GIRL DROWNS AT RESORT

Heroic Youth Saves One, Nearly Dies Trying to Rescue Friend.

CAMP MEEKER, Cal., July 8.— Edith Johnson, a recent high school graduate of San Francisco, aged 16. was drowned in the river here yesterday afternon after a heroic attempt at rescue by Roy Slattery, a San Fran-cisco boy, who had already rescued Elsie Sellinger after she had twice disappeared under the surface. The trag-edy was enacted in full view of the 2000 persons summering at this resort. Slattery was himself saved by Edward Phillips, an advertising solicitor of San Francisco, who dived as Slattery was rising to the surface for the last time after being released from the clutch the drowning girl whom he had shield to rescue.

Shortly after the two girls had dived into the lake, Miss Selinger with a shrike suddenly sank, clutching Miss Johnson as she went down. Slattery dived to the bottom, dragged Miss Sellinger to the surface and pushed her to shore. Then he dived for Miss Johnson, who clung to him. He tried to fight her off beneath the surface, but the girl held tight until her life was extinct and Slattery himself would have drowned but for the heroic efforts of Phillips to save him.

Closing of Door in China Seen in Russo-Japanese Compact.

BERLIN, July 8.—The liveliest interest is felt in official circles regarding the Russo-Japanese agreement, the text of which has not yet been forwarded to the German government. The maintenance of the status quo, which the agreement is ostensibly intended to secure, is considered most desirable.

The most delicate point in the agreement refers, according to the semi-

It is pointed out that America ob-tained from China concessions for the Algun-Chinchow railroad, and the ques-tion is now raised here whether the agreement is intended to oppose America's unwelcome intrusion in the Russo-Japanese sphere of influence. If so, the agreement is taken to mean the closing of the open door.

CHICAGO, July 8 .- Sympathizers with sheet metal workers were believed by the police to be responsible for a dynamite explosion that wrecked several tons of steel window frames yesterday on the premises of the Mc-Cormick works of the International Harvester Company at West Thirty-first and Rockwell streets. OREGON PROJECT

State May Get Slice of Reclamation Fund Through Aid of Secretary.

SENATORS ARE INACTIVE

Application for Allotment Comes Only From House Members-Demands of All States Total Four Times Bond Issue.

its Senators, is today left at the mercy of the President, and in competition with states represented by live, energetic and fighting Senators; Senators who appreciated the full purpose of the bond bill, and who worked for it in the hope that their state would receive adequate benefit when the bill became a law. Those Senators, not satisfied with passing the bill, are now working for allotments, and will get them. This is the competition Oregon faces, and it must rely largely upon the good graces of Secretary Ballinger, backed by the two Congressmen. The House members have filed their requests and recommendations; Secretary Ballinger has assured them of his disposition to do the right thing by Oregon, and there the matter rests. If the Oregon Sen-ators are aware that their state is clamoring for any portion of this big fund, that fact is not apparent from any visible evidence in the hands of the President at Beverly, or in the office President at Beverly, or in the office of the Secretary of the Interior.

Under the terms of the $20,000,000 bill, none of the money therein provided can be alloted for or expended upon new projects; all must go to the completion or the extension of projects now under way. Therefore, there are but two projects in Oregon which are eligible to receive any part of this money, the Klamath and the Umatilla. It is a safe prediction that no part of the $20,000,000 will be set apart for the $20,000,000 will be set apart for the Klamath project, for that is under the ban, and only recently was greatly diminished for what the Government considered good and sufficient reasons. That part of the Klamath project now in an unfinished state will be com-pleted, but this can be done out of moneys in the regular reclamation fund.

Umatilla Has Chance. a number and resulted in a panic, 100 persons being drowned.

News was brought by the Bellero-Because of this situation the Umatilla project is the only one in Oregon likely to receive an allotment out of phon of the seizure of a big shipment of opium on the Weir steamer Kumeric at Manila, followed by the arrest of the Chinese compradore, caught when selling ten tins of opium to a Filithe new fund, and that allotment, if made, will be for the west side extension, which contemplates the irrigation of about 60,000 acres lying west of the Umatilla River, and south of the Columbia, immediately adjoining the present Umatilla project. The original project is now practically complete; a very small additional expenditure, out of moneys already allotted, will put on the finishing touches, without necessitating any drain upon the $20,000,000 fund. To build this west side addition will call for an expenditure of $2,550,000, or an average cost per acre of about $45. This is $50 less than the cost of the east side project, which is one of the most expensive yet built by the Reclamation Service, and yet one of the most promising. Privately-owned land under that project has sold within the past month for from $250 to $300 per acre, exclusive of water right, and if this land can command such a price and pay $85 for water, Secretary Bullinger believes that across the Umatilla River, can certainly pay $45 for water. Therefore, he regards this extension as a good and a safe in-vestment for Government funds.

Roughly speaking, half of this west side tract is in Government ownership and half is held by various private interests, some of it being railroad land. The land in private ownership must be subdivided and sold under the terms of the reclamation act, if the extension is built, and under the terms of the bond bill, the vacant Government land must be held by the Government until the irrigation system is completed and water is neady for distribution. The bond bill has made it impossible for settlers in the future to go on any Government project until everything is in readiness. If, out of deference to the wishes of Secretary Ballinger, the President de-cides to make an allotment for the Umatilla extension, he may set apart sufficient money to complete the west side project, or, as seems more likely, he may make available sufficient money to start the work and carry it shead for a year or two, looking to future con-tributions to the fund to complete it.

Other States Exert Pressure.

The allotment of the full $2,550,000 would not give to Oregon all it would have been legally entitled to had section 3 not been repealed, and this fact may weigh heavy with the President. But on the other hand, he is being subjected to terrific pressure from influential Senators from other states—Senators who deserve great credit for the passage of the bond bill—and he may be forced to compromise in order to meet these demands.

As an illustration of the pressure that

As an illustration of the pressure that is being made on the President, Senator Carter of Montana has already applied for $10,000,000 or half of the whole amount made available by the new law. He probably will not get all that be asks, but he is certain to procure a very liberal allowance for Montana. The Milk River project needs $1,000 000 and the Sun River project needs $4,000,000, and the Sun River project $5,000,000. Both are in course of construction, and Carter has bid for the full amount required to complete them both. Let it be remarked, in passing, that both these projects are along the Great Northern Railroad; the Great Northern, which is largely responsible for Carter's election, and to which Carter is now looking for re-election, has demanded that he get a big slice of the $20,000,000 that he get a big slice of the $20,000,000 for these two projects on its line. Carter needs the support of the Great Northern, for without it he will not be returned. Therefore it is natural to presume that he will overlook no opportunity to get every available cent for the projects on the line of this great railroad. And yet Carter, together with Smoot, is largely responsible for the reduction of the bond bill from $30,000,000 to $20,000,000 over the protest of Senator Borah and others, for it was Carter who told the President $20,000,000 was ample, and the President $20,000,000 was ample, and the President, knowing Carter to be chairman of the irrigation committee, he knew what he was talking about, and told the House committee he would accept $29,000,000 as a compromise. He did this on Carter's advice, and now Carter asks for just -half of the full amount made available by Congress. Wyoming Wants Half.

Wyoming, like Montana, is able to werry along if it gets $10,000,000. While this state is one of the smallest contributors to the reclamation fund, and account, but makes it clear that he will not do so in the future.

The departure will work a hardship equitably entitled to little in the way of benefits, and under the old law en-titled to nothing more than it has already received, it presents one of the most feasible projects in the West that must be considered under the bond bill, and for that project alone asks $6,000,000. The Government has built the great Pathfinder dam in Wyoming, and behind it stored enough water of the North Platte River to irrigate not only 120,000 acres in Nebraska (which land is now receiving water) but enough water to irrigate 150,-000 acres in the Goshen Hole country in Wyoming. Here is a project where the reservoir is built and the water is available, and the expenditure of $5,000,000 will irrigate this additional 150,000 acres in Wyoming with water that is now stored, and going to waste, because there is no and going to waste, because there is no distributing system to get it on the land. There is no question but that a large share of the $20,000,000 will be given to this project, especially as Senator Warren, of Wyoming, is chairman of the milly tary committee, and the project is to be examined and reported upon by a board of Army engineers. In addition the of Army engineers. In addition the Shoshone project in Wyoming, which has already cost nearly $4,000,000, is asking $4,000,000 more for extensions, so as to irrigate 110,000 acres not included in present project. The Shoshone project, however, is being built more rapidly than it is being settled, there is today much land under water that is not under cultivation, and Wyoming may have to be con-tent with $6,000,000 for the Pathfinder or Goshen Hole project, though Senator Warren, an active man, will never be content with a single allotment when he content with a sing was asked for two.

Idaho Requests Large.

Then take Idaho. If this $20,000,000 should be apportioned according to the deserts of the Senators from the various states, Idaho would get a larger alloi-ment than any other states, for Senator Borah not only conceived the idea of a bond issue, but did more than any other three Senators to pass the bill, and all this while his colleague stood ready to back him up. Idaho, however, is not asking as much as Montana or Wyomling. On the Minidoka project the Government On the Minidoka project the Government has spent approximately $3,500,000 and irrigated 100,000 acres. But $1,030,000 is asked to build the south side pumping system which will irrigate an additional system which will irrigate an additional 30,000 acres, or with an allotment of $5,600,000 additional, 100,000 on the north side can be irrigated by pumping and by storage. The larger project is not likely to be undertaken at this time.

The Boise-Payette project in Southwestern Idaho has cost about $3,750,000 to date. It is on this prjoect that the bulk of Idaho's allotment will be expended, for it will require about $5,000,000 to complete the unit now under way, which embraces 244,000 acres. At the inside, Idaho wants three or four millions out of the fund, and, as stated, from the standpoint of merits and deserts, is entitled to all that, and more, Then there is Texas with its Rio Grande project, to which the Government is committed under its treaty with Mexis committed under its treaty with Mexlco. That project calls for more than $8.000,000, and something must be contributed for that, though not all, out of the $20,000,000. The Grand Valley project in Colorado is another to which the Government is morally committed, and that is $4,000,000; Washington, with its limitless irrigation resources in the Yakima Valley, wants only $14,000,000 to complete the vast system now in course of construction, and at that, the Benton unit is not included. Of course, Washington does not expect to get $11,000,000 out of a total of $20,000,000, but with Senator Jones and Secretary Ballinger both working for the Yakima Valley, that section of the Evergreen State will not be neglected. not be neglected

Need Is for $80,000,000.

To go through the official estimates one is staggered at the amounts neces-eary to complete possible extensions of existing projects, any and all of which are eligible to receive allotments out of the $20,000,000 fund. The following table shows the amounts estimated to be nec essary for this purpose:

.. $79,005,000 pon to spread out $20,000,000 where he could readily use four times that amount and come within the requirements of the bond issue law. For it is shown that ex-isting projects may be extended to the extent of $80,000,000 in round numbers and all this would be in accordance with the statute.

If Oregon got all that it is estimated could be used on both projects, it would receive less than $7,000,000 out of a possible $80,000,000, but when there is only $20,000,000 to go round, its quota must necessarily be cut, especially since the President is no longer bound by law to give to Oregon at least 51 per cent of the morey is her already contributed to the money it has already contributed to the reclamation fund, or 51 per cent of $7,860,000.

State Must Get Busy.

The total expenditure in Oregon, ac the total expenditure in Oregon, according to the latest reports, or rather the total allotment to date, is $1,320,000 for the Umatilia project and $2,334,000 for the Klamath, or $3,654,000 in all. Not all the benefits of the Klamath allotment accrue to Oregon, part being in California so that on any equitable basis Oregon. to get a square deal, should receive out of the $29,000,000 at least enough to
