New Concern Subsidiary to American Light & Power Co., of New York-Robert Strahorn Now Owns Much of Property.

SPOKANE, Wash., June 24 .- (Special.) — Negotiations have just been completed for the purchase by the American Power & Light Co., of New York, of electric power plants in South-eastern Washington and Northern Ore-

The Pacific Power & Light Co., with a capital stock of $7,500,000, has just been organized by the American Power & Light Co. to take over and operate these properties. The headquarters of the new concern

The headquarters of the new concern will be in Portland, Or., but branch offices will be established in the various towns, including Lewiston, Walla Walla, Pendleton, Astoria, Pasco, Kennewick, Sunnyside and North Yakima.

The properties purchased are as follows: Astoria, Or., gas plant, electric plant and street rallway; Pendleton, Or., gas plant and electric plant; Adams, Or., electric plant; Freewater, Or., electric plant; Walla Walla, Wash., gas plant, electric plant, street railway and interurban line to Milton and Freewater; Lewiston, Idaho., gas plant, Pasco, Wash., waterworks and electric plant; Kennewick, Wash., waterworks and electric plant; Mabton, Wash., electric plant; Wapato, Wash., electric plant; Washa, electric plant; Washa, gas plant, electric plant; and waterworks.

The company will own steam generating plants at Astoria, Walla Walla and Kennewick, a water-power plant ating plants at Astoria, Walla Walla and Kennewick, a water-power plant at Walla Walla River, and combined steam and water-power plants at North Yakima, and on the Natchez River, 10 miles above North Yakima.

Of the properties purchased, the electric plant and water-power works at North Yakima, the electric plants at Pasco, Kennewick, Sunnyside, Mabton and Wapato, and the waterworks at Pasco and Kennewick were controlled by Robert E. Strahorn, of Spokane, and estimated to be worth nearly a million and a half dollars.

Mr. Sykes, president of the American company, who is in Spokane today, said:

"Our idea in getting into this situa-tion is largely to furnish abundant power for pumping water for irriga-tion purposes in the Columbia River, Yakima and Walla Walla Valleys.

"We are building at present a trans-mission line which will be a connecting link between systems of which Walla Walla is the center, and the system in the Yakima Valley. This will enable us, when there is a shortage of power in either center, to help out with power from the other plants."

Mr. Sykes is passing through Spokane on his way to New York.

Robinson arrived in the city a few days ago. During his stay he has been quartered in a downtown hotel. Yesterday during the absence of Mrs. Bishop and husband from their apartments, Robinson was unable to reach her by telephone and eager to meet her in the evening, dispatched a messenger with a tersely written note. The messenger found the addressee absent and left the note in a place where it could be readily seen. It was—when Bishop returned home before his wife. After scanning the contents, Bishop hurried to police headquarters for advice.

Unsatisfied with the counsel accorded Unsatisfied with the counsel accorded him, Bishop went out on a still hunt for Robinson. He discovered him at the entrance of the downtown hotel. No gore was spilled, but those who overheard the conversation that passed between the husband and Robinson state that it was of a toroid nature.

NEW FRANCHISE OFFERED

Ashland to Vote on Modified Street Railway Grant.

ASHLAND, Or., June 24 .- (Special.)-The Ashland City Council, following the recent action of the voters of the city in rejecting by a small majority the street railroad franchise asked by John R. Allen has directed the Mayor and Recorder to draw up a form of fran-chise acceptable to the people and, it is hoped, to Mr. Alien.

The people voted down the franchise first proposed, believing that it was too liberal, and that all such measures for such a long period of time should have greater safeguards for the city's interests.

Instead, Development of Water Power Would Be Welcomed-J. J. Browne Ridicules Idea of Huge Trust Controlling.

PENDLETON, Or., June 24.- (Special.) -Attacking the policy of conservation in general and declaring that it is crippling the manufacturing industry of the Pacific Coast and hindering development of the country, J. J. Browne, of Spokane, president of the Country and president of the Coeur d'Alene Bank of Tenat Company created d'Alene Bank Tenat Company created of Wenatchee, and president of the Coeur d'Alene Bank & Trust Company, created a sensation this afternoon at the session of the fifth annual convention of the State Bankers' Association, which began its sessions here this morning.

He was npt on the programme, and his speech was delivered near the close of the afternoon session, when as a prominent visitor, he was invited to address the convention. In response to the invitation he said the only subject on which he was prepared to speak was "Conservation."

Bankers Cheer Address.

He launched forth on such an eloquent condemnation of the policy so dear to the hearts of Pinchot and his followers that the audience of bankers was soon cheering him wildly. At the close of his address the dele-gates crowded around to grasp him by the hand.

Instead of fearing that someone would grab up our water-power sites and our mines, he said, the people of the Northwest should welcome with open arms anyone who should come out and build dams and erect factories and power-plants. He ridiculed the suggestion that there was any danger of any trust getting control of all the water-power avail, able in the United States, and instanced that to be found in the Columbia River basin and the Puget Sound, saying that if it should be developed at the rate of 19,000 horsepower a year it would require 240 years, or 500 years longer than from the Christian Era to the present time, to develop it all. Instead of fearing that someone Laurelhurst has so many advantages over any other residence scetion of Portland and so many exclusive features that it is almost impossible to make any comparisons. There is only one way that Laurelhurst can be appreciated, and that is after a visit to the tract. For instance:

The location of beautiful Ladd Park in the center of Laurelhurst is one of its most exclusive features. No person can visit this park without realizing the immense future demand for residence sites in this neighborhood. The rare natural advantages of Laurelhurst are another feature. The ground is gently rolling in character, making almost every lot a view lot, and the graceful curving boulevards afford such a comparison to the straight, stiff streets so common to other sections. Its high-grade improvements, its convenience to the business and shopping districts of the city, its proximity being only one and one-half miles from central Portland; its excellent car service, etc., etc.

Sherman, Tillamock, Clatsop, Lincoln, Hood River, Douglas, Wheeler, Columbia, Linn and Klamath. From outside the state, New York and Wisconsin are each represented by one student, while Washington sends four. One comes from India.

The largest registration is 45 in gran of S. F. Ball, principal of the Portland public schools. Forty are registered in primary methods, under Miss Catherine Montgomery, of the Washington State Normal School at Bellingham.

The attendance in the course in supervision averages about 25 and in bight.

The attendance in the course in supervision averages about 25 and in high school methods about 15. The round tables in supervision include practically the entire school. J. A. Churchill, Baker City's superintendent, gave ten lectures on supervision and management which have been received with great enthusiasm. Superintendent Powers, of Salem, Superintendent Strokton, of The Dalles, State Superintendent Ackerman and Superintendent Stockton, of Eugene, conducted the round tables.

One of the leading features of the session is the instruction in the industrial branches. Courses in methods of teaching agriculture, manual training, cookery and sewing are given both by lectures,

In the series of round tables on super vision in the Summer school course, the topic presented yesterday was by State Superintendent Ackerman, on "State Inspection and Graduation of High Schools."

The experience of various states was reviewed and three distinct plans presented. The first was that of inspection sented. The first was that of inspection by a member of the State University, a custom followed by a number of Eastern states. The second was a joint inspection by both the University and Agricultural College, and the third was by the State Department of Education.

The paper was discussed by Superintendents Churchill, of Baker City, Strange of The Dalles Gardner of Forest Grove.

of The Dalles, Gardner of Forest Grove, Baker of Creswell, Professor Fargo, of Salem and others.

The consensus of opinion was that the State Inspector should be appointed by the State Superintendent or the State Board of Education and that he should be appointed to the State Superintendent or the State Board of Education and that he should be read from any official conbe wholly free from any official con-nection with any state institution. Considerable opposition was raised against the plan of state examination of high school pupils, the principals and superintendents being of the opinion that they were the best judges of the pupils' fitness for promotion and for entrance to the higher institutions.
