Big Demand for Trade School Graduates, Says Friedel.

EDUCATOR BACK FROM TRIP

Principal of Portland School of Trades Finds More Positions Open Than There Are Graduates to Step Into Them.

Trained graduates of trade schools are so greatly in demand throughout the country that they can step into lucrative positions immediately after leaving the schools, while at that many more positions are open than there are graduates to accept them, according to Dr. Charles Friedel, the newly-appointed principal of the Portland School of Trades, who has just returned from an extensive trip throughout the East.

This was one of the surprising facts about the schools which Dr. Friedel noted in the course of his trip. He visited all the leading trade schools in the country, among them being the Stout Institute, of Menominee, Wis.; Armour Institute, of Chicago; Carnegie School of Polytechnics, of Pittsburgh; Philadelphia School of Trades and Williamson's School of Trades, in Philadelphia, and the Milwaukee School of Trades at Milwaukee.

"In some instances the demand is so great that many graduates receive calls at once to three or four positions," said Dr. Friedel. "I know of one case in which a graduate of the Stout Institute at Menominee received six calls to different places where a trained man was badly wanted. I found the directors of all these institutions full of enthusiasm and very busy. In addition to their regular task of supervising instruction, they keep many stenographers busy answering the thousands of inquiries received relative to the work."

"In the Williamson School and at Stout Institute many applicants for admission are turned back for want of room. So keen is the desire to get into Williamson that there are four times as many applicants as can be selected."

Dr. Friedel is enthusiastic over the prospect for the future of the Portland School, and expects to infuse new life into the work here.

CLERKS GIVEN EXPENSES

Government at Last Allows Men in Mail Service 75 Cents Daily.

After a fight which has been carried on for many years, United States railway postal clerks have been allowed an expense account not to exceed 75 cents per day, beginning at the expiration of the first 12 hours they are on a run.

In addition to being among the most poorly paid of Government employees, the boys who handle the mail sacks are often called upon to make trips covering as many as two days and nights. Many of them see their homes only once a week. On all these trips the men have heretofore been called upon to pay all their own expenses.

Under the new arrangement, the mail clerks will continue to sleep on a heap of mail sacks in the mail cars, but will be allowed to purchase three 25-cent meals each day at the expense of the United States. The order was received yesterday at the office of Postmaster Merrick, and will be placed in effect at once. The mail clerks believe they will be able to secure an increased allowance as the years go by, and regard the present allowance as a means to that end.

The Portland Division of Railway Mail Clerks yesterday received a complimentary letter from the Commercial Club, as a result of the sending of 1000 roses to San Francisco for decorative purposes. The California division was tendering a banquet to a high officer of the mail service, and was unable to obtain flowers, until the Portlanders came to the rescue. C. C. Chapman, manager of the promotion committee of the local club, regards the letter as the Portland clerks as the very best sort of advertisement, and thanked them for their aid in that direction.

NEW TRAIN SERVICE.

The Great Northern Railway now operates three trains daily from Portland to Tacoma, Seattle, Vancouver, B. C., and intermediate points—10:00 A. M., 5:00 P. M., 11:30 P. M.—from Hoyt-street station, Eleventh and Hoyt. Tickets, parlor and sleeping-car reservations at city ticket office, 122 Third, and at depot.

HOSPITAL SITE OFFERED

OAK GROVE LAND DONATED FOR TUBERCULOSIS SANITARIUM.

Sister Theresa Would Secure Aid to Build Big Institution for Consumptives.

Recent agitation, which was brought about by the proposed establishment of a tuberculosis sanitarium at Mount Tabor by George W. Turner, prompted Sister Mary Theresa, manager of the St. Theresa's Open-Air Sanitarium of Oak Grove, to offer a fine site for the erection of a large tuberculosis hospital adjoining her sanitarium at Oak Grove.

Oak Grove is located near Pine Station, on the electric line between Portland and Oregon City. Three acres of land constitute the site, which Sister Theresa explains was bought with money left her by her mother, and which is covered with trees, roses and shrubbery. There is also a spring she says, where cold water can be obtained the year around.

"The present sanitarium," said Sister Theresa, "can accommodate only about 18 inmates, but if financial aid could be obtained it would be possible to erect a sanitarium on the site adequate to care for over 500 tubercular patients. If such an institution is installed I will maintain it myself. With the bishop Christie's consent I could bring 25 or more sisters here who would be willing to devote their life to the work."

Doors Always Open.

"Since the opening of the sanitarium about two years and a half ago, its doors have been open to all those afflicted with consumption, rich and poor, those in the early stages of the disease, and the incurables. The highest rate that has been paid me by a patient was $15 a week, and from that the prices have ranged down to nothing. I have taken care of many who have never reimbursed me in any way, and where a patient dies penniless I see that a decent burial is given."

"So far the sanitarium has never paid expenses and I have kept it up with my own money. At present I have 12 patients. To assist me I have another sister, two trained nurses, two men and a cook. The grounds are ideal for a tubercular sanitarium, and I am willing to give what financial aid I can to anyone who will promote the establishment of such an institution."

Sister Theresa explains it is not because she expects to make anything from the project that she is willing to donate her land for such a use, but that the grounds are well adapted for such an institution and are so located as to prevent the public from being annoyed or imperiled in any way by coming in contact with the patients. Here, she says, the environments are conducive to the recovery of those afflicted with the disease. The location is only half an hour's ride from Portland.

Appeals for Aid Made.

Sister Theresa says she receives numerous communications from persons requesting to be admitted to her sanitarium. In many cases the afflicted ones being without means. From Albania came a letter, the sister said, from a man who is in the first stages of tuberculosis. He has four children and no means whatever. Sister Theresa has promised to receive him at the sanitarium free of charge. Another case is that of Mrs. C. B. Caldwell, of Long Creek, Or., who has written the sister to gain admittance to the sanitarium for her daughter. The letter reads as follows:

"Dear Madam: I want to know if you will accept a cottage patient. My daughter, aged 17 years, is in need of a change. I intended to keep her here this summer, but the doctor says she must have a change immediately. I am a widow, and have to work for all I get, so cannot afford to pay a very high rate. I am living on a rented farm and have no other income except the produce from the ranch. Can you not wait until I can sell some grain or hay in the Fall? Please state what terms you can give me."

"Oh, sister, have mercy and pity me. It breaks my heart to have to part with her, even for a short time. She has been my constant companion and it will seem like working with my right hand bound behind me, to get along without her. Give me the hope of having her come home cured and well once more. Poor little girl is so discouraged today. Pity us both, and say she can come and be cured if possible, and give the best terms you can. God will bless you for your kindness. I cannot even have the poor consolation of taking her to you myself, if you accept her, as the money will be needed to pay her expenses."

To this communication the sister replied, "Come at once."

Soreness of the muscles, whether induced by violent exercise or injury, is quickly relieved by the free application of Chamberlain's Liniment. This liniment is equally valuable for muscular rheumatism, and always affords quick relief. Sold by all dealers.

Within 15 years, according to Gordon, of Astoria, the world's crop of raw cotton beans has increased from 75,000 to 205,000 tons.

IRISH GREEN WILL WAVE

CITY TO BE GAILY DECORATED FOR COMING HIBERNIANS.

"Erin-Go-Bragh" and American Colors to Intermingle in Honor of Big Convention.

Contracts were let by the convention committee of the Ancient Order of Hibernians for street decorations which are to be placed in the downtown district in honor of the National convention of the order, which convenes in Portland next week. At the same time a committee composed of T. Cullen and B. Maher was appointed to visit every business house in the city and suggest proper decorations of the buildings. The Commercial Club also interested itself in causing the city to put on a holiday appearance for the 16,000 visitors who will be here, and on Thursday the matter will be called to the attention of a meeting of business men to be held at the clubroom for the purpose of considering Portland as "a convention city."

"One of the things which actually must be realized by Portlanders is the necessity of decorating and showing the very greatest attention to delegates and to the many conventions which more and more are coming to Portland," said Publicity Manager C. C. Chapman. "The Irish green should wave from every building in a profusion of bunting and flags. By his means and through the enterprising efforts of our visitors, we will have them boasting for Portland for years after this visit. I hope it will not be done in a half-hearted way."

The street decorations to be placed will consist of a combination of the Irish and American flags. They will be draped on the poles which support guy stays of trolley wires, the emblem of "Erin Go Bragh" facing the street and the Stars and Stripes being turned toward the sidewalks. Portland merchants are said to have secured a large supply of Irish flags and green bunting in anticipation of the demand.

The committee which will visit business houses every day until all have been seen will present a unique proposition. They are offering to put up the decorations themselves in case the merchant claims not to have the time, and to charge only the actual cost of the material and labor. It is believed that the great importance of the matter of decorations will so appeal to the business men of Portland that the city will be a flutter of green before Saturday night. The first delegates will begin arriving on Saturday and Sunday, while the officers of the National convention will be here Friday. They will be received at Vancouver and brought across the river in a rose-decorated car.

"We hope to see the small business houses and the rooming-houses decorate as liberally as we believe the larger stores will," announced President Beckwith, of the Commercial Club.

The entertainment committee of the Hibernians yesterday stumbled on the fact that every excursion steamer running out of the Port of Portland and making the Upper Columbia River trip, will next week be upon a regular schedule between ports. The committee has advertised a scenic ride on the river and the views of the trip were a potent factor in securing the convention. An effort will be made by the commercial organizations to "make good" on the promise. It may be necessary to bring in a boat for the purpose.

"DEATH AUTO" MORTGAGED

New Claim Appears Against Car in Which Two Plunged Into Slough.

Latest of the tribulations of the "death auto," which carried Frisco Day and Mabel Monto into Oregon Slough, a month ago, is a mortgage against the machine for $350, which came to light yesterday. The mortgage appeared at the office of Constable Lou Wagner and showed his security, as a warning to the officer that its precedence must be regarded in any proceedings taken by him to realize under the various suits against the machine.

This constitutes the four legal proceedings against the ill-fated car, which belonged at the time of the accident to Mrs. H. M. Gersh, a real estate dealer, living at 569 East Thirty-fifth street. An attachment against the car for a garage bill was filed by Sam Hollenbeck the day after it met disaster. More recently Mrs. Gersh sued Hollenbeck for $2000, alleging that he had allowed the car to leave the garage without her permission. About the same time, Fred DeRock, the diver who recovered the automobile from the bottom of Oregon Slough, filed suit against Hollenbeck and Mrz. Gersh jointly for $200 for his services. All of these proceedings are pending, and are further complicated by the discovery of the mortgagor. It is said that the testimony in the much-tangled litigation will be decidedly interesting.

A piece of railroad construction was recently completed by which the island of Jagan now has a system running throughout the full length of the isle. The total length of the line is 1750 miles and the distance from north to south of the island can now be covered in five days and nights.
