he register in the first inning of yesteray's pitchers' battle between Scaton, for home team, and Jack Lively, for Oakand, and that lone tally proved the only ore of a 1 to 0 game. It was a redot battle from start to finish, and exement was prevalent throughout. And as San Francisco lost, Portland now leads the league.

Oakland made a strong bid for the game in the ninth, and McCredle made just as strong a bid against the visitors' chances, for the Portland leader jerked commy Seaton with two on and two out in the final chapter, and substituted Vean Frezg, who first filled the bases by walkng Happy Bill Hogan, substituting for Maggart, and then sent the fans home full of enthusiasm and delight by strikng out Don Cameron, one of the visiting leam's most reliable hitters.

Beavers Get Into Game.

It was truly a great game, and right off the reel the home team pulled a field-ing stunt that "took the house by storm." Swander was the first Oaklander to face Tom Seaton, and he very quickly planted a single in left field. Welverton tried to sacrifice, for after a couple of trials, he lined a short fly to Olson, who whipped the ball to first base in time to double Swander before the runner could return. Maggart ended the first inning by grounding to Portland's star shortstop

The home team then took a sashay at the batting game, and was successful in registering the only run of the afternoon. Buddy Ryan earned his way into the park for a week by slamming out a single to Cutshaw, which he easily beat to first. sacrificed cleverly, going out, to Cameron, and Buddy took

"Roaring Bill" Rapps then proved the "pinch-hitting kid" by slamming a single to right field on which Ryan traveled an the way to the register, while Bill took second when Swander heaved to the plate to stop the score. Rapps went to third on Fisher's out, but Martinko's best effort was a long fly to Maggart which did

After the first inning, both teams struggled along during the balance of the game without the plate being endangered. In the third inning. Wares, the first man up, was safe on a boot by Casey. Mitze sacrificed him to second, but he tried to "play hog" and take third, which resulted in his being doubled at the difficult corner on a relay from Hetling to Rapps, which disposed of Mitze, and then from Rapps to Olson, covering the bag. It was a well-executed play, and the crowd demonstrated its approval.

In the fifth inning Don Cameron worked Seaton for a pass, and then stole second, which looked like a dangerous period, especially as he was the first man up. However. Tom rallied and fanned out Carroll, Cutshaw and Wares in succession, amid the frantic clamoring of the excited fans, who really appreciated the pitcher's feat.

Change Made in Ninth.

The ninth inning proved an occasion for much switching and substituting of players. Wolverton sent Thomas in to bat for Mitze, and the substitute catcher walked. Lively hit to Olson, forcing Thomas at second. Swander then hit to Hetling, who tossed to Casey ahead of hristian, who was running for Lively but Casey, in trying to complete a double play, tossed wildly to first and Swander went to second.

Wolverton worked Seaton for a pass and immediately took himself out of the game, substituting Harkins as a base-runner. With Maggart, a left-handed batsman up, McCredie chased Seaton and sent in "Southpaw" Gregg. Wolverton then sent Bill Hogan to bat in place of Maggart, and Hogan worked Gregg for a pass, filling the bases. This was an exciting climax, but Gregg proved equal to it by striking out Don Cameron, and the Steen and Christian probably will be

WORD COMES FROM EAST

Educator Tacitly Agreed to Head Local Institution While Here Recently, and Is Expected to Begin Duties in September.

BRUNSWICK, Me., July 13 .- Professor William T. Foster, of Bowdoin College, who this Summer is teaching in Columbia University, has accepted the presidency of Reed Institute, a college to be built at Portland, Or., from now amounting to $3,000,000. The institute will be a college of liberal arts and science. Professor Foster, who was born in Boston, in 1879, is one of the youngest college presidents in the

Although a formal acceptance of the presidency of the Reed Institute has not been received from Professor Foster by the trustees of the Portland institution, the announcement from Brunswick, Me., the seat of Bowdoin College, is accepted by the trustees in Portland as correct.

Professor Foster visited Portland in June, spending five days in the city dis-cussing the Institute plans with the trustees, and investigating educational conditions in the Northwest. At that time he was formally tendered a call to the presidency of the Institute.

Professor Foster was very much impressed with the opportunities in Portland for building up a college of arts and sciences and so expressed himself to the trustees. He at that time tacitly accepted the post, but deferred making it a formal acceptance until he could secure release from his connections with Bowdoin College.

Dr. T. L. Eliot, chairman of the board of trustees, has received a letter from Professor Foster saying that he had reached home and that Dr. Ellot would hear definitely from him in four or five days. Dr. Ellot said yesterday that he presumed Professor Foster's formal letter of acceptance of the presidency of the Institute was now on the way West.

Foster to Arrive in Fall. Professor Foster, it is expected, will

Professor Foster, it is expected, will reach Portland about September 15 and will at once take up the preliminary work that must necessarily devolve upon the head of a college that is just upon the head of a college that is just being established.

It is the hope of the trustees that the first college year of the Reed Institute may begin in the Fall of 1911. The work will probably be inaugurated in one building which will be a unit in the general plan of uniform architecture, in which provision will be made for the prospective growth of the institution during the next 50 years or more. About $150.000 of the income from the Reed estate has been reserved for the first building. The architects have not yet been selected.

have not yet been selected.

The trustees of the Reed Institute feel that they have been fortunate in securing Professor Foster as president.

"We have the assurance from the highest educational authorities," said Dr. Eliot, last evening "that we could not have selected a man better quali-fied from the list of available men. In extending the call to Professor Foster we had the encouragement and in-dorsement of Dr. Wallace Buttrick. secretary of the General Board of Edu-cation, and Professor Foster is also highly commended and indorsed by ex-President Eliot, of Harvard University, and by the officials of Columbia University. At the time Professor Foster was invited to come to Portland to look over the field he was being sought several Eastern colleges, and also the Uhited States Government in the Department of Education."

Native of Boston.

Professor Foster is a native of Bos-ton and 32 years of age. He gained a preparatory education in Roxburg High School and graduated from Har-vard University with honors in 1901. Later he took a post-graduate course at Harvard on the science of education and attained a degree of master of arts. For a time Professor Foster was an instructor in Bates College, in Maine, and left there to become a member of the faculty of Bowdoin College. At the faculty of Bowdoin College. At the latter institution he became pro-fessor of English and education, which chair he now holds. In his work he has served on many important faculty committees, particularly those con-nected with secondary schools. For several years Professor Foster has been an acceptable lecturer in Sumner schools and is now engaged in that work in Columbia University. He has written many articles on education in general, among which is a textbook on argumentation and debate which has en adopted by more than 100 colleges, Kentucky Man Thinks He Forged Name to Certificate.

TRIAL WILL BE HELD SOON

Witness to Remain at Klamath Falls Until Case Is Disposed Of-Unless Prisoner Repudiates Confession Trial Will Be Short.

KLAMATH FALLS, Or., July 13.-(Special.)-F. C. Bell. assistant cashler of the First National Bank of Lexington Kentucky, is here to appear as a witness in the case against Thaddeus E. York, said to be a clever bank swindler. It was Bell's name that York is said to have signed to the certificate of deposit for $20,000 on which the American Bank & Trust Company paid York over $8000, only discovering that it was a forgery after York had left the country.

Mr. Bell said that while he never saw York before he met him in the local jail, he is quite positive, from the two for-geries, that he is the same man who secured money in Chicago several months ago on a certificate of deposit on the Lexington bank and with the assistant cashier's name forged thereto. This certificate was for $11,000 and after trying to pass it at one of the Chicago banks where he was unsuccessful, the swindler secured $900 on it from an attorney with whom he became acquainted. York denies that he was the man who turned York has waived all right to a prelimhary hearing before a Justice of the Peace and will go direct to the grand jury, which will probably convene the first of next week. In the meantime, Assistant Cashier Bell, of the Kentucky bank, will remain here to testify before the grand jury and possibly until after York's case is taken care of in the Cir-

York's case is taken care of in the Cu-cuit Court.

Court will probably be called again next Monday to finish the business of the June term, which was interrupted be-cause of Circuit Judge Noland and Dis-trict Attorney Kuykendall having to go to Lakeview to try Ike Harrell, charged with killing the Newell boys.

It is thought York's will be one of the first cases to come before the court when it convenes again as he has designated his desire to have his case over with as early as possible. The witness to prove the forgery to the certificate of denosity will remain against the possibility deposit will remain against the possibility of York's going back on his confession and causing the court to have to try his case. If he reiterates his confes-sion, however, the formality of a trial will be done away with and all the court will have to do is to pass sentence. There is a great deal of speculation on the part of the people as to the attitude of the bank and state officials in handling York. in case he repeats his confession. His restitution to the bank of all the money he got from it and for the expense it was to in running him down, is thought by many to be intended by York to draw for him a very light sentence and possibly a parole without his having to serve in state's prison. Both the having and state in state's prison. Both the bank and state officials declare, however, that he will be dealt with just as severely as though he had "stood pat" on the whole deal.
