

GRAND JURY WILL CALL KLINGENBERG

Accomplice of Gohl Says His "Head Not Right" When He Told Story.

TESTIMONY IS CONJECTURE

Gohl Prophesies His Companion's Tale to Grand Jury Will Not Tally With Confession, and Later Himself Hints Similarly.

ABERDEEN, Wash., June 20.—(Special.)—J. Klingenberg, formerly a dockleyman on the schooner A. J. West, and now in the County Jail at Montesano as the confessed accomplice of William Gohl in the murder of John Hamilton and of Charles Hadberg, for which Gohl is serving a life sentence at the State Penitentiary at Walla Walla, will have an opportunity to tell his story of the crime before the Chehalis County grand jury which will convene at Montesano July 5.

What sort of a story Klingenberg will tell in the juryroom is something of a conjecture. Gohl, in an interview at Montesano while in his confinement and before the jury would not dovetail with the man's confession and Gohl promised a sensation.

Men Did Not Communicate. Whether or not Gohl knew what he was talking about is not known. The two men did not have a conversation during the Gohl trial or after Gohl's conviction, declared both the Sheriff, Edward Fayette, and the attorneys at the County Jail. Yet the rumor is persistent in this city, who assisted in the defense of Klingenberg.

Klingenberg Promises Truth. Klingenberg is not ready to make any statement. In the first interview he has given out since his confinement and since his confession, he said yesterday: "My head was not right when I told that communication between the two was established."

One report is that holes were bored with a red-hot poker in the wall that separated the corridors between the cells of the two prisoners. This cannot be substantiated and there is no evidence that the supposed holes were ever bored in the wall.

Sullen now and resentful at his long incarceration in the County Jail and unable to understand why he did not get his liberty after Gohl's conviction, Klingenberg is in an ugly mood. He has retained as his attorney A. T. Cross, of this first story. It was not right when I went into the courtroom. It will be all right, though, when I get into the grand jury room and I am going to tell a true story."

Pressed to explain his meaning, Klingenberg said there "would be time enough" to do that when the grand jury met. Beyond that he would say nothing. Mr. Campbell explains the delay in trying Klingenberg by saying that owing to a lack of jurors since the venire was exhausted, it was impossible to try Klingenberg last month. Now action by the grand jury will be awaited. It is thought the trial will be held at some time in August. Gohl's right to appeal to the State Supreme Court will have been abrogated by that time.

LIFE RISKED FOR CANARY

Seaside Man Nearly Drowned Trying to Save His Pet.

SEASIDE, Or., June 20.—(Special.)—In an effort to save the life of a pet canary, M. L. Barrett, a local restaurant proprietor, plunged into the treacherous waters of the Necanicum and came near to drowning last night.

The restaurant owned by Barrett is built directly over the river, and while the cage containing the bird was being cleaned the tiny songster made a break for freedom and flew from the cage, through the open window and out over the water, where its strength failed and it fluttered into the current. Thinking there was a chance to save it, Mr. Barrett lost no time in diving into the water and swimming to where the bird was still feebly trying to rise, but the heroic effort was unavailing, for the bird had drowned before he reached it.

Hampered by his clothing, Mr. Barrett with difficulty gained the shore, and had it not been for the assistance of friends would have drowned.

DEATH ENDS GAME

Bartender Shot After Gaming Table Quarrel.

AUTHOR OF CRIME ESCAPES

Joe Roosi Loses His Life at Hands of Unknown Man in Railroad Construction Camp on Deschutes River.

THE DALLES, Or., June 20.—(Special.)—A quarrel over a card game doubtless led to the murder of a railroad construction camp on the Deschutes River, two miles below Shearer's Bridge, last night, when one of two unknown men shot and fatally wounded Joe Roosi, a bartender in the tent saloon of Joe Rische. Roosi died in ten minutes.

The shooting followed an all-evening session over the card tables at which Roosi won a small sum from one of the strangers. Cursing his luck, the man rose from the table declaring he did not have the money with him, but would return with it. He started outside, but before he had gone through the door, suddenly whipped out his revolver and ordered Roosi to throw up his hands.

Roosi ducked behind the bar, and both strangers began a fusillade of shots. Seven bullets were fired in all, the fatal one striking Roosi in the back as he crouched fearfully under the bar counter. In ten minutes he was dead.

Eight Italian construction hands were in the tent saloon at the time, but after shooting someone dashed out the light and in the confusion everyone escaped. The men who did the shooting are supposed to have been members of the construction camp. It is said they had been drinking considerably during the afternoon.

RAILROAD CHIEF FIGHTS

PRESIDENT HAYS OF C. T. P. DEFENDANT IN CASE.

Vanouver Court Scene of Contest

Involving $500,000 Worth of Property at Road Terminus.

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 20.—Charles H. Hays, president of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, arrived in Vancouver today on a special train from the East to appear as a defendant and witness in the case of Frewen versus the Grand Trunk Townsite Company, which will be called in the Supreme Court tomorrow.

This action, which involves approximately half a million dollars' worth of property in Prince Rupert, the Grand Trunk Pacific terminus, is being brought by Moreton Frewen, the well known bimetalist of London, England, to enforce an alleged agreement of sale between the townsite company to himself of 1000 lots in the new city in the North.

The plaintiff bases his action on what he terms a verbal understanding between himself and the president of the Grand Trunk Pacific which, he asserts, was followed by correspondence, concerning the proposed transfer of the lots in question from the townsite to himself. He contends that this verbal understanding and the letters which came after it are binding enough to constitute an agreement for sale in any court in the land.

The defendant claims that this verbal understanding and the letters which came after it are binding enough to constitute an agreement for sale in any court in the land.

S.S.S. FOR SUMMER S.S.S. SKIN DISEASES

Smooth, healthy skins are a rarity in Summer. Most persons are annoyed with pimples, boils, rashes or eruptions, while others suffer more severely with Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Salt Rheum, or some kindred skin disease. All skin affections come from humors and acids in the circulation. The blood, as it circulates through the system, deposits these acids and humors in the sensitive membranous flesh which lies just beneath the outer skin or tissue covering the body. This acid matter causes inflammation and a discharge which breaks through the delicate cuticle, and skin diseases are the result. To cure any skin trouble the blood must be freed from all acids and humors, and for this purpose nothing equals S. S. S. This great blood purifier goes down into the circulation and completely removes every particle of impurity, enriches the blood and in this way permanently cures skin diseases. S. S. S. cures, because it purifies the blood and allows it to nourish, soothe, and soften the skin instead of irritating it with fatty acids and humors. Book on Skin Diseases and any medical advice free. PRINCIPALS AND CHAIRMAN IN TONIGHT'S DEBATE ON PROHIBITION.

Rev. Clarence True Wilson, Who Will Speak for Prohibition. Colonel E. Hofer, Who Will Speak Against Prohibition. M. C. Reed, President Civic Federation, Who Will Preside.

LIQUOR DEBATE SUBJECT

COLONEL HOFER WILL MEET DR. CLARENCE TRUE WILSON.

Talk on Alleged Detriment to State of Prohibition Expected to Furnish Campaign Material.

Colonel E. Hofer, editor of the Capital Journal of Salem, candidate for the nomination as Governor of Oregon, and Dr. Clarence True Wilson, pastor of Centenary Methodist Episcopal Church, will debate on the question: "Resolved, That prohibition of the liquor traffic would be a detriment to the State of Oregon," in Tabernacle Church, Hawthorne Park tonight. Colonel Hofer will advocate the affirmative, and Dr. Wilson the negative.

The debate will be held under the auspices of the Civic Federation Society of Oregon. M. C. Reed, president of the society, will preside.

Since the Prohibitionists inaugurated the "Oregon-dry-in-1910" movement, the campaign has already resulted in the organization of what is known as the "Greater Oregon Home Rule Association," composed of leading business men of the state, which proposes to oppose the effort of the Prohibitionists.

The debate tonight is attracting state-wide attention, and the result is expected to furnish much campaign material.

Colonel Hofer will appear at the debate of his own accord, and not as a representative of the Greater Oregon Home Rule Association, with which he has no affiliation.
