Defeated Fighter Leaves Reno Nervous and Shrinking From Public Gaze.

WAS THERE PREMONITION?

Sporting Authority, After Interview, Declares White Man Was Unstrung by Belief He Would Lose-Little Remembered.

RENO, July 5.—James J. Jeffries, whose reat ring career came to a pitiful end when he fell before Champion Jack John-He is headed toward his alfalfa night. He is headed toward his alfalfa ranch in Southern California and there, in the quiet of his fields, surrounded by the hills that he loves, he will try to lorget. In the meantime he will spend a few days in San Francisco, straightening up his business affairs.

The Jeffries car was hitched to the regular evening train. He motored into the city from his camp at Moana Springs with Sam Berger and other members of with Sam Berger and other members of his party an hour before train time and hid himself as soon as possible from the curious gaze of the crowd that still throngs the streets of the world's fight

Never Again Same Man.

In his every stumbling movement, in his bowed head, in the depths of his somber eyes, in his nervous rubbing of his swollen face and blackened eye, in his almost timid shrinking from the public, the great Jeffries showed that his defeat had dealt him a vital blow and that he never again would be the man he was a few hours ago.

There was slience as he passed through the streets. Men rushed forth from the gambling tables to gaze, but no word of taunt or derision was thrown at him. Those who saw the fight, and that indudes nearly everybody in Reno, know that Jeffries did his best,

The train was lost in the red glow that the sun shed over the Sierras. Jeffries was gone into history. In the other direction, somewhere in the desert to the test, a hilarious band of negroes was journeying with the banner of the world's champion floating from the car window.

Fans Crowd to Trains.

Reno all last night and all day, trying to get 10,000 visitors back home. Thou-sands stood for hours, grips in hand, at the railroad station, waiting to be the first to clamber into the next train. Other thousands gave it up and de-cided to wait over for lighter traffic, As a consequence the gambling houses were running full blast and the main street presented the aspect of a frontier min-ing camp at the height of a gold strike. A determined effort was made by the lowers in the fight betting to recoup their losses and at last accounts there were many who will have to wire home for more money. The financial condition of more money. The financial condition of hundreds, hit by the fight and the games,

There was an air of weariness per-vading the crowds. Berry Loses $35,000.

The restaurants were recovering Irom the famine, the freight trains were alive with clinging hoboes and thieves sent out of town by the ever-vigilant state police. The barrooms were filled with listless, thirst quenching groups, the poolroom men were settling up their bets. The betting at Tom Corbett's official poolroom was not as heavy as had been expected. Cor-bett, however, declared himself satis-fied. The lack of Johnson money was a surprise. The largest individual loss on record in the poolroom was that suf-fered by Clarence Berry, the California oll operator. He bet $25,000 on Jeffries.
Among the sporting men left here
there is not a dissenting opinion as to the justice of the fight's end. Many have nothing but their return tickets to show for their judgment on the outcome, but that Jeffries ever had a chance with the wonderful negro no one can be found now who is willing to admit.

Black's Skill Uncanny.

Johnson's coolness, his repartee in the ring, the terrible power of his punches, his marvelous judgment of distance and his almost uncanny quickness and boxing skill is the talk of the town. Men are living the fight over round by round. As long as they live they never will forget the pitiful spectacle of Jeffries at the mercy of the black panther in the 15th round. What was the matter with Jeffries? some asked. A well-known sporting authority who talked with Jeffries this merning answered this question.

morning answered this question Jeff Whipped Before Fight.

"He was whipped before he left Mo-ana Springs for the ringside," said this man. "He felt that he was to fall before the colored fellow and it was too much for him to face. As the hour approached his nervous condition became such that his mind lost all control over his body. It began Saturday and in-dicated itself in various ways. Sunday night he did not sleep a wink, but walked about the room and looked out of the windows. Yesterday morning he ate little breakfast. When he sat in his corner in the ring Choynaki as he wrapped his hands exclaimed: "'Why, Jim your hands are as cold as ice and clammy. "His seconds thought even then he was a little nervous and that he would get over it in the fight.

Groans Express Public Sentiment-"When I asked him today what he remembered from the time he entered the ring, he replied: Well, I remember sitting in the corner and getting up and not being able to get my arms up right. I really do not remember much about what I did."

all out for the insignificant score of 38 runs. Coppinger and Smith bowled beautifully and were responsible for this poor batting exhibition. The Vice-Captain's men shaped quite differently. Batting freely from the start their opponent's score was quickly passed and it was not until the second century seemed a certainty that the last wicket fell. Coppinger, Smith, Cumming and Shipley shaped well, the former es-pecially playing a fine game, punishing equally severely all of the bowlers op-posed to him.

In their second inning the Captain's

ST. HELENS, Or., July 5 .- (Special.) With the aid of Tom Seaton, of Mc-Credie's Portland team, and Roy Willett, of Happy Hogan's Hooligans, the Rainier Baseball Club managed to take the fast St. Helens team into camp at Rainles on the Fourth. The St. Helens boys, or a past occasion, had demonstrated the superiority of their local nine as com-pared with Rainler, and Manager Lebire had a bad attack of cold feet when it came to meeting them again with purely local talent.

MARSHFIELD, Or., July 5.—(Special.)—In a 20-round fight yesterday afternoon at North Bend, between Bobafternoon at North Bend, between Bobby Evans and Danny O'Brien, of Portland, O'Brien was given the decision on a foul in the 16th round. There was a large attendance. In addition to the gate percentage there was a $250 side bet, and the fight decided the welterweight championship of the Northwest. A big celebration was held at North Bend. The baseball team of that city defeated Myrtle Point and the North Bend Fire Department beat Marshfield in a tournament. Races were held here. Flovora won the half-mile dash. Teddy won the saddle-horse race, Martinmas the middle dash and Ray o' Light the trotting race. The meet closed today.

He was not told until today and when he heard the name of Johnson he turned over with his face to the wall and groaned.

This expresses the general sentiment fairly well.
