ACCIDENT MOST UNUSUAL

Painter on Pilot Crushed Between Train and Horse.

SOUTH BEND, Wash., June 29.—(Special.)—Flattened between the cowcatcher of a moving train and a runaway horse Joseph Brennen, a tramp painter who was stealing a ride to Willapa Harbor, sustained injuries last night which will keep him in the hospital for several weeks. Brennen jumped on the pilot of the night train into South Bend, at Ceres, riding without detection just a short distance this side of Menlo.

Here a horse, running wild, attempted to pass in front of the engine at a crossing. Becoming frightened, the animal dashed down the track in front of the train, but before the engineer could check the impetus of the heavy load be-hind him the crash came. Then for the first time it was discovered that there was a passenger from whom the conductor had received no fare.

With his legs crushed and his body with his legs crushed and his body badly bruised, the man's cries of pain attracted the attention of the men in the engine cab, and the train was stopped. Dr. Gruell, of South Bend, was on board the train and attended the man's injuries. He will recover. Brennen is 55 years of age, and has a wife and five children in Okiahoma City.

REBATE COMPLAINT MADE Milwaukie Resident Told Court

Order Still in Force.

SALEM, Or., June 29.—(Special.)—Alleging unfair treatment at the hands of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company, B. L. Hagemann, of Milwaukie, has complained to the State Railroad Commission. The complainant charges that the traction company re-fuses to give rebate checks on the 10-cent fare exacted from Milwaukie into Portand and that when a ten-cent fare is collected between Milwaukie and Portland city limits, from passengers not acquainted with the tariff, and an extra 5-cent fare asked inside the limits of the city, but a 5-cent rebate check is given. From this treatment the Railroad Comnission is asked to give some relief.
In reply to the complaint, the Commission has said that the matter of the bond and rebate checks has been fixed by the court and it is entirely beyond the control of the Commission, and that it is probable that no change in the situation will take place pending the final decision by the Supreme Court of the United CANYON CITY, Or., June 29.—(Special.)—Ben Hinton went on the stand this afternoon for the state in the Caseday murder case. His testimony lacked the sensational features expected. It was to the effect that Deputy Caseday gave him his gun at the place where Snyder was killed.

The state rested at 3 o'clock after examnining witnesses. Caseday will go on the stand in his own behalf in the morn-

MECHANICAL WORK THESIS

Oregon Students Build Complicated Switchboard as Graduating Test.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, city Or., June 29.—(Special.)—A feature of commencement week that attracted ing. much attention from the visiting alumni and students was an electrical witchboard on exhibition in Villard
Hall, designed and constructed by late to see his daughter alive.

Frank Swift and Edwin Platts, seniors in the engineering department, as a graduating thesis. The switchboard is for use in the electrical laboratory of the university, and is so designed that it will connect any machine in the room with any other by a single operation. There are 12 large dynamos and motors in the laboratory, and about as many more small machines, each capable of instant connection with any other and with either the direct or al-other and with either the direct or al other and with either the direct or al-ternating current supply wires through this switchboard. It is constructed on panels, each panel containing the con-nections for a particular form of ma-chinery. It is also so constructed that any future enlargements or additions to the laboratory can be connected by the simple addition of more panels. The switchboard, with the exception The switchboard, with the exception of castings and electrical indicators, was constructed entirely at the university, even the switch plugs being turned in the engineering shops. It stands about six feet high and is ten feet in length.

The work done by seniors in the en-gineering departments is always of this practical and useful nature. Another thesis that was especially noteworthy this year was a modern wireless tele-graph apparatus of an improved design,

Call Out for Primaries to Be Held July 9.

FARMERS FAVOR ASSEMBLY

Even in U'Ren's Own Home County, tion" Backs Movement-Delegate Appointment Made.

OREGON CITY, Or., June 29 .- (Speial.)-Chairman Livy Stipp and Secretary John F. Clark today issued the for the primaries to be held in every precinct in Clackamas County on Saturday, July 9, to select delegates to the county assembly, which will be held at Oregon City on Saturday, July

There will be 230 delegates in the assembly, the representation being based upon the vote for the Taft electors in the 1898 election. Each precinct will be given one delegate-at-large and one for every 15 votes or major fraction cast for the Republican Presidential ticket. The primaries will be held at 7 o'clock P. M. on July 9, and the apportionment of delegates to the county assembly follows:

Abernethy 7, Barlow 4, Beaver Creek 6, assembly follows:

ty Central Committee in calling a county assembly to elect 55 delegates to the state assembly, and some of the anti-assembly people are said to be at work in the country districts in an attempt to create sentiment against the county assembly with the expectation that the delegates to the county gathering will be hostile to the whole assembly plan.

If this movement is successful, which is doubtful, then, with a majority in the county assembly, that body will decline to send delegates to the state assembly and after passing resolutions or the state assembly and after passing resolutions. condemning the assembly plan, will adjourn. With the be'lef that such a movement is being pushed, the friends of the assembly probably will do considerable quiet active work next week in support of the position taken by the County Contral Committee.

County Central Committee.

It has been learned that the sentiment among the farmers is greater for the assembly plan in Clackamas Coun-ty that was originally supposed. In view of the fact that Clackamas is the home of Mr. U'Ren and that heavy ma-jorities were returned for the measures that he stands for, it was supposed that the sentiment against the as-sembly movement would be overwhelm-ing. But experienced men in political affairs say that there has been a change and the principal reason for the new aspect of affairs is simply that under the direct primary plan of operation, the nominations for county officers have all gone to Oregon City, and the people in the country are getting practically no representation in the Country are getting the country are ge tically no representation in the Court-

This is a condition that is indisput able and one that is not at all satisfactory to the country districts, and PARKER'S LETTERS USED while the farmers will deery any attempt to destroy the direct primary law, they think it should be amended was committed, Attorney John Jeffrey presented argument for the appellant, John B. Roselair, to the Supreme Court this morning. Roselair was convicted of murder in the first degree for the slaying of his wife in a lonely cabin near Hillsboro, in Washington County, May 5, 1909. Judge J. U. Campbell, in the lower court, imposed the death penalty on the defendant, from which sentence the appeal is taken.

In asking that the judgment of the lower court be reversed and the case remanded for a new trial, arguments for the appellant are that "the court erred in refusing to hear the preliminary proof as to the competency of the defendant's confession in the absence of the jury, and in hearing the same in their presence and over the objections of defendants' counsel"; also "the court erred in refusing to withdraw from the consideration of the jury the question of the defendant's guilt or innocence of murder in the first degree and in submitting said degree to the jury."

Another error advanced is that "the court erred in allowing the expert wit-

Another error advanced is that "the court erred in allowing the expert wit-nesses on insanity to testify as to whether or not defendant understood the nature and quality of his act in killing the deceased and the consequences of the same." Attorney for the defendant asserts that there is no proof that the design to kill was formed and matured in cool blood and not hastily on the occasion

The court also heard arguments in the case of the State versus James McAvoy, appealed from the Lane County Court, Judge J. W. Hamilton presiding. Deputy District Attorney George F. Skipworth appeared for the state and M. Vernon Parsons for the appellant. An indictment was returned by the lower court March 8, 1919, on the charge of assault with a dangerous weapon, on which a five-year sentence was imposed.

WHY "LICENSED LIARS?"

MOCK JEWELRY AUCTIONS THAT FLEECE THE PUBLIC.

Southern Oregon Man Relates His Experience in Portland at the Rose Carnival.

GRANTS PASS, Or. June 27 - (Special.)-To the Editor-I have no ticed some discussion in The Orego nian with regard to the gypsy women who are plying their trade of fortune-telling in the guise of phrenologists in the City of Portland.

I have noticed these women in your city and think the remarks I have seen in your paper are well placed and that the nuisance should be abated, but I cannot understand why this petty form of grafting is pounced on a fercelus. cannot understand why this petty form of grafting is pounced on so feroclously and other forms, such as auction selling of cheap jewelry, are receiving such little attention from would-be reformers. Is it because auctioneers pay more for a chance to plifer the unwary? I have seen them operating in Portland time and again, as, in fact, they seem to be doing in all large cities, and I hear no voice raised against them. I hear no voice raised against them. I have stood by and seen them "cheat the eye-teeth" out of one after another of have stood by and seen them "cheat the eye-teeth" out of one after another of unsuspecting persons by the most outrageous lying, coupled with the assistance of paid hirelings in the form of blind bidders, etc., and I am amazed to think a city boasting of a decent government would allow it to be possible for such low-down, depraved set of liars to get a license to fleece the public in such a manner.

I was in your city during the recent Rose Carnival and as I was sauntering along Sixth street one day, seeing an auction sale of jewelry under way, I stepped in to see how things were going. I was immediately invited to bid on a watch which was being lauded to the skies by the unprincipled liar who was auctioning the goods. I explained that I already possessed a good watch and didn't care to buy, but being pressed to do so I took a look at the watch, which was a cheap affair such as should sell ordinarily at $. or $4. It was marked "Locomotive Special 23 lewel adjusted nates the affair such as should sell ordinarily at $- or $4. It was marked "Locomotive Special, 23 jewel, adjusted, patent lever regulator and was represented to sell regularly at $40. I didn't bid, but saw it knocked down to an honest-looking fellow at $15. "Given away, not sold," said the licensed liar.

I stood and watched the outrageous robbing for the best part of an hour, but as the auctioneer saw I was not bidding he naturally desired my departure and to that end directed a few caustic remarks in my direction. I thought I would stick a while and see to what extent he would go, which I soon learned. He calmly called me a knocker and explained to the little crowd present that a knocker was a person with no known father. I naturally resented the insult and in the little melee that followed I learned that five persons out of the eight present that explained to the eight present. that five persons out of the eight pres-ent were directly interested in the day-light robbery the auctioneer was conducting.

I am anxious to see this letter in The Oregonian, of which I am a constant reader and which I have noticed always stands for a square deal.

I am always standing right square back of anything I have said and can always be found and will take the matter up with any one who may be interested at any time, and will stick for a square deal at any odds.

FARMER SUES RAILROAD Dams Change River Channel and Farm Ruined, Is Charged.

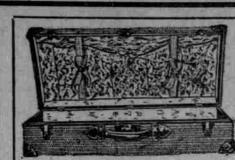

ALBANY, Or., June 29.—(Special.)—
J. R. Cartwright, of Harrisburg, today sued the Southern Pacific Company for $15,104.00 damages for the alleged ruination of a large part of his farm because the company maintains wing dams above its railroad bridge across the Willamette River at Harrisburg. Cartwright owns a farm of 400 acres adjoining the Willamette River at Harrisburg. In 1905 the railroad company constructed four wing dams in the Willamette and the complaint aileges that these dams have changed the channel of the river so that if now flows through the Cartwright farm. One tract of 49 acres is cut off from the remainder of his place by the new channel, he alleges, while before the dams were built it was all in one tract. Cartwright also says that two different channel, he alleges, while before the dams were built it was all in one tract. Cartwright also says that two different tracts, one of 14.36 acres and the other of 13.82 acres, have been ruined by wash and gravel and that the land now occupied by the new channel consists of 19 acres, not including 1½ acres now in a slough because of the shifting channel. He also asserts that there is as much as 204 acres more of his farm which is exposed and liable to be washed and destroyed.

The complaint asserts that this land is worth $300 per acre and Cartwright asks for $14,604 on account of the ruination of the land already rendered worthless because of the changing of the channel. He also demands $500 damages on account of having his lands divided by the channel and $1000 damages on account of drift and logs being washed upon his lands. He also asks the court to force the Southern Pacific to remove the wing dams and permit the river to go back to its old channel, which, he declares, would be the result if the dams were removed.
