel. We'll both be killed.'"

"I refused to give him any more drinks. He got peevish about it and threw $70 on the bar, saying that he could buy drinks and pay for them. Just about that minute he saw some man from Vancouver sitting in the cafe and he went back and spoke to him and took him by the arm. Day wanted the man, whose name I don't remember, to get in the car with him to Vancouver. The stranger refused to go with him because he was too drunk.

Woman Would Call Taxi.

When Day reached the sidewalk, a few minutes later, Mabel Monto was out of the car and was trying to reach a telephone in an express office next door to my place. She wanted to call a taxicab because she was afraid to go with Frisco. He made her ask me to call a taxi and got angry about it. Then he cursed her and insisted that she get into his automobile. She hesitated, then he opened the door of the coupe and forced her into the back seat. He had just begun to crank the car when he became awful sick.

A few moments afterward he climbed into the car and started north toward the steel bridge, but turned at Third and Planders streets in a reckless way and then into Second street toward the Burnside bridge. I am not at all surprised that he drove the automobile into the river."

The statement of the bartender to the effect that Day tried to persuade the man from Vancouver to accompany him in the car to that place indicates that if Day and the woman planned an elopement, their plans were not formulated at that regard up to the time they left the North End saloon.

CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

The Celebrated 26 Puzzle.

How To Solve It. The puzzle is to take the numbers running from 1 to 12, inclusive, and so arrange them in the squares that each column of figures up and down and across will total 26. To solve the way we have set down the figures from the correct solution in one of the columns. The other numbers—not using a figure more than once—are to be placed so that they will total 26 in each column. Few will get all four columns; some will possibly get but one or two in addition to the column already given.

Bear in mind, neatness counts as well as correctness, and will be left to disinterested parties. Our pianos are sold direct from factory to the home.

Our recent advertising contest, in which we featured the APOLLO PLAYER PIANO, demonstrated to us that this means of advertising is the most satisfactory and cheapest, besides it makes it possible for a large number to possess a piano that could not otherwise do so. With this end in view, we have concluded to give another opportunity in which all may share in the above distribution. Replies should be sent in at once, as this contest closes Wednesday, June 23, 8 o'clock P. M.
