

BRADY WOULD NOT SIGN PLATFORM

Idaho Governor Wants Prohibition, but Would Accept Local Option.

PARTY LEADERS WARNED

Influence With Republicans, Says Statement, Will Be Used to Promote Cause of Temperance.

BOISE, Idaho, July 1.—(Special.)—If the Republican party adopts a party platform that favors the open saloon, Governor James H. Brady will bolt and refuse to stand upon it.

This is the warning given to the party leaders by the chief executive of the state in an interview given out by him today in which he virtually declares for state-wide prohibition, although he is favorable to a continuance of the local option law, should the Republican party see fit to endorse it, which now seems very likely.

The statement of Governor Brady is made public in answer to charges, some of which tend to cast reflections on his sincerity with respect to either state-wide prohibition or local option. Its coming at this time is considered as an olive branch. Those favorable to the repeal of the local option law and the reinstatement of a strict "regulation" measure had been living in hope that Governor Brady would refrain from making an out-and-out declaration on the liquor question. In all probability he will not have the support of this branch of the party.

The state-wide prohibition admirers of Governor Brady are jubilant, and local option leaders declare that it indicates his nomination.

"I am in favor of closing the doors of every saloon in our state," says the Governor, "and the men who know my political record know that I do not feel that I am greater than my party. I have no hesitation in saying that I will stand on the platform of my party, so long as it does not favor the open saloon, which condition, of course, cannot arise, but if it should arise, I want to say just as frankly that if nominated and such a platform were adopted, I would not accept the nomination as a candidate. I am for temperance and against the saloon, and I want the people to know exactly where I stand before nominating me."

"I am also just as anxious that the Republican party shall know that I maintain my position that the party is greater than any individual, and so far as my influence with the party is concerned, it must be understood that it is for the temperance cause and the betterment of the moral conditions in our state in every respect."

"There seems to be a great deal of misunderstanding about this term 'local option.' Local option simply means that the people have the legal right to vote on the question as to whether their county shall be 'wet' or 'dry.'"

"The brewers and saloon men are for local option the same as many other citizens, but what the people want to know from a man who is a candidate, is whether or not he is in favor of a county being put 'wet' or 'dry' when the question is put to an issue at a vote. I am in favor of putting everyone of them dry whenever the opportunity presents itself, and before we get through with this canvass every man in my judgment who is a candidate for office will have to answer this question."

Governor Brady's statement has served to draw the dividing line in the present campaign between the local option or prohibition and the liquor interest, for while B. F. O'Neil, the second active Republican candidate for the nomination at the primaries in August declares he favors a just test of the local option law, he is regarded as rather favoring strict regulation of the saloon traffic. Paul Clagstone, the third candidate, who figured as the strong candidate for second choice, through which he stands an excellent chance of election, is the "extra dry" candidate, standing squarely on the state-wide prohibition platform.

Aside from the fight for the Governorship, the greatest interest revolves around the Congressional race between Thomas R. Hamer, present incumbent, and Burton L. French. The "independent" fight is against Hamer because of his allegiance to Speaker Cannon.

WALLA WALLA, Wash., July 1.—(Special.)—A letter has been received by an officer at the local fort from the War Department to the effect that the troops now garrisoned here will be moved to the Boise Barracks in the late fall, in accordance with the department's plans to abandon Fort Walla Walla. This has been approved by President Taft.

Bids for the construction of new headquarters and troops' quarters were opened Wednesday by the Government at Boise and the contract has been awarded for new buildings to cost $100,000. Part of the First is garrisoned at Boise now, while four troops are stationed here. The grounds will probably be sold at public auction.

amas County Fair Association held a meeting at the fair grounds at Canby Monday and transacted much important business. This board is composed of M. J. Lazelle, O. D. Eby, of this city, and J. W. Smith, of Mackburg.

The upper floor of the big exhibit building will be reinforced. This will have to be done, as there are many more exhibits to be on the floor this year than last.

A platform will be erected on the grounds between the pavilion and the grove, where the campers are stationed. Band concerts will be given each evening, and some of the best speakers in the state will be heard during the three days' session. The band concerts and speaking in the evening will be the features of the fair. Everything will be in readiness at the opening of the fair on September 25.

The main floor of the pavilion will be an up-to-date refreshment parlor, which has been needed. The baby show, which was such a drawing card last year, when fifty babies were entered for the prizes, will also be another feature of this year's fair.

On the second floor will be the dairy department, which will be under the supervision of M. S. Shrock, of Hubbard, deputy food commissioner.

SALEM, Or., July 1.—(Special.)—In a letter just forwarded to Attorney-General A. M. Crawford, the State Railroad Commission has established a precedent by ordering the discontinuance of service on the Corvallis & Alsea River Railroad Company between Corvallis and Monroe, in Benton County. That the line is unsafe for travel and has entirely ignored its duties as a common carrier are some of the allegations made in the letter to the Attorney-General.

The action of the Commission is the result of a complaint filed by A. W. Helm & Sons, of Monroe, Or., and cessation of traffic is demanded until such time as the road is rehabilitated. Inadequacy of service is alleged in the Williams complaint, and members of the Commission assert that upon investigation of the matter they found that they should not order an improved service on the road until such time as the line had been put in a safe condition for travel.

It is said that the Commission has repeatedly requested President Carver, of the road, to make it safe for travel, but these requests, say the Commissioners, have been just as repeatedly ignored.

When the line is made safe, the Commission says they will issue an order that adequate service be maintained.

The following excerpts from the letter sent by the Commission to the Attorney-General indicate the attitude of the Commissioners in asking for cessation of traffic on the road:

In the judgment of this Commission, the line is unsafe for operation, and is entirely inadequate for service as a common carrier to provide a safe and reasonable service. We, therefore, request that you take such steps as in your judgment are best calculated to bring about the immediate cessation of all traffic on the condition of the road.

That as speedily as possible the roadbed shall be placed in a safe condition for operation.

Third, That the company be compelled to live up to its duties as a common carrier by closing service between Corvallis and Monroe with some degree of regularity.

JURY AXES BLAME

Coroner's Jury Says Fuller Killed Conductor.

YOUTH LISTENS UNMOVED

Even When Bloodstained Shirt Is Shown, Lad Betrays No Emotion.

Operators Plan to Raise Fund for Him.

VANCOUVER, Wash., July 1.—(Special.)—That J. H. Stewart, the Northern Pacific freight conductor, came to his death from a gunshot wound in the hands of E. Merle Fuller, was the verdict of the coroner's jury, composed of A. J. Collins, Harry G. Smith, George Hausch, A. J. Parrish, Frank Butterfield and D. K. Webster, today. Stewart was killed at Ridgefield yesterday morning by Fuller, who was the operator there.

Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Fuller, parents, and A. C. Fuller, a younger brother, arrived last night from their home at South Bend, but they did not see Fuller until this morning. The mother is grief-stricken over the rash act of her boy, who she says, was more or less a good, model young man, and never before caused her worry.

It is understood that all the operators on all of the railroads of the Northwest have been asked to assist Fuller in a financial way. It is thought a large sum will be raised to fight his case. There is always more or less rivalry and feeling between operators and trainmen.

The body of Stewart was taken to Sumner, Wash., tonight by W. M. Scribner, an uncle, who cared for him when a child. The funeral will be held Sunday, and as many railroad men as possible who knew Stewart will attend.

SALEM, Or., July 1.—(Special.)—Mass meetings will be held all over Marion County tomorrow for the purpose of selecting delegates to the County Assembly convening in this city Saturday, July 9.

Delegates to the County Assembly will be selected by secret balloting at mass meetings. These meetings are to be held in the afternoon in the country precincts, but in the cities and towns they will be held principally in the evening.

Marion County will send 76 delegates to the state assembly in Portland. Intense interest is manifested throughout the county in the assembly, and an enthusiasm is growing daily. County Chairman W. L. Jones, of Jefferson, who has been in the city for several days, making trips into various portions of the county, reports that general sentiment is strong for the assembly and believes that assembly candidates will receive a whooping majority from the voters.

Tomorrow's mass meetings are expected to furnish an excellent criterion of the feeling towards the assembly plan held by the voters in the various precincts serve to show that they will be largely attended.

There seems to be perfect harmony prevailing among the believers in the assembly, and party leaders are confident of its success.

GROWERS SHOW FEELING

ASSOCIATION ACCUSES GROCERS, WHO MAKE REPLY. Merchants Deny Charge That They Exact High Prices and Pay Less Than Market Rates.

ROSEBURG, Or., July 1.—(Special.)—As a result of statements charged to members of the Umpqua Valley Horticultural Society and Fruitgrowers' Association, at a meeting a few days ago, in which they accused members of the Roseburg Merchants Protective Association of unfairness in buying farm products, a war between the organizations is raging. Neither faction is to be outdone and the local papers are publishing columns of matter in the interest of one and attacking the other.

At the fruitgrowers' meeting, W. J. Harris, president of the organization, and C. E. Quinn, a member, brought up the subject of employing a manager to arrange a market for the products of the individual members. Mr. Harris said that he believed it wise to have the manager act as purchasing agent, and thus save paying the exorbitant prices alleged to exist in this city. He declared that the merchants of Roseburg were taking undue advantage of the fruitgrowers and were charging from 10 to 15 per cent more for supplies than the Portland merchants. He also said that prices paid for farm products were far short of those paid in the more important markets throughout the Northwest.

Mr. Quinn cited several instances in which he alleged the local grocers had acted unfairly. The merchants have answered the fruitgrowers saying that they were paying the market price for all farm products and further were carrying many of the growers on their books until the crops materialized this fall. They said also that they were buying fruit for which they paid the market price, which would not be accepted by the commission men in the larger markets.

DEAN HALLOWELL HONORED

Idaho Professor Gains Recognition in English History.

LEWISTON, Idaho, July 1.—(Special.)—Professor Harold A. Hallowell, dean of the Lewiston State Normal School, has received word from London that he has been honored by election as corresponding member of the English Historical Association. Professor Hallowell is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania. He is the only corresponding member of the society in the United States.

The English Historical Association is exclusive in its membership. Professor Hallowell's election has come as a recognition of his interest in English history and his teaching. He is considered an authority on the social history of the English people. His private library is complete on certain phases of English history, and contains several original editions of books which are scarce and valuable, among them being Stow's "Survey of the Cities of London and Westminster," first published in 1598 and reprinted in 1759.

HONEYMOON HALTS WITH ARREST. JACKSONVILLE, Or., July 1.—(Special.)—Her honeymoon rudely interrupted by the Sheriff, Edna Schumpf, nee Armstrong, a bride of one day, today occupies a cell in jail here. The girl was employed in the United States Hotel here previous to her marriage, and while there it is alleged that she stole some clothes from Mrs. Charles Wilcox, also employed there. She was haled before the Justice Court yesterday on complaint of Mrs. Wilcox and bound over to await action of the grand jury.

SPECIAL TRAINS GOING

PORTLANDERS TO VISIT SALEM CHERRY FAIR THURSDAY. Commercial Club Prepares for Excursion in Appreciation of Salem's Kindly Attitude.

Portland will have a special day at Salem's annual Cherry Fair, which will be held this year on July 7, 8 and 9. The first day has been set aside for Portland day and hundreds of people of this city will attend next Thursday.

The Portland Commercial Club will organize an excursion to Salem and special trains will leave the Oregon Electric depot at the foot of Jefferson street Thursday afternoon. The invitation to go is extended to the general public. To all who accept a treat is promised, for the Oregon cherry admits of no rival for perfection and beauty. To see millions of beautifully colored Oregon cherries at their best is admitted to be worth a much longer trip than to Salem.

Jobbers and manufacturers of Portland, together with the rank and file of business men who appreciate Salem's kindly attitude toward Portland at all times, want to show their appreciation to the people of the Capital City. It was decided to hold the excursion under the auspices of the Commercial Club, and the matter was discussed at yesterday's meeting of the promotion committee of that organization. "Salem was represented here during the Rose Festival in a manner that was a credit to the city," said Chairman G. F. Johnson of the committee, "and in return for her splendid spirit the people of Portland should participate generally in this excursion to the annual Cherry Fair on Portland day." The decision to run an excursion followed a long-distance telephone conference with A. F. Hofer, secretary of the Salem Board of Trade, after which Portland day was announced. Secretary Hofer, accompanied by a committee of Salem citizens and officials of the Cherry Fair, will come to Portland next Tuesday to invite Portland people formally to attend the annual festival.
