BEN BRANCH, "TAILOR."-Ben Branch, day jailor at the police headquarters, has a "grouch." That fact alone is of ina "grouch." That fact alone is of in-terest, for Branch is ordinarily of a happy disposition and seldom gives way to bursts of temper. But yesterday an incident occurred which tried even his placid demeanor. In common with the other officers of the force, Branch had ordered one of those queer little bell-crowned caps which are to be the pre-vailing rage in police circles this Summer. Branch's cap was to bear the title of his valing rage in police circles this Summer. Branch's cap was to bear the title of his office, blazoned on its front and it was so ordered. Yesterday, when Branch went to get the head-plece, he found that a "t" had been substituted for the "j" with which "jailor" is usually spelled and if he accepted the cap he would an-nounce himself to all-comers as the tailor of the force, while if he refused it, he must be "out of style" among his spick must be "out of style" among his spick and span comrades. Branch decided upon the latter horn of the dilemma, but he is not pleased

STRODE IS EXONERATED .- Victor Strode was exonerated in Justice Court yesterday of a charge of assault and battery upon Beatrice Mills, and was discharged by the court. The incident which caused Strode's arrest occurred several weeks ploy of the Portland Railway, Light & ago when he was driving a motorcar on the Sandy Road, accompanied by a party of young people. They passed a car driven by E. L. Mills and occupied by Mrs. Mills and her daughter. Someone in Strode's party threw a handful of cherries into the other car and one or more of them struck Miss Mills with consider-able force. Mills turned his car and gave chase, colliding with two other cars while so doing. He caused Strode's arrest for running a car without a license, but that charge was promptly dismissed. He then filed the complaint alleging as-sault and battery, which was dismissed yesterday.

WOMAN WORKS OVERTIME. - Charged with working an aged woman more than the ten hours a day as permitted by law, C. C. Waterman, a restaurant-keeper Laurelwood, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Constable Lou Wagner. The woman is Maria Smith, about 50 years old. Her son, W. H. B. Smith, says that he is willing to provide for his mother and has made many efforts to have her allow him to do not hot the more conditioned.

FIGHT WILL CONTINUE - The Mount Tabor Improvement Association will not drop the objections raised to the tuber-culosis sanitarium George W. Turner has established at East Yamhill and East Sixtieth streets, notwilhstanding his dec-laration that the establishment would be so conducted as to be no menace to the health of the community. W. A. Laidlaw said yesterday that the matter would first be submitted to the Mayor and Council and Board of Health in the hope that there will be found some way to prevent the sanitarium being made permanent at Mount Tabor. Mr. Laidlaw said that if the Council cannot afford relief, the matter would be taken into court. "We intend to make a fight against it," said Mr. Laidlaw.

TROUBLE MAKER CLUBBED.-Severe club-bing by Patrolman Helms was needed to subdue George Albert, of 289 Fifteenth subdue Georgo Albert, of 289 Fifteenth street North, who resisted the officer when he went to quell a neighborhood row Monday afternoon. It is complained by neighbors that both Albert and his wife were quarrelsome and used bad language to other persons in the vicinity, and Helms went to make an investiga-tion. He asked for Mrs. Albert and was talking to her when Albert came down the steps and attacked him. Helms placed the man under arrest, but he still showed fight and continued trying to strike the officer until struck with a mace and handcuffed, when he went quietly to the station.

MAN SHOT IN LEG .- Two shots were fired at Peter Staveac, an Austrian, by an unknown man in a saloon at 30 North Fourth street yesterday morning about 11 o'clock. Both bullets struck him in the leg, inflicting flesh wounds which are not considered dangerous. The assailant then fled and efforts to locate him yesterday were unavailing. A large number of men were in the place at the time, but their statements were vague and conflicting. Some say that Staveac had used abusive language to the stranger and had slapped his face. Mounted Patrolman Vanovern was called and sent the wounded man to the hospital, where he was treated by City Physician Ziegier,
