Today, 43d Day Anniversary and 54 Wonder Day Sales and Second Pioneer Week at the Greater Meier & Frank Store

Pioneers and Indian War Veterans All Welcome

See our Fifth-street Window display of Relics of Pioneer Days and see if you remember any of the following events:

The first brick house in Oregon was built by George Gay in 1841. The first printing of any kind done in the Oregon country was on May 18, 1839.

In 1850 there was great rivalry for the commercial ascendancy between Portland and Milwaukie, with a fair prospect of Milwaukie taking the lead.

The first daguerreotype gallery in Portland was opened on June 25, 1852.

The first steamer to arrive in Portland was the Columbia, on June 6, 1850.

In 1851 the editor of a newspaper at Oregon City expressed a wish that the time would come when there would be something more than a semi-weekly mail between Portland and Oregon City.

The first flour mill in what is now Oregon was built in 1847.

The first ice cream parlor in Portland was established in 1854 and the ice was quarried at the foot of Mount Adams in the ice caves there, packed to the Columbia River on mules and shipped down to Portland at a cost of about 25 cents a pound.

The first Fourth of July celebration in Portland was in a grove at the foot of Jefferson street in 1850.

The first wedding on the Pacific Coast was July 16, 1837. The wedding parlor was the outspreading branches of a fir tree.

The first Fourth of July celebration on the Pacific Coast was on July 5, 1841, and the first in what is Oregon today was at Oregon City, in 1846.

The first pig iron manufactured on the Pacific Coast was at Oswego in 1867.

The first store of any kind in Salem was in 1847, and the goods were hauled across the plains.

Apples cost $4.50 per dozen in Portland in 1854.

The first ascension of Mount Hood was on August 4, 1854.

The first honey bees to arrive in Oregon were brought across the plains in 1854.

Oregon apples brought 75 cents apiece in San Francisco in October, 1852.

In 1849 flour was $14 a barrel in Portland.

The first direct overland mail to the Pacific Coast came in 1848.

The first threshing and separator machine on the Pacific Coast was brought to Oregon in 1850 and used in Washington County.

The first sawmill on the Pacific Coast was established six miles east of Vancouver in 1827-28.

The first white clover was brought in 1840 and the first red clover in 1853.

The first brick pavement used in Portland was on September 23, 1851.

In 1851 there were only two old maids in Oregon.

The wages of carpenters in 1850 in Portland were from $8 to $12 per day.

The first dray business in Oregon was established in 1845 by Medorem Crawford at Oregon City and his team was a yoke of black oxen, which had been driven across the plains.

The total vote of Oregon in 1851 was 2337. That included the entire Pacific Northwest.

The first brick building in Portland was built in 1853 by W. S. Ladd and finished June 24, 1853.

Oregon apples won first prize at the California State Fair on October 30, 1853.

HOTEL CLERK AIDS CUPID

A. H. GATTIS, OF IMPERIAL, IS SUCCOR TO BASHFUL.

Couple From Clatskanie Don't Quite Know, So Man Behind Desk Does All but Kiss Bride.

Along with the duties of chief clerk, A. H. Gattis, of the Imperial Hotel, has assumed the more delicate responsibilities of a sentinel for Cupid, promoter of matrimony and coacher of bashful bridegrooms. He is a veteran behind the hotel desk, but few knew of his latest talent, which he has kept hidden under a bushel until yesterday afternoon, when he suddenly came to the rescue of a backward pair from Clatskanie that came to Portland to be married.

Nervously approaching the desk, J. W. McDonald, with Miss Lottie Anderson on his arm, hesitated at the open register, looked uneasily around the lobby and stared at Gattis, while the bride blushed and dropped her eyelashes.

"Never mind, old man," smilingly said Gattis. "Have you your license yet? Yes? Just go ahead and register and I'll get a witness and act as one myself. And I'll give you the best bridal chamber in the house."

"Thank you, thank you," stammered McDonald. "It's so kind of you, thank you, very much."

"Never mind, never mind, that's all right," assured the clerk. "Got a minister?"

When the young man shook his head, a clergyman was hastily summoned and in a few minutes the ceremony was performed, with Gattis and Phil Metschan, proprietor of the Imperial, as witnesses.

BEN GREET TURNED DOWN

Miss Izetta Jewel Unable to Accept Eastern Offer.

The good fairies who seem to drop nice gifts into the lap of Izetta Jewel have been busy this past week. It was almost like a fairy happening last year when the offer came from Otis Skinner to Miss Jewel making her to become his leading woman. And yesterday came a telegram from Ben Greet in Washington, D. C., asking Miss Jewel to join his company at once to play the leading feminine roles in his Shakespearean productions.

When the Otis Skinner fairy called Miss Jewel was ready and obeyed—and a tour of triumph was hers. When the Ben Greet fairy called yesterday evening found the talented little actress just dropping the link on a contract to go to San Francisco at the end of her engagement here next week to play four weeks.

Much to Miss Jewel's regret, she was forced to wive Mr. Greet that she could not go. This is the second time Ben Greet has endeavored to secure Miss Jewel as his leading woman. Last winter while she was playing at the Garrick Theater in New York with Otis Skinner in "You Humble Servant" Mr. Greet asked Miss Jewel to present a series of Friday matinees in "Everyman" at the Garden Theater, where his company was playing.

MEDFORD HERE FOR AID

COMMERCIAL CLUB ASKED TO HELP CRATER LAKE ROAD.

National Park Threatened With Abandonment Unless People of Oregon Assist Development.

At a luncheon with the board of governors of the Commercial Club today, a committee of Medford business men will ask the aid of that organization in securing a fund of $50,000 from Portland and other cities in Northern Oregon for the construction of a boulevard from Medford to Crater Lake National Park. The Medford delegation is composed of E. B. Waterman, George Putnam, J. M. Root, J. D. Hurd, G. A. Davis, and J. A. Westerlund, all workers in the Commercial Club of that city.

The delegation advances the argument that the Government is threatened with the abandonment of the National Park unless the people of Oregon assist in its development. It has secured the gratuitous services of B. F. Heide, engineer of the Department of Agriculture, and has raised in Medford $30,000 among the business interests. It has also the promise of the commissioners of Jackson County to contribute $1 for every dollar raised by subscription in any part of the state.

From Medford to Crater Lake is 80 miles. The Forest Service will build the 30 miles of the boulevard lying within the reserves, and the remaining 50 miles has been undertaken by the people of Medford. This part includes the Florence Rock hill, where a survey has been made calling for a

RAG WAREHOUSE IS BURNED

Man Found Asleep in Blazing Building Is Rescued by Firemen.

Fire at 282 Front street, at 2:46 yesterday afternoon, called out several companies of the fire department and a large detail of police. The building which was afire adjoins the Smith & Watson Iron Works, the proprietors of which complained recently that their building had been stoned by strike sympathizers, and for that reason it was thought that there might be trouble in the neighborhood.

The burning building was a decrepit shack used by S. Weinstein, a junk dealer, in which to store rags. There were between 10 and 20 tons of assorted rags in the place. The building was badly damaged, but the fire was soon extinguished.

Andrew Menzoro, a Russian, was found asleep in the burning building, and was rescued and arrested by Patrolman Porter. It is thought probable that the fire was set by him. He was in a maudlin condition and could give no account of himself.

4 WILL WED AT ONE TIME

Misses Shields Will Each Take Husbands This Morning.

Rev. Edwin V. O'Hara will officiate at St. Mary's Cathedral this morning at 10 o'clock at a double wedding, the brides being sisters, Dr. George F. Finnegan, a physician of American Falls, Idaho, will marry Miss Hanna L. Shields, while W. E. Westland, a Denver business man, will wed Miss Mary E. Shields. After the ceremony the bridal party will be given a reception at the Portland Hotel by John F. Shields, a brother of the brides, who is trust officer at the Title & Trust Company.

The Misses Shields are daughters of Martin Shields, who was for many years a member of a wholesale grocery firm in Boston, Mass. Mr. Westland is the Colorado representative of the National Cash Register Company, and Dr. Finnegan is a graduate of Tufts University of Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Westland will make their home in Denver, and Dr. and Mrs. Finnegan in American Falls. They are much pleased with Portland, however, and Dr. and Mrs. Finnegan may remove here later.
