Al Carson, the former Portland favorite,

Al Carson, the former Portland favorite, who is now pitching for Vernon, experienced much bad luck in the first inning of the first game he pitched against his old teammates on the Portland lot yesterday, losing 4 to 6.

Two hits, coupled with Carson's wildness, gave Portland four runs in the opening chapter, and Vernon was unable to negotiate a single score against the mystifying offerings of Vean Gregg.

Gregg disposed of the Hooligan crowd consecutively in the opening chapter, but Carson, who was given a rousing hand when he mounted the hill, and again when he came to bat in the third inning, was not so fortunate. He got away badly was not so fortunate. He got away badly by walking Buddy Ryan, and when Nor-man Brashear failed to cover first base on Olson's sacrifice bunt, both runner were safe.

Bill Rapps sacrificed, the ball being neatly fielded by Burrell, and while Bill went out at first, Ryan and Olson advanced to third and second, respectively. Finney's Decision Caused Run.

Umpire Finney, who pulls some freakish decisions occasionally, called a balk pan, while Olson went to third. Martinke hit a slow grounder to Norman Brashear, who tried to get Olson at the plate, but was too late. Gus Fisher than ambled on four wide ones, and both he and Martinke advanced a base each when Hetling went out at first.

This put it up to Casey and Casey made good by scoring both runners with a corking single to left. Billy Speas

Applicus Hogan had a half passet ban, and Casey was out on a belated try for second. Hogan recovering the ball in time to toss the Portland captain out. After that first inning both pitchers worked in grand style. Carson settled down and permitted no more scores and 'ut few hits.

Double Play Unique.

In the fourth inning Vernon pulled off a double play on the order of the unique. Fielder Jones, the ex-Chicago White Sox leader, who witnessed the game, says he never saw it done before. With one man out, Casey hit for two bases. Speas smashed one at Lindsay, who tossed to third ahead of Casey, and the runner promptly turned back to second. In the meantime, Speas reached first and ran down to second. Suddenly Roy Brashear accepted a toss from Burrell and, clapping the ball on Speas, threw quickly back to third, getting Casey, who had again tried for third station when the play was transferred to Speas. It was a quickly-executed play, and showed good judgment on the part of Brashear. teen or Seaton will pitch for Portland teday, while Vernon will use either Brackenridge or Hensling. Harvard and Yale Meet in Rowing Contest.

Winning Toss, Captain Wodell Chooses Slightly Smoother Water for Biggest Event of Day. Scarcely Any Betting.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 29 .- Sons of John Harvard and Elihu Yale are gathering for their annual rowing contests tomorrow on the Thames. Weather, wind and water permitting, the varsity four-oared crews and the freshmen crews will meet between 10:30 and 11:30 o'clock tomorrow morning, and the varsity eightoar crews between 5:30 and 7 o'clock in the evening. Tonight the hotels are full of under-

Tonight the note are full of under-graduates and alumni and their families. Captain Wodell, of Yale, won the loss for position today, and chose the west course on the New London side of the river for the varsity and four-oared events. Captain Waide, of Harvard, took the same course for the freshmen eight.

Yale Gets Advantage.

Under normal conditions Yale's position tomorrow will give her crews the advan-tage of slightly smoother water.

The Crimson supporters were confident today. As usual, Coach Wray, of Har-vard, will put on the river a heavy crew pulling a stroke as near perfection as months of practice can make it. The Crimson oarsmen outweigh their opponents seven and a half pounds per man, and it is this margin of brawn that they depend upon to put the Harvard shell ahead at the finish.

Even the Yale critics agreed that this was the condition that won for Harvard last year. To meet this defect John Kennedy, the veteran coach of Yale, had de-voted the four weeks of practice on the Thames to developing strength and stamina. Kennedy has not acknowledged that there is anything the matter with his stroke.

Light-Man Crew Is Belief.

He still believes in comparatively light nen, especially a stroke of medium weight possessing "sense of the rythmi-cal stroke," and he has developed a crew that sends a shell through the water as smoothly as a canoe, with an easy re-covery that scarcely interferes with the
