

RAUCOUSLY CITED IN CONTEMPT CHARGE

Court Aroused by Rumored Indifference to Beavert Island Injunction.

J. B. SWITZLER COMPLAINS

Portland Man, Given Right to Tract, Says Earnhart, Disregarding Writ, Are Cutting Alfalfa on Land in Columbia.

Being informed yesterday of the action of F. E. Earnhart, a Umatilla County ranchman in deliberately entering upon land owned by J. B. Switzler, a resident of Columbia, Oregon, in violation of a permanent injunction issued by him, Judge Charles E. Wolverton issued an order directing F. E. Earnhart to appear in court and explain the matter in a satisfactory manner or suffer the consequences.

The men will have to appear on July 5, when the case is set for hearing. It is thought probable that the Earnharts have taken this method of securing possession of the lands, through a determination to make a stand for rights which they claim to have against John B. Switzler, of Portland, declared by the court to be the owner of the best right to the land.

Island Unsurveyed Tract.

Beavert Island is an unsurveyed tract in the Columbia River, about 40 miles from Pendleton, and has been in the hands of squatters for a number of years. In 1893 Switzler purchased the rights of Beavert, who then inhabited the island, and leased the place to J. E. Halter, the owner of the property taking up his residence in this city. Switzler has since replaced stock animals and farming implements on the place and owned a well-furnished house.

Switzler says that in 1909 Halter entered into a conspiracy with Earnhart whereby Halter was to be ejected from the land and the property transferred to Earnhart. After establishing himself on the island, Earnhart said that Switzler had abandoned his father's right by removing his residence from the land.

Switzler is Recognized.

The case came to the United States Court in October of last year, and through Earnhart's failure to answer the complaint within the time allowed under the rules of the court, Switzler was entered which recognized the ownership of the property to be in Switzler, and permanently enjoined Earnhart from interfering with the island.

IMMIGRATION LAW GETS BLOW

Judge Wolverton Holds Naturalization Act Unconstitutional.

Congressional legislation of June 25, 1908, relative to last year, and yesterday held to be unconstitutional by Judge Wolverton, in the United States Court. This act was intended to give the Federal courts the right to cancel certificates of naturalization which might have been obtained through fraudulent representations, or which were granted through error of the court. The court held the act to be retroactive, and an appeal will be taken by the Department of Commerce and Labor, which was instrumental in having the law enacted.

The decision was the result of an attempt by the immigration officers to cause the cancellation of the papers of Akervik, a Norwegian, who admitted that he had not been in the United States for four and one-half years prior to his coming directly from the port of New York to Oregon. He obtained employment in Portland, and in 1902 made a declaration of his intention to become a citizen of the United States. Later in that year he was called to Norway through the illness of his wife, and, knowing of the panic in the United States, Akervik remained in his native country.

In 1908, Akervik had accumulated sufficient funds and brought his family to Oregon, and afterward appeared in court and claimed his home to have been in America during all of the five years that he was in Norway. Upon that showing, the court ordered his final papers issued, notwithstanding the reading of the law which requires that the applicant shall have continuously resided in Oregon during each of the five years prior to the hearing.

Judge Wolverton held the decision of the court which issued the papers to have been an error, but that the Government failed to exercise its right of appeal, and for that reason, was at this time barred from attacking a vested and valuable right.

PHONE COMPANY IS INSOLVENT

Receiver Named for Long-Distance Branch of Home Concern.

The Northwestern Long-Distance Telephone Company in Oregon, handling the long-distance business of the Home Telephone Company, was yesterday declared insolvent in the United States Court, and Judge C. E. Wolverton appointed W. D. Tyler, of Tacoma, receiver for the Oregon business. Mr. Tyler has the Washington business of the company in his hands, through an appointment by Judge Hanford.

The Home Telephone Company was the petitioner which appeared before the court, and claims to have equipped the lines of the long-distance concern, of which the Home Company holds its notes for more than $55,000, secured by bonds. The outstanding bonds of the long-distance company amount to $1,300,000. It is said that there are many other large creditors who were willing that the business should pass into the control of the petitioners.

Business over the long-distance wires of the Home Company will not be in any manner interfered with by the appointment of the receiver, and it is believed that the move amounts only to an adjustment of affairs of the Home Company. It is admitted that the bonds of the long-distance company are largely in the hands of owners of the Home Company.

Raymond Gets $80,000 Hotel. RAYMOND, Wash., June 20.—(Special.)

Hotel accommodations are always at a premium here. That a new hotel is needed in Raymond was made manifest by the fact that during the recent convention of the Southern Washington Development Association the hotel, all the boarding and even private houses had to be used to care for the visitors. Messrs. Creech and Brown have decided to erect an $80,000 concrete hotel. The site of the new hotel will be Third and Dursey streets, which is in the heart of the business district.

Fun at Lyric Has Japanese Scenes and Motif

Gelaha Girls Vie With Comedians in Providing Entertainment.

If you are not too cynical, you may laugh heartily at some parts of the performance of "A Night in Tokio," at the Lyric Theater this week. During other portions you may go to sleep or forget it. To do either, however, would be difficult with a full chorus singing a rollicking song about every two minutes. There is nothing especially notable about this hitherto unheard-of musical comedy. It all might be said to come up to the usual Lyric standard, with the usual quota of jokes, songs and the like, full of life and action from the start. There is no curtain until the end, which helps some.

The musical numbers and dialogue are all centered around the adventures of two American millionaires, Messrs. Grabowsky and Murphy, in Tokio. There are eight of Gelaha girls, becomingly costumed in the attire of a Japanese, a caricature. To carry out this idea, they proceed to drug Murphy and take his roll, but when the man practices is attempted on Grabowsky, the fun commences. The roll is held back by a piece of rubber, which when pulled awakens him.

The piece will run all this week.

LAY CHURCH CORNERSTONE

Many Pastors Participate in Exercises at Kelly Memorial Structure.

The cornerstone of the Clinton Kelly Memorial Methodist Church, on Powell between East Fortieth and East Forty-first streets, was laid Sunday afternoon with appropriate services. Rev. W. B. Hollingshead, district superintendent, presided, and he was assisted in the service by Rev. W. E. Hampton, Rev. W. T. Buxter, Rev. Clarence True Wilson and other pastors. Rev. Mr. Wilson delivered the principal address. After speaking of the value of churches to a community he said:

"This new church bears an honorable name, that of Father Clinton Kelly, a man who helped lay the foundation of Methodism in this county long before you and I came and before many of us were born. It is fitting that the church should be named in his honor, for he left ever-widening influence on this community. The stories we have received show that 'Father' Kelly was not only a man of deep piety, but was a man of great mind and force and a philosopher as well. I was told by Dr. I. D. Driver, known as the school near here, that he considered 'Father' Kelly one of the ablest original men he had ever known. I am glad that the church will bear his name, as the school near here was named after him because of his interest in educational matters."

Following the address the cornerstone was laid by Rev. Mr. Hollingshead, assisted by the other pastors and the contractor. A copper box containing the records of the new church, names of the district superintendent, Rev. W. B. Hollingshead, Bishop Charles W. Smith, the Boys' Brigade and several other articles. The box was then sealed and placed in the cornerstone.

F. E. Kelly, a grandson of 'Father' Clinton Kelly, who gave the ground for the church, spoke briefly, telling of the start of the Kelly Memorial Church—services being held first in a grove, then in a tent and then in a chapel. Subscriptions were received to a considerable amount toward the erection of the building. The foundation and basement are completed. The cost of the new church is estimated at $3800.

SPOKANE ADMEN IN CITY

Delegation En Route to San Francisco After 1911 Convention.

En route to the Pacific Coast Advertising Men's Association convention, which will be held in San Francisco June 22, 23 and 24, nine delegates from Spokane passed through Portland yesterday. This delegation is going to the Bay City to make a determined fight to secure Spokane as the meeting place for the convention to be held in 1911, and yesterday morning enlisted the services of the Portland ad-men, who instructed their delegates to vote for Spokane.

The visitors were the guests at breakfast and luncheon of the local organization. They were taken over the city in automobiles in the morning and afternoon, and voted their treatment in this city as superb. They left last night, at 6 o'clock, for San Francisco.

The convention at San Francisco will have a voting strength of 175 delegates, but will be attended by about 1000 advertising men, among whom are some of the foremost authorities on the subject of advertising in the entire country.

In connection with the convention, there is to be held in Cooper's Hall in San Francisco an advertising exposition, at which will be displayed all the newest things in the way of advertising, and the latest ideas on the subject will be exploited.

The Spokane delegation consisted of Raymond E. Bigelow, president of the Pacific Coast Advertising Men's Association; W. F. Hemmings, J. Raymond Dunphy, F. H. Lloyd, Leonard Darbyshire, Alex. Green, R. G. Paulin and W. H. Tenney.

REPUBLICANS MEET TODAY

State Central Committee Seeks Advice on Campaign Work.

For the purpose of discussing matters of party interest in connection with the approaching campaign and the state assembly July 21, a meeting of the advisory board of the Republican State Central Committee has been called for Tuesday night at the state headquarters in the Cornwell Hotel.

This committee is composed of nine members and largely are not members of the committee, but have been called to advise with Chairman George and his executive staff. The matter of finances is one that will be discussed. It is planned to start the campaign now for the assembly and to do this literature will be prepared for distribution before in the history of Oregon has there been such a sudden and overwhelming change of sentiment in the attitude of voters of the state toward the assembly, said Chairman George. "During the last few weeks the voters have come to realize that criticism of the assembly was largely inspired by Democrats and near-Republicans, who have interests of their own to conserve."

WOMEN GO TO REGISTER

TROUBLES OF CLERKS AT BOOTH ARE NUMEROUS.

Naturalized Citizens Who "Forgot Papers" Most Other — Tally Stands at 5014.

Oregon voters have not yet decided to give the women a right to vote. Several women, however, appeared at the registration counter in County Clerk Fields' office yesterday and desired to register. They said they didn't expect to vote at the primaries or the general election in June, but they thought they had to register in order to vote at the school election. A number also applied for the registration booth at the Courthouse to cast their votes for one or the other of the candidates of yesterday's election.

Naturalized citizens are the ones, however, who most of all try the patience of the registration clerks. The law requires that they exhibit their citizenship papers. Some do this, but others have "forgotten them" and appear very much insulted when told they cannot register without them.

This year's registration now stands at 5014. A force of Mr. Fields' deputies is busy each night entering the addresses of these voters from the cards in the registration books, as the clerks at the registration counter haven't time during the day to do this. Five hundred and thirty-one voters registered yesterday, of whom 424 were Republicans and 62 Democrats. On the same day in 1908 263 registered.

Klamath Falls is Shipping Point.

KLAMATH FALLS, Or., June 20.—(Special.)—That Klamath Falls is fast becoming recognized as the shipping center for the entire country surrounding, from the California state line to north and east as far as Crescent and Silver Lake, is shown by the fact that more than 15,000 pounds of goods for the Silver Lake merchants arrived over the Southern Pacific road today. And this is nothing unusual, as hardly a day passes but freight comes here either for Silver Lake or Crescent, the former nearly 200 miles distant and the latter 100. These goods are loaded on wagons at the station here and hauled to their destination.
