VATICAN IS LIKE SUPREME COURT

Father Yorke Speaks on "Pope as Independent Ruler" at Armory.

CEMENTING NATIONS, PLAN

Armies of Italy Cannot Protect "Holy Father" Is Reason Why Latter Is Prisoner in Vatican, Declares Noted Prelate.

The Pope was compared to the Suprema Court of the United States by Rev. Peter C. Yorke, S. T. D., in his address at the Armory Sunday night on "The Pope an Independent Ruler." In explaining the manner in which the Pope of Rome formerly exercised temporal power. Father Yorke said that as it is for the Supreme Court of the United States to judge, if occasion should require, whether or not President Taft, the head of the Army, has committed acts worthy of his removal from office, so it is for the Pope, whom he spoke of as the supreme moral power on earth, to judge whether the kings of the sarth had committed acts worthy of their dethronement. He spoke of Andrew Carnegie's dream of universal peace, and said if so wealthy and influential a man as he could dream of it, surely the Pope had a right to do so. it, surely the Pope had a right to do so.

it, surely the Pope had a right to do so. It was with the dream of establishing such harmony, he said, of cementing all nations of the earth together, that the Popes began to extend their temporal power. What brute force had been unable to accomplish, in conquering the Germans and Slavs, he said, the successor of St. Peter, by moral suasion, accomplished.

At this point reference was made to

At this point reference was made to the Johnson-Jeffries prizefight, the speaker saying that with the state all is determined by brute strength, but that the church decides all by moral

The speaker declared the Catholic Church does not aim at a union of church and state, that the church has its sphere and the state its sphere, and that in matters which pertain to the spheres of both there should be harmony. The reason there is harmony in the Catholic Church, he said, is because there sits in Rome the See of cause he said so.

"I don't believe there is a Protestant preacher in the United States who really knows the meaning of a separation of church and state. (Applause.) Neither do I believe that their fol-lowers, and they have many, especially here in the United States, know the meaning. That's rather a large con-tract to undertake to prove, but I will make the attempt. The Catholic Church says that as we are composed of body and soul we have interests of body and soul we have interests which belong to both, and that it is for the church to care for the one and the state the other. It holds that the state and the church are two separate

(Applause,)

"In one sense there is no temporal power in the Church of Rome. But there is a great difference between theory and practice."

Here the speaker compared the Pope to the Supreme Court, and the Vatican to the District of Columbia. He compared the downfall of the Roman Empire and the overrunning of Europe by the bar-barians to what America would be if for 300 years the Japanese, before accepting Western ideas, should have oversum America. The power of the church would remain as long as there was a priest, he said, though the Government had been abolished. And he said the archibited abolished. And he said the archbishop would remain as long as a parishioner remained in this district.

"The reason the Pope is a prisoner in the Vatican," said Father Yorke, "is because the armies of Italy cannot protect him. They couldn't even protect the body of the dead Pope, when he was about to be buried, from the toughs and hoodiums. If the King of Italy couldn't protect a dead Pope, how could be pro-
