Miss Marie C. Brehm Says She Is After Names of Property Owners to Use in Her Lectures-Will Take Part in Campaign.

"There are more than 400 'blind pigs' n Portland.

This was the positive assertion of Miss Marie C. Brehm, scientific temperance lecturer, of Chicago, who is in Portland as direct representative of the Presbyterian Church General Assembly's permanent committee on temperance in the United States. Miss Brehm has been in the city two weeks, lecturing in various churches and gathering intormation about the licensed and unlicensed liquor traf-

Pronibition does not foster 'blind pigs,' it only unearths them and brings them to light. I have a complete list of these 'blind pigs'; the addresses and the character of the places where they are conducted. I am now after the names of the property owners, and when they are obtained, I may read the list in public mentions if I think it the list in public meetings if 1 think it will help the cause along."

Miss Brehm is staying at the Seward Hotel, but will leave for California Mcnday. This Fall she will return to Port-land to assist in conducting the "Oregon Dry. 1910" campaign. During her ab-sence the information she desires will be collected and placed in her hands for use n her lectures and literature that may be distributed throughout the state. Miss Brehm has been a scientific temperance lecturer for 15 years.

Temperance Taught Scientifically. "I take the scientific and economic side of the temperance question," said Miss Brehm yesterday. "Science has proved the disastrous effects of alcoholic liquors on the fine organization of the human body. At the international congress on alcoholism in London last year, to which I was a delegate, leading scientists of the world gave reports of tests they made, all of which proved that alcohol is ruinous to the system.

Young People Hear Talk.

Miss Brehm addressed a massm ing of young people last night in Haw-thorne Park Tabernacle. The different organizations marched to the taberna-cle, their banners in the air.

W. H. Warren presided. After prayer by Rev. Mr. Jeffrey, of University Park, Miss Brehm made her address on the subject, "The World-Wide Temperance Movement." She described the great convention held in London which was attended by delay Goerz, both 18 years old, charged with playing in the place. The man had been warned by Weilbrook several days before. He was fined $10, while the boys were fined $5 each.

The speaker said that in Europe temperance reform was travel-ing even faster than in the United stinence. States, where she declared the states were going dry one by one. Miss Brehm closed her talk by a graphic description of the great temperance parade held in Chicago, when General Fred D. Grant marched at the head. Lively songs were sung and the campaign yell was given with enthu-slasm several times during the evening. It was announced by Rev. William Parsons that the next massmeeting in the tabernacle would be held Sunday July 10, when E. S. Watson would de-liver the address.

Every right-minded, right-thinking human being wants a home of his or her own, and to get a home, a real home, a home, a real home, a home in truth and fact, one must have a piece of Mother Earth. A city lot will do, but a home on such a site is a continued expense, while a home on a few acros of land will, within a few years, be not only self-supporting but will produce a revenue. A home on Banner Acres will not only mean a home but an income, if but a few dollars is expended annually for three or four-years to set it to fruit. In no other portion of the world can a few acres be made to earn so much on such a small start as fight here adjacent to Portland, and Banner Acres at $100 to $150 an acre is the best buy of all—the choicest acreage ever offered the Portland buyer.
