WALKS TO BE KEPT CLEAR.—Arrange-ment by which sidewalks will be kept clear in the downtown district without unduly interfering with the business of merchants has been made by an agreement between the Chief of Police and the merchants. The effect of the agreement is that all sidewalks south of and including Oak street must be kept clear at all times, while north of Oak street a reasonable use of the sidewalks will be allowed for actually necessary purposes. Pursuant to this agreement, H. Lowengart, appearing for M. Seller & Co., and Jay Smith, for the Marshall-Wells Hard-ware Company, entered pleas of gullty in Municipal Court yesterday to charges of blockading the sidewalk and sentence was suspended. Patrolmen will be in-structed to see to the enforcement of the agreement, which is made subject to the toleration of the general body of GLOVE THIEF SENTENCED.—James J. Powers, allas William McCoy, of Kentucky, a burly specimen who gave Ser-geant Goltz a warm tuesle before he sub-mitted to arrest Wednesday night, on a charge of stealing a lot of gloves, was sentenced to 90 days' imprisonment in Municipal Court yesterday morning.

Goltz said that the man attempted to draw a knife when Goltz arrested him after seeing him pick up a bundle of gloves and put it under his coat. McCoy said that the gloves had been given to him by another man to hold while the owner went after a bottle of whisky. He asserted that Goltz had allowed Rosenstein, the merchant from whom the gloves were stolen, to strike him after the hardcuffs had been put on him, but the testimony of the other witnesses was that McCoy had abused Rosenstein and

SAN FRANCISCO FIRM BUYS ON WEST PARK AND HARRISON.

Callahan Investment Company Takes Over Tract-North Dakota Bankers Also Purchase Here.

Vanduyn & Walton and F. M. Shull have sold to the Caliahan Investment Company of San Francisco a quarter-block at the wouthwest corner of West Park and Harrison streets for $25,000. The sellers bought this property three months ago from Richard Williams for $30,000. There is one good eight-room house located on the property and two old cottages of but little value.

This is the second property which has been taken over in the South Portland

This is the second property which has been taken over in the South Portland district recently by the San Francisco company, which is the holding company of J. W. Callahan, a wealthy San Francisco operator who recently became interested in Portland real estate. In the district which the sale was made yesterday there were a large number of big sales up to a month ago, when the effect of the Summer quiet began to be noticed. That the values are still on the increase is apparent from this sale, which however, is still around the ruling market prices of a few months ago.

Vanduyn & Walton sold as agents a lot on the north side of Marshall street, between Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth streets. It was sold by I. Vanduyn to Hannah E. Baruh for $6000. Mrs. Baruh expects to erect a fine home in the immediate future on this property.

An important sale of acreage within the city limits has been negotiated through the agency of J. W. Wilson and Jay Meyers. Whipple brothers, and Jay Meyers. Henri Montenos, reporter on the Amsterdam, Holland, Telegraph, arrived in Portland yesterday on his way around the world. Well-educated, strong as the proverbial ox, and certain of success in his venture, young Montenos is tramping around the globe on a $5000 wager.

He left Amsterdam on Pebruary 1, 1906, without a cent in his pockets, working his way to New York. Since that time, he has been gradually working westward. Montenos was in Washington, where he had an audience with President where he had an audience with President Taft, also securing the Chief Execu-tive's signature in his travel-book. The young Hollander is headed for San Francisco, where he had intended to "cover" the Jeffries-Johnson battle for "cover" the Jeffries-Johnson battle for his Amsterdam paper.
