

MAN DIES NANNING "PAL" AS SLAYER

With His Throat Cut, Victim
Crawls to Railway Track and Signals Train.

MURDERER STILL AT LARGE

Unable to Speak, Stricken Laborer
Writes Words Telling of Brutal
Attack Made by Companion,
While He Was Sleeping.

CHEHALIS, Wash., June 21.—(Special.)—His throat cut so severely that his wind-pipe was severed and every stop caused the blood to gush from the jagged wound, Alvin W. Black, a laborer, managed to crawl to the railroad track near Winlock and signal a Great Northern train, early this morning. Before he died, a few hours afterward, he told by feebly-written words on a sheet of paper and by nods of the head, of a cruel attack by his companion, John Sullivan, who is now being sought on a charge of murder.

When picked up by the astonished train crew, Black was nearly unconscious from the loss of blood and unable to speak, because of the severed wind-pipe. He was carried three miles to Winlock, where, on his death-bed, he made the accusation against Sullivan.

Victim Tells Story.

From the story which the dying man painfully unfolded to those around him, it was gathered that Sullivan attacked Black while he was asleep near the railroad track. Both men had gone there together, and were seen together in Winlock, the night before.

Black said he awoke to find Sullivan bending over him with a knife. The next instant, Sullivan brought the blade down upon his throat. He moaned as the blow struck, and at the same instant the train whistled. At this, said Black, his assailant took flight and sped away in the woods, while his victim scrambled down to the tracks.

Possé After Slayer.

Sullivan is still at large, although Sheriff Urquhart and a posse are searching the woods for him. His description has been telegraphed to surrounding towns and his apprehension is momentarily expected.

Black said he first met Sullivan in Vancouver, Wash., and they shipped there suit cases to Winlock, where they expected to find work.

Black's throat was so deeply cut that nothing could be done to save him. Death ended his sufferings at 11:30 this morning. His father, Peter Black, of Wolverson, Mich., has been notified. Black's suit, case at the station, was marked by the name of A. E. Roberts. He formerly worked in saloons at Raymond.

Motive for the murder is not apparent. Black had only 30 cents on him, and this was not touched by his slayer. There was nothing in either man's suit case to indicate that they were other than the workmen they professed to be.

County Attorney Buxton went to Winlock tonight to investigate the murder, and Coroner Sticken will hold an inquest tomorrow.

MASONS MEET AT TACOMA

Address of Grand Master Ray Baker
Feature of Session.

TACOMA, June 21.—The Masonic Grand Lodge opened in the Masonic Temple this forenoon with a large attendance. The meeting was presided over by address of welcome by James McCormack, chairman of the local committee on entertainment, and responses by Senior Warden Warden David E. Prescott, of Spokane.

Grand Master Ray Baker, of Colville, read his annual address, reviewing the work of the year. Being advised that irregular Masonic lodges were being organized in the State of Washington, he had proceeded with the intention of the Grand Lodge on April 1, 1910.

Importuned to give his ideas and views of the Grand Lodge, the grand master said it had gone on record several years ago as opposed to a National Grand Lodge and personally he was averse to the plan. He is, however, in favor of a National convention of grand lecturers. The election of officers tomorrow afternoon will be among the features of the session.

WOMAN ACCUSED OF ARSON

Mrs. Belle Howard Alleged to Have Fired Her Hotel.

WEISER, Idaho, June 21.—(Special.)—Mrs. Belle Howard, for many years a resident of Meadows, this county, was this morning bound over by Probate Judge Bowen in the sum of $1000 to appear before the District Court for trial on the charge of arson.

On the night of December 18 last the Hotel Howard, belonging to Mrs. Howard, with all its contents, was destroyed by fire.

Mrs. Howard was managing the hotel at the time. Circumstances aroused the suspicions of the officers and an investigation was started. It was ascertained that the building and contents were heavily insured and that a few days before the fire a number of household articles and valuables were taken out of the building and shipped to this city. It was only by the most strenuous efforts of the citizens of Meadows that the entire town did not burn.

Mrs. Howard gave bail for her appearance.

PARTY TO BE ON BALLOT

Attorney-General Decides Democrats
Have Right to Place.

SALEM, Or., June 21.—(Special.)—At the request of the Secretary of State, Attorney-General A. M. Crawford yesterday afternoon rendered an opinion to the effect that the Democrats will have the right to a place on the ballot at the coming elections in the Second district, though the party polled less than 25 per cent of the vote for Congressmen at the last election.

The Attorney-General takes the position that as the party polled more than 25 per cent of the vote in the state at large, it will still have the privilege of a position on the ballot by petition.

Wheat Shortage Closes Mill.

DAYTON, Wash., June 21.—(Special.)—Due to a shortage of available milling wheat and a dearth of export orders, the Portland Flouring Company's mill at Dayton closed down today until after harvest. The regular run will not be resumed until the new crop comes in. Fourteen millers have been thrown out of employment. The big plant will be overhauled and repaired during the summer. Other flouring mills in the Touchet Valley are now closed down this month, including plants at Huntsville, Watsburg, Prescott and Longs.

SOIL NEEDS SHOWN

Experts Say Vegetable Properties Should Be Returned.

EXHIBIT CAUSES INTEREST

Demonstration Train With College
Professors in Charge Shows
Farmers Right and Wrong
Ways to Cultivate Tracts.

FARMINGTON, Wash., June 21.—(Special.)—In the Palouse country, the banner wheat district of the Northwest, the farming demonstration train met out by the O. R. & N. Company with the cooperation of the State College of Washington, gave four demonstrations today. One of the strong points made by the members of the college faculty in addresses today was of the necessity for returning vegetable properties to the soil. Professor C. C. Thoms, soil physicist of the college, told the farmers that, contrary to general belief, the soil of the Palouse country was not exceptionally rich. Analyses made show that it contains in productive elements about the average properties of farming soil generally throughout the United States. Its virgin state has permitted the production of large crops. Now a portion of the vegetable matter is being exhausted and this is being shown by the washings on the steeper hillsides.

Stockraising Urged.

The production of more livestock and better methods of cultivation were explained and strongly recommended.

Experience with other demonstration trains has given the college experts ideas for improvements which have been put into effect on the train now on the road. In the baggage cars, the exhibits have been arranged to give wider aisles, and some of the most interesting features are now shown in open flatcars. One of these is an exhibit in moisture conservation in which several tubes, filled with soil cultivated by poor methods and by good methods, are shown for comparison.

These tubes are fed from glass bottles filled with water, carrying a solution drawing the water into the soil. The exhibit offers a striking example of how water is wasted through evaporation by indifferent cultivation.

Marked interest was shown by visitors today in this demonstration and in the samples of modern seed machinery for dry farming.

The train today visited Colfax, Elberton, Garfield and Farmington, the demonstration at the last place being given at dusk, which was made possible by the special electric lighting plant carried.

In all 500 persons passed through the train today. While the attendance has not been so large as at previous demonstrations in this territory, the audiences were more typical of the farming class, there being more children and grown curiosity-seekers than heretofore.

WALLA WALLA CROP IS FAIR

Portland Experts Estimate Grain
Yield at 80 Per Cent.

WALLA WALLA, Wash., June 21.—(Special.)—The grain yield in the Inland Empire will be about 80 per cent of a crop, according to Varnac McRae, of the California National Bank of Portland, N. A. Leach, of Kerr, Gifford & Co., of Portland, and L. Schumack, of Colfax, who arrived in Walla Walla yesterday on their tour of this section of the country.

The party has traveled 1500 miles in an automobile and will leave in the morning for Oregon. The two Portland men expect to arrive in Portland the latter part of this week.

Mr. Schumack said as a general rule there is this and that, but it is found only in sections. He reports conditions in Franklin and Garfield counties as rather poor while the crop in this valley looks better than in any section they have yet visited.

Mr. McRae is making it a point to visit all bankers on his tour. He finds money rather tight, but attributes it to the large amount of wheat still in storage.

The recent rains in this section have helped conditions and the prospects for a 90 per cent yield are promising. The fruit yield prospects have never been brighter.

UMATILLA PROSPECTS BRIGHT

Hot Winds Offset by Showers and Cloudy Weather.

PENDLETON, Or., June 21.—(Special.)—As a result of the frequent showers of the past few days, Umatilla County crop prospects are exceedingly bright. There is now every indication of normal yields of both wheat and barley, and in some sections the yields will be above the normal.

The effect of coal oil in it early in the evening to my other house and hid it. I remember then going out south of town for a long walk.

"When I came back it was about 1 o'clock, and after looking around awhile I set the fire and immediately left town again. This time I went to Ole Slato's place on the Little Potlatch, and when I got there it was 5 o'clock. I sat on the porch till the family got up. It all seems strange to me now."

The property is mortgaged for $800 and was insured for $1500.

CITY HALL CARPET MENACE

Eugene Health Department Asked to Investigate at Once.

EUGENE, Or., June 20.—(Special.)—Because of the filthy condition of the carpet in the room of the City Treasurer in the City Hall, a motion was passed in the City Council last night, requiring the health committee to look into the matter.

The question was brought up by the Mayor, who said that the carpet in the room was absolutely worn out in places and the whole room had such a filthy appearance that it was an insult to require the city official who is engaged to remain in such a room. The carpet, he said, was laid 25 years ago.

Whereupon a Councilman moved that the health committee take the matter up. Another member questioned the utility of this committee to take up a carpet.

"I cut that trap-door under the kitchen part expecting to dig a cellar, but before I got it completed something came over me to burn the house," he added.
